Lincoln's Short Letter.
Said John D., Sr.
Thorough Banditry.

—By ARTHUR BRISBANE—

(Copyright, 1928.)

DR. ECKENER will fly back with his great Zeppelin the latter part of next week. He has confidence in his ship, and says it needs the round trip.

MEANWHILE, Commander H. C. MacDonald, an English flyer, started for England last night, from this side, taking off in a tiny Moth plane of 100 horsepower and fuel for 35 hours of flight.

Commander MacDonald, only 28, might save his courage for something more useful. But the world will wish him well in his gamble with death.

ON June 12, 1848, Abraham Lincoln wrote to William H. Herndon a short letter, telling what he thought about Zachary Taylor's prospect of election.

The letter was sold yesterday for $3,000.

Lincoln, 37 years old when he wrote that letter, would have been amazed had he known what would happen to it.

At that time he would have been glad to get the job in the Interior Department for which he applied unsuccessfully. Fortunately he didn't get it, for it might have taken him out of politics.

IN so-called "investment trusts," formed here and there, you are invited to buy stock and told, "We buy assorted stocks, using our magnificent judgment, buying the best. Your big or little investment will increase in value as the stocks we buy increase in value."

"So they will, IF the stocks increase in value.

YOU know the story about John D. Rockefeller, Sr., urged to buy stock in a small railroad, because a big railroad was going to lease it for 99 years and guarantee dividends.

Mr. Rockefeller inquired, "Did he happen to mention who was going to guarantee the guarantor?"

Some investment trusts undoubtedly will produce excellent returns. Some WON'T.

Be careful in selecting an investment company to handle your estate.

The mere word "trust" doesn't mean anything.

THOROUGHNESS is the cornerstone of modern banditry. A young woman, wife of an alleged burglar, who could tell a story dangerous to criminals, will never tell it on this earth. She was found yesterday morning with her throat cut and her head battered in.

CHICAGO contributes four bombings in different parts of the city. The bombings represent a new form of industry, the "racketeers" exploding bombs in three tire and battery shops and one shoe shop in the effort to frighten such concerns into paying tribute.

THIS campaign had not been able apparently to interest President Coolidge very deeply, or at least not deeply enough to make him enter the campaign actively.

But on Tuesday night Gov. Smith told a big crowd in Sedalia, Mo., and millions of people via the radio, that President Coolidge's economy is nothing but a MYTH. He quoted figures, using all his intensely convincing methods in presenting Mr. Coolidge and his Republican party, in plain English, as a "BLUFF," so far as economy is concerned.

President Coolidge will stand anything in reason, but not EVERYTHING. And Gov. Smith by that statement may find that he has done what nobody else could do, in starting Mr. Coolidge as an active worker in this campaign.

If that happens, it will not be bad news for Mr. Hoover.

IF news is "what never happened before," this really is news.

In Germany a flying machine traveled from Berlin to Dessau with the controls in the hands of an artificial "iron man" made of metal. A new gyroscopic steering device worked perfectly.

No hand but that of the robot touched the controls, except when taking off and landing. The man of iron sitting rigid in his seat held the control until the machine was above the landing field.

Men used to say, "flying will never be practical." What would they have said about a man, artificially made, steering a flying machine through the clouds?

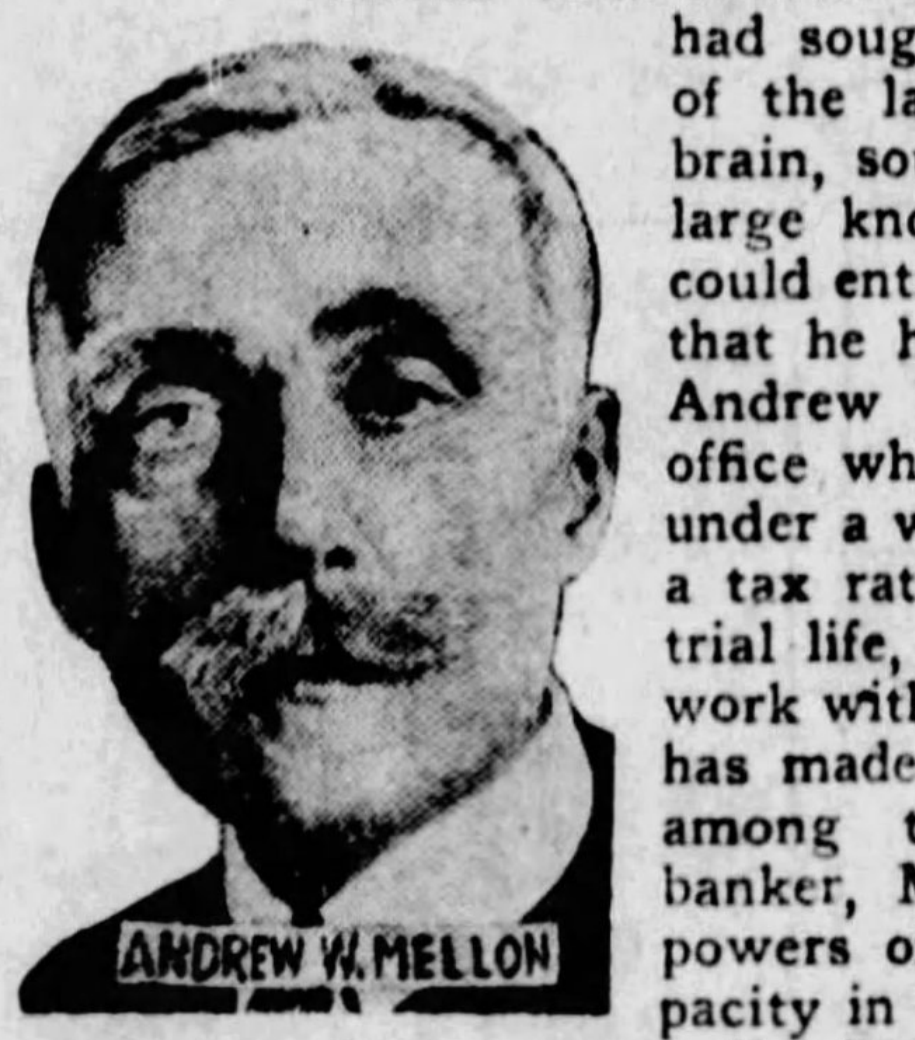
MEXICO is a dangerous place for rebels. The latest news tells how Florencio Sanchez, a captured rebel, betrayed five of his followers, to save his own life. Having told what he knew he was immediately executed. His associates were executed, also, by shooting.

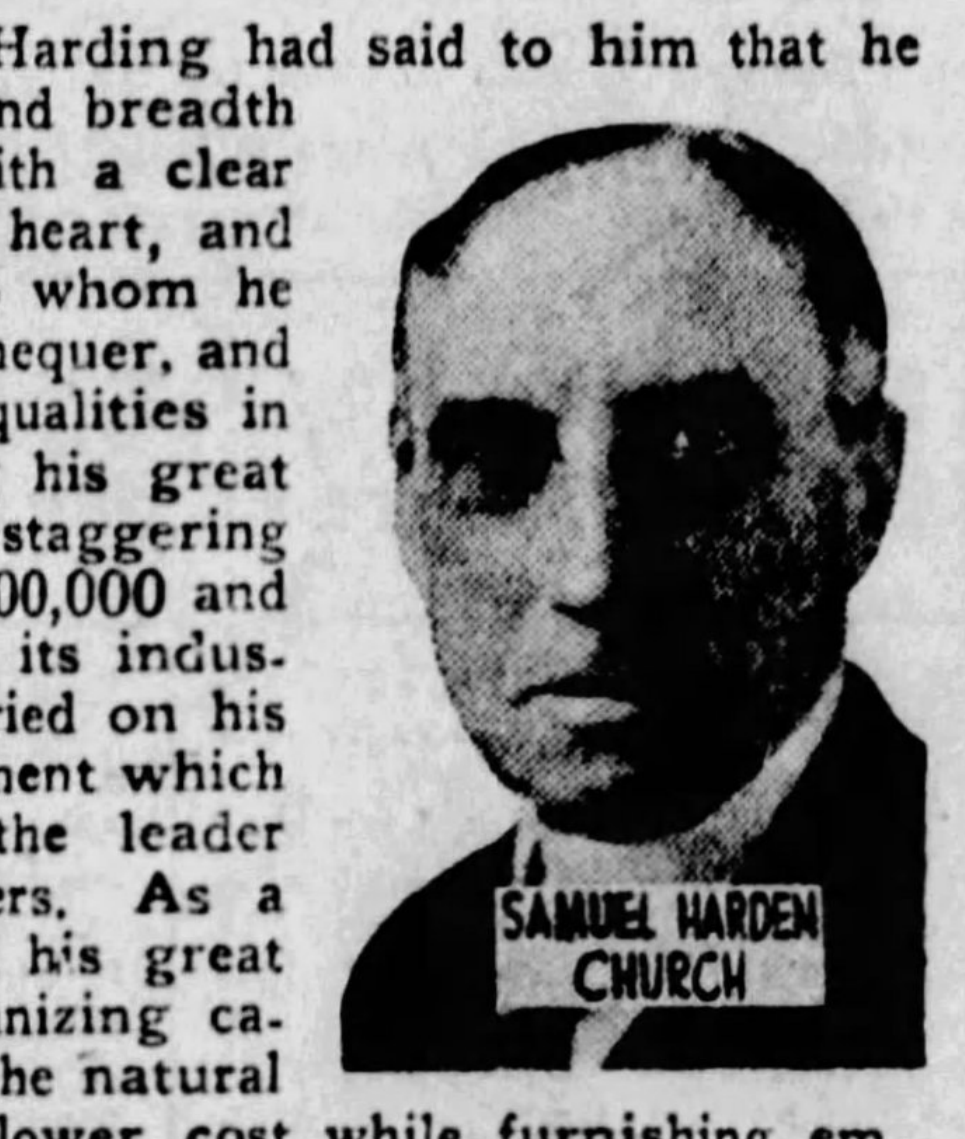
According to an Associated Press dispatch, the colonel in charge of the firing squad said to the men about to die, "You are going to be executed for serving as instruments for those who foster your ignorance—the clergy."

A religious war is not pleasant.

Mellon Lauded as Financial Genius at Founder's Fete

INTRODUCING Secretary of the Treasury Andrew W. Mellon, the principal speaker at the annual Founder's Day exercises of Carnegie Institute this afternoon, Col. Samuel Harden Church, president, said:





"Senator Knox once told me that President Harding had said to him that he had sought over the length and breadth of the land for that man with a clear brain, sound judgment, stout heart, and large knowledge of affairs to whom he could entrust the national exchequer, and that he had found all these qualities in Andrew W. Mellon. Taking his great office when the country was staggering under a war debt of $21,000,000,000 and a tax rate that was crushing its industrial life, Mr. Mellon has carried on his work with a record of achievement which has made him incomparably the leader among the world's financiers. As a banker, Mr. Mellon has used his great powers of executive and organizing capacity in the development of the natural resources of his country, distributing the product at lower cost while furnishing employment to many thousands of men and women. He has helped to restore a hundred institutions from insolvency to prosperity, building up discouraged men who had lost their confidence with their credit, and in some cases demanding from them no other security than that of stable character. In his public life, if shafts of malice are aimed at him, we find him, like Brutus, armed so strong in honesty that they pass by him as the idle wind. Always a lover of peace, if political foes attack him we see him spurring into the lists thrice-armed because he has his quarrel just."

NORTH SIDE BAN ON FOSTER UPHELD

Without a record vote Council today sustained Clifford B. Connelley, librarian of the North Side Carnegie Library, in his refusal to allow the Workers party to hold a political meeting in the music hall, adjoining the library, next Sunday. When the "noes" were called there was an emphatic response from Councilman P. J. McArdle.

In the concluding hearing of the councilmanic investigation as to Connelley's reasons for refusing the use of the hall, Connelley was the principal speaker. The Workers party had presented its case at a meeting yesterday and decision was withheld until today for Connelley to amplify his reasons.

He said he did not object to meetings being held by any political party whose purpose was to establish reform by the use of the ballot. He insisted the petitioners are not, in good faith, a political party, but an organization formed primarily to preach openly principles established by the Communists of Russia, aimed to break down the Constitution and overthrow the United States government by force of arms. He exhibited literature including the charter of the party to prove his case.

Councilman McArdle pointed out that the party received recognition of the state in putting the names of its candidates on the ticket for President. He said both the state

Jaworski Must Come Back To Die

Paul Jaworski is coming back to Pittsburgh. The country's most daring killer, the former choir singer, who shot his way out of the Allegheny county jail 14 months ago, will be returned to that same jail to spend what will probably be his last days. The electric chair awaits him.

The decision to remove Jaworski from Cleveland, O., where he is a prisoner in the Cuyahoga County Jail, was made today by Prosecutor E. C. Stanton, of Cleveland, after he had conferred with District Attorney Samuel H. Gardner, of Allegheny county.

Stanton arrived here this morning. Before agreeing to relinquish Jaworski, who was captured after a gun battle in which he slew a policeman in a Cleveland restaurant two months ago, Stanton wanted some assurance that Jaworski would pay the penalty of his crimes. Gardner, presumably, was able to give such assurance.

Extradition papers to remove Jaworski from Ohio to Pennsylvania have already been prepared. They will probably be presented to Gov. Donahey, of Ohio, in Columbus tomorrow.

FOUR MONTHS' DELAY

If Jaworski is executed, it will probably be four months or longer before the event takes place. He had never been sentenced in Allegheny county becaus of an appeal he filed for a new trial. He was found guilty of murder in the death of I. L. Gump, a guard, in the holdup of the Pittsburgh Terminal Coal Company payroll at Mollenauer, December 24, 1925, but before Judge J.

UGLY CAPITAL STREETS HIT BY MELLON

No street in any capital can compare with Pennsylvania avenue, Washington, for "sheer ugliness or lack of architectural dignity," Secretary of the Treasury Andrew W. Mellon said in his address this afternoon at the annual Founder's Day exercises of Carnegie Institute.

"Never, in the days of either the ancient or the modern world, has anyone seen before a great triumphal way bordered, throughout most of its length, by gasoline stations, lodging houses and Chinese laundries," he said.

Secretary Mellon, speaking on the subject "Developing the Nation's Capital," told of the plans to beautify Pennsylvania avenue and the entire city of Washington. He was introduced by Col. Samuel Harden Church, president of the Institute. The invocation was pronounced by the Rev. Dr. Albert Edward Day, of Christ Methodist Episcopal Church.

Gina Pinnera, dramatic soprano, sang three numbers, accompanied by Giuseppe Bamboschek. Dr. Charles Heinroth, organist and director of music at the Institute, played the overture of "Rosamunde."

Secretary Mellon's prepared speech says in part:

"I am glad to be here for this occasion. For many years, in my capacity as trustee of the Carnegie Institute, I have attended the founder's day exercises, and since I have been in Washington I have looked forward each year to returning home and joining with you in celebrating the founding of this institution, which is do-

25 CENTS MINIMUM OAKMONT BUS FARE

By GEORGE H. SNYDER.

The Pittsburgh Motor Coach Company is planning to charge a 50-cent fare on its proposed line from Pittsburgh to Oakmont, T. W. Noonan, general manager of the company, testified today at a hearing before the Public Service Commission. Lower fares will be established between intermediate points but the minimum between any two points will be 25 cents.

At a previous hearing before the commission on the application of the Allegheny Valley Motor Coach Company to operate a similar line to Oakmont, the independent operators testified that they also proposed to charge a 50-cent fare for the entire distance from Pittsburgh to Oakmont, but that the fares between intermediate points would range from 10 cents upward, depending on the distance.

Their fares would be 45 cents from Verona to Pittsburgh, 15 cents from New Kensington to Springdale, 20 cents from New Kensington to Cheswick, 25 cents from Oakmont to Rosedale, 10 cents from Verona to Rosedale, 40 cents from Rosedale to Pittsburgh and 25 cents from Sandy Creek to East Liberty.

Mr. Noonan stated that the zones and detailed fares had not been determined.

The two bus operators have each protested against the others appli-

GRAFT QUIZ TO SIFT POOL

Aldermen and justices of the peace and a North Side baseball pool today were placed under the scrutinizing eyes of District Attorney Samuel H. Gardner in his direction of the grand jury investigation of John J. Verona's charges that graft is far from being an unknown quantity in Mayor Kline's administration.

County Sleuths were scurrying about the city armed with subpenas for witnesses who were expected to know something of this gigantic baseball pool which is said to have flourished during the past season. The sleuths also had summonses for several justices and aldermen, ordering them to produce their records before the grand jury.

Among the officials called were W. L. Baker, Bellevue; E. M. Cox, Homestead; George S. Wilson, East End alderman; Constable E. L. Stokes, of Bellevue; W. O. Findley, Mifflin township constable, and George P. Andrews, constable for Wilson.

WITNESSES

While he was waiting for the minor judges of city and county to appear, Gardner gathered together several stray angles of the investigation. For this purpose he had as witnesses E. J. Hoftz, strip politician, and his wife; Henry J. Lenon, clerk in the district attorney's office and investigator; John Winkler district politician in the First Ward; Justice of the Peace E. A. Wenke, of Greentree, and C. S. Day, of the North Side. Roy Blakeley, North Side saloonkeeper of other days, was looked for today in answer to a subpena, but he didn't appear until noon.

William Wagner, Mt. Oliver political boss and former Assemblyman, appeared in answer to the announcement that he could not be located for a subpena, and was granted permission to delay his visit to the grand jury until Friday.

The subpena for Winkler, who is one of the 167 defendants in the federal rum probe, was a week old when he turned up in the grand jury room yesterday with the ex-

ZEP HERE THURSDAY —ECKENER

The first definite word that Pittsburgh will be given an opportunity to see the Graf Zeppelin was furnished today to the Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph by none other than Dr. Hugo Eckener, commander of the great airship.

Through Karl H. Von Wiegand, correspondent for this and other Hearst newspapers, Dr. Eckener telegraphed the Sun-Telegraph that he would put the dirigible on exhibition above Pittsburgh next Thursday, probably between 10 and 11 a. m. The Zeppelin is scheduled to leave its temporary hangar at Lakehurst, N. J., at dawn Thursday on its western swing of the states, arriving late Thursday at Detroit.

City officials had invited Dr. Eckener to float over Pittsburgh and they were awaiting an answer to that invitation when this newspaper was notified of the favorable decision.

48-HOUR TOUR

International News Service.

NAVAL AIR STATION, LAKEHURST, N. J., Oct. 18.—The German dirigible Graf Zeppelin will make a 48-hour tour of middle western American cities the end of next week before returning to Friedrichshafen.

This was definitely decided today by Dr. Hugo Eckener, commodore of the big airship, according to an announcement made by Hugh Allen, representative of the Goodyear-Zeppelin Corporation of America.

Commander Eckener, officers and several members of the crew of the Zeppelin, and a number of prominent rigid airship promoters arrived here shortly after 11 o'clock today from New York city, where they had been feted for two days.

The airship promoters will inspect the dirigible with Dr. Eckener and will confer with him about the formation of a $14,000,000 corpora-

MARIE HECKER

What can you read in this face of the character of Marie Hecker, 16, unwed mother? She sits today in Juvenile Court Detention Home listlessly awaiting the coroner's inquest into the death by burning of Claire Peterson, 3, North Versailles township child. Marie calmly has told detectives how she locked the child and another in a room and then fired it.

Girl-Mother Held for Coroner's Inquest in Death-Fire.

Marie Hecker, 16, East McKeesport, mother, who is charged with having caused the death of Claire Peterson, 3-year-old child of a neighbor, is being held in the Juvenile Court detention rooms today, awaiting the inquest of the coroner.

The girl, it is alleged, locked her six-year-old foster sister, Sarah May Hecker, and the Peterson child in the Hecker home and set fire to the structure. William Ramsay, a neighbor, saw the blaze and rescued the Hecker child, but was unaware that the Peterson girl was in the house, and she was burned to death. Mamie told detectives yesterday that she didn't know who the father of her child is.

Falls to Revolver Bought to Kill Slayer

FARRELL, Pa., Oct. 18.—The revolver which he bought to kill another man claimed his own life, Clifford Ryan, 28, Negro, told police in a death-bed statement. Ryan was shot and killed by Ray Coles, 28, Negro, in a scuffle in a clothing store here. Ryan told police he and Coles had been enemies for a long time and that he purchased the gun recently with the intention of shooting Coles. The latter wrested the gun from Ryan and fired one shot.

SIGHTED AT SEA, BABY PLANE IS OVERDUE

LONDON, Oct. 18.—(AP.)—A wireless message from the steamship Hardenburg by way of the Leviathan reporting the passage of an airplane, presumably that of Lieut. Com. H. C. MacDonald, shortly after midnight Greenwich time was received here late today.

The message read:

"Airplane passed steamer Hardenberg latitude 53.29 north longitude 41.30 west 0030 Greenwich Meridian Time. Aster."

The position of the plane indicated that Commander MacDonald up to that point had been making an average of about 100 miles an hour.

The Hardenberg is a Dutch steamer. She sailed from Montreal October 11 for Antwerp.

At 7 o'clock this evening (2 o'clock Pittsburgh time), 26 hours had elapsed since Commander MacDonald hopped off at Harbor Grace, Newfoundland, in his little DeHaviland Moth, a "baby" plane, to attempt a nonstop solo flight to Croydon Air Field, and nothing had been heard of him.

MacDonald, who started at 11:51 a. m. (Pittsburgh time) Wednesday, had planned to average 100 miles an hour, negotiating the 2,000 miles in about 20 hours. Failure of any ships to report sighting him has begun to cause fears for his safety.

The air ministry announced that it had received no news as to the progress or fate of the aviator.

None of the watchers along the west coast of Ireland caught a glimpse of the flier, and during the early morning hours reports from that section indicated most unfavorable weather. Later, however, the wind died down somewhat and visibility greatly improved.

HOPE STILL BURNS

Hope continued that MacDonald might have passed over his objective point in Ireland and was proceeding possibly to the Croydon airdrome, which would add about four hours to his flight.

There is a question here among aviation authorities as to the distance Commander MacDonald would be able to fly with the amount of gas he had aboard and the time he could remain in the air. Some fix the period of time at 24 hours, which would mean that he may have already come down somewhere. Others place the time limit at 29 hours, while a few believe he could remain in the air 35 hours.

Another consideration which caused anxiety is the brief experience the commander has had in handling an airplane, particularly at night. But counterbalancing this, in some measure, is his well-known ability as a navigation officer.

The wife of the flier and his little son look forward with confidence and joy. Mrs. MacDonald, like other wives who have awaited the return of their husbands on perilous ventures, expressed yesterday her belief that he would "make it."

P. R. R. CRASH HURTS 3; TIES UP TRAFFIC

JOHNSTOWN, Pa., Oct. 18.—Seven freight cars were burned, following a wreck near South Fork station early today. Three trainmen were injured and through trains held up from one to four hours.

The injured are Engineer Harry P. Hardern, 237 Spahr street, Pittsburgh; Fireman Dave Newcomer, Pittsburgh, and Brakeman John W. Sell, Conemaugh. They were burned, not seriously, and later were taken home.

A broken brakebeam on an eastbound freight of 90 cars caused the derailment of six cars on No. 1 track and blocked No. 2 track. The fast freight, in charge of Engineer Hardern, carrying 81 cars, piled into the debris on No. 2 track and the engine and three cars were derailed. Two cars of oil in the first freight were ignited and set fire to seven other cars, including two cars of carbide and a shipment of veneer wood.

FUTILE FIRE BATTLE

Wreck crews were summoned from Altoona, Galitzin and Johnstown and a line of hose was laid to fight the flames. The workers were helpless and all the wooden sides of the seven cars was burned.

Freight and passenger trains were sidetracked on either side of the wreckage. "The Pittsburgher" and "St. Louis Special" were more than an hour late in passing the scene of the wreck.

SMITH OPENS 3-DAY BATTLE FOR ILLINOIS

GOVERNOR GIVEN BIG CHICAGO OVATION

By GEORGE R. HOLMES.
International News Service.

CHICAGO, Oct. 18.—Gov. Al Smith came back to big city sidewalks today after a week spent in rapid traveling through the cotton, corn and tobacco belt.

He is on the trail of the 29 electorial votes of Illinois, and he will stay on it for three days here in Chicago. Moreover, he is confident that he has a good chance to win them three weeks hence, despite the traditional Republicanism of the state.

ASSURED BY LEADERS

Gov. Smith was told by state leaders upon his arrival in Chicago that Democratic chances in Illinois are rosy. State Chairman Tom Donovan told him that for the first time in many years the Republican farmers downstate, who always send a Republican presidential candidate to the Chicago city limits with an overwhelming majority, are off the G. O. P. reservation this year, and that this fact, coupled with Chicago's own wetness, can be relied upon to carry the state for him.

Both Donovan and George N. Peek, Illinois farm leader, who was active in the promotion of the Lowden candidacy at the Kansas City convention, declared that Gov. Smith will come up to the Cook county line in November on even terms with Herbert Hoover, and that Cook county will give him a majority of 150,000 votes.

The Republicans, of course, publicly pooh-pooh these Democratic claims. But the Democratic leaders who welcomed Gov. Smith to the state stoutly insist upon the correctness of their reports, and asserted that November would prove it. At any rate they are extremely confident and sanguine, and the Republicans are privately a little worried. Some of the G. O. P. leaders are insisting that Herbert Hoover make a speech here en route to California about November 1.

Gov. Smith received a tremendous ovation upon his arrival here late last night. Ten thousand people massed about Union Station to welcome him, and the police had literally to fight their way out of the station with the Governor in their midst. Without any attempt at parading, the Democratic nominee was whisked away to the Congress Hotel, through streets lined with people and red street flares.

DANCE IN STREET

Several thousand people gathered outside the hotel in Michigan boulevard and gave to their enthusiasm by making a public bonfire in the street of copies of a local Republican morning newspaper, which printed a cartoon quoting a Republican elephant as saying it was a good thing for the G. O. P. that all the people who came out to see Smith wouldn't vote for him. As the flames crackled merrily, they danced about. And as they danced they yelled for "Al." The yells finally became so insistent that the Governor took a bow on the hotel balcony far above their heads, and when he appeared the noise was terrific.

The Democratic leaders, however, are saving the main demonstration for later. Tomorrow, Gov. Smith is to be taken on a long parade through the boulevard system of the city, and then Democratic hordes of Chicago will be out en masse. The district leaders are intent upon a huge turnout.

Tomorrow night Gov. Smith will deliver his last address of the campaign west of the Alleghenies. Saturday morning he returns to Albany for a few days' rest before embarking upon a whirlwind 10-days' campaign along the Atlantic seaboard.

Today was to be a quiet day for the Democratic nominee. He planned only to work on the speech which he will deliver tomorrow night and to confer with local men.

Gov. Smith was not ready this morning to announce upon what subject he will speak on in Chicago. Some of the local leaders are hoping he will deliver another of his broadsides upon prohibition, but Gov. Smith may decide to deal with Attorney General Sargent's decision in the Salt Creek royalty oil case, which held that Dr. Hubert Work, former Secretary of the Interior and now chairman of the Republicn national committee, exceeded his powers when he renewed Harry F. Sinclair's contract in February of this year.

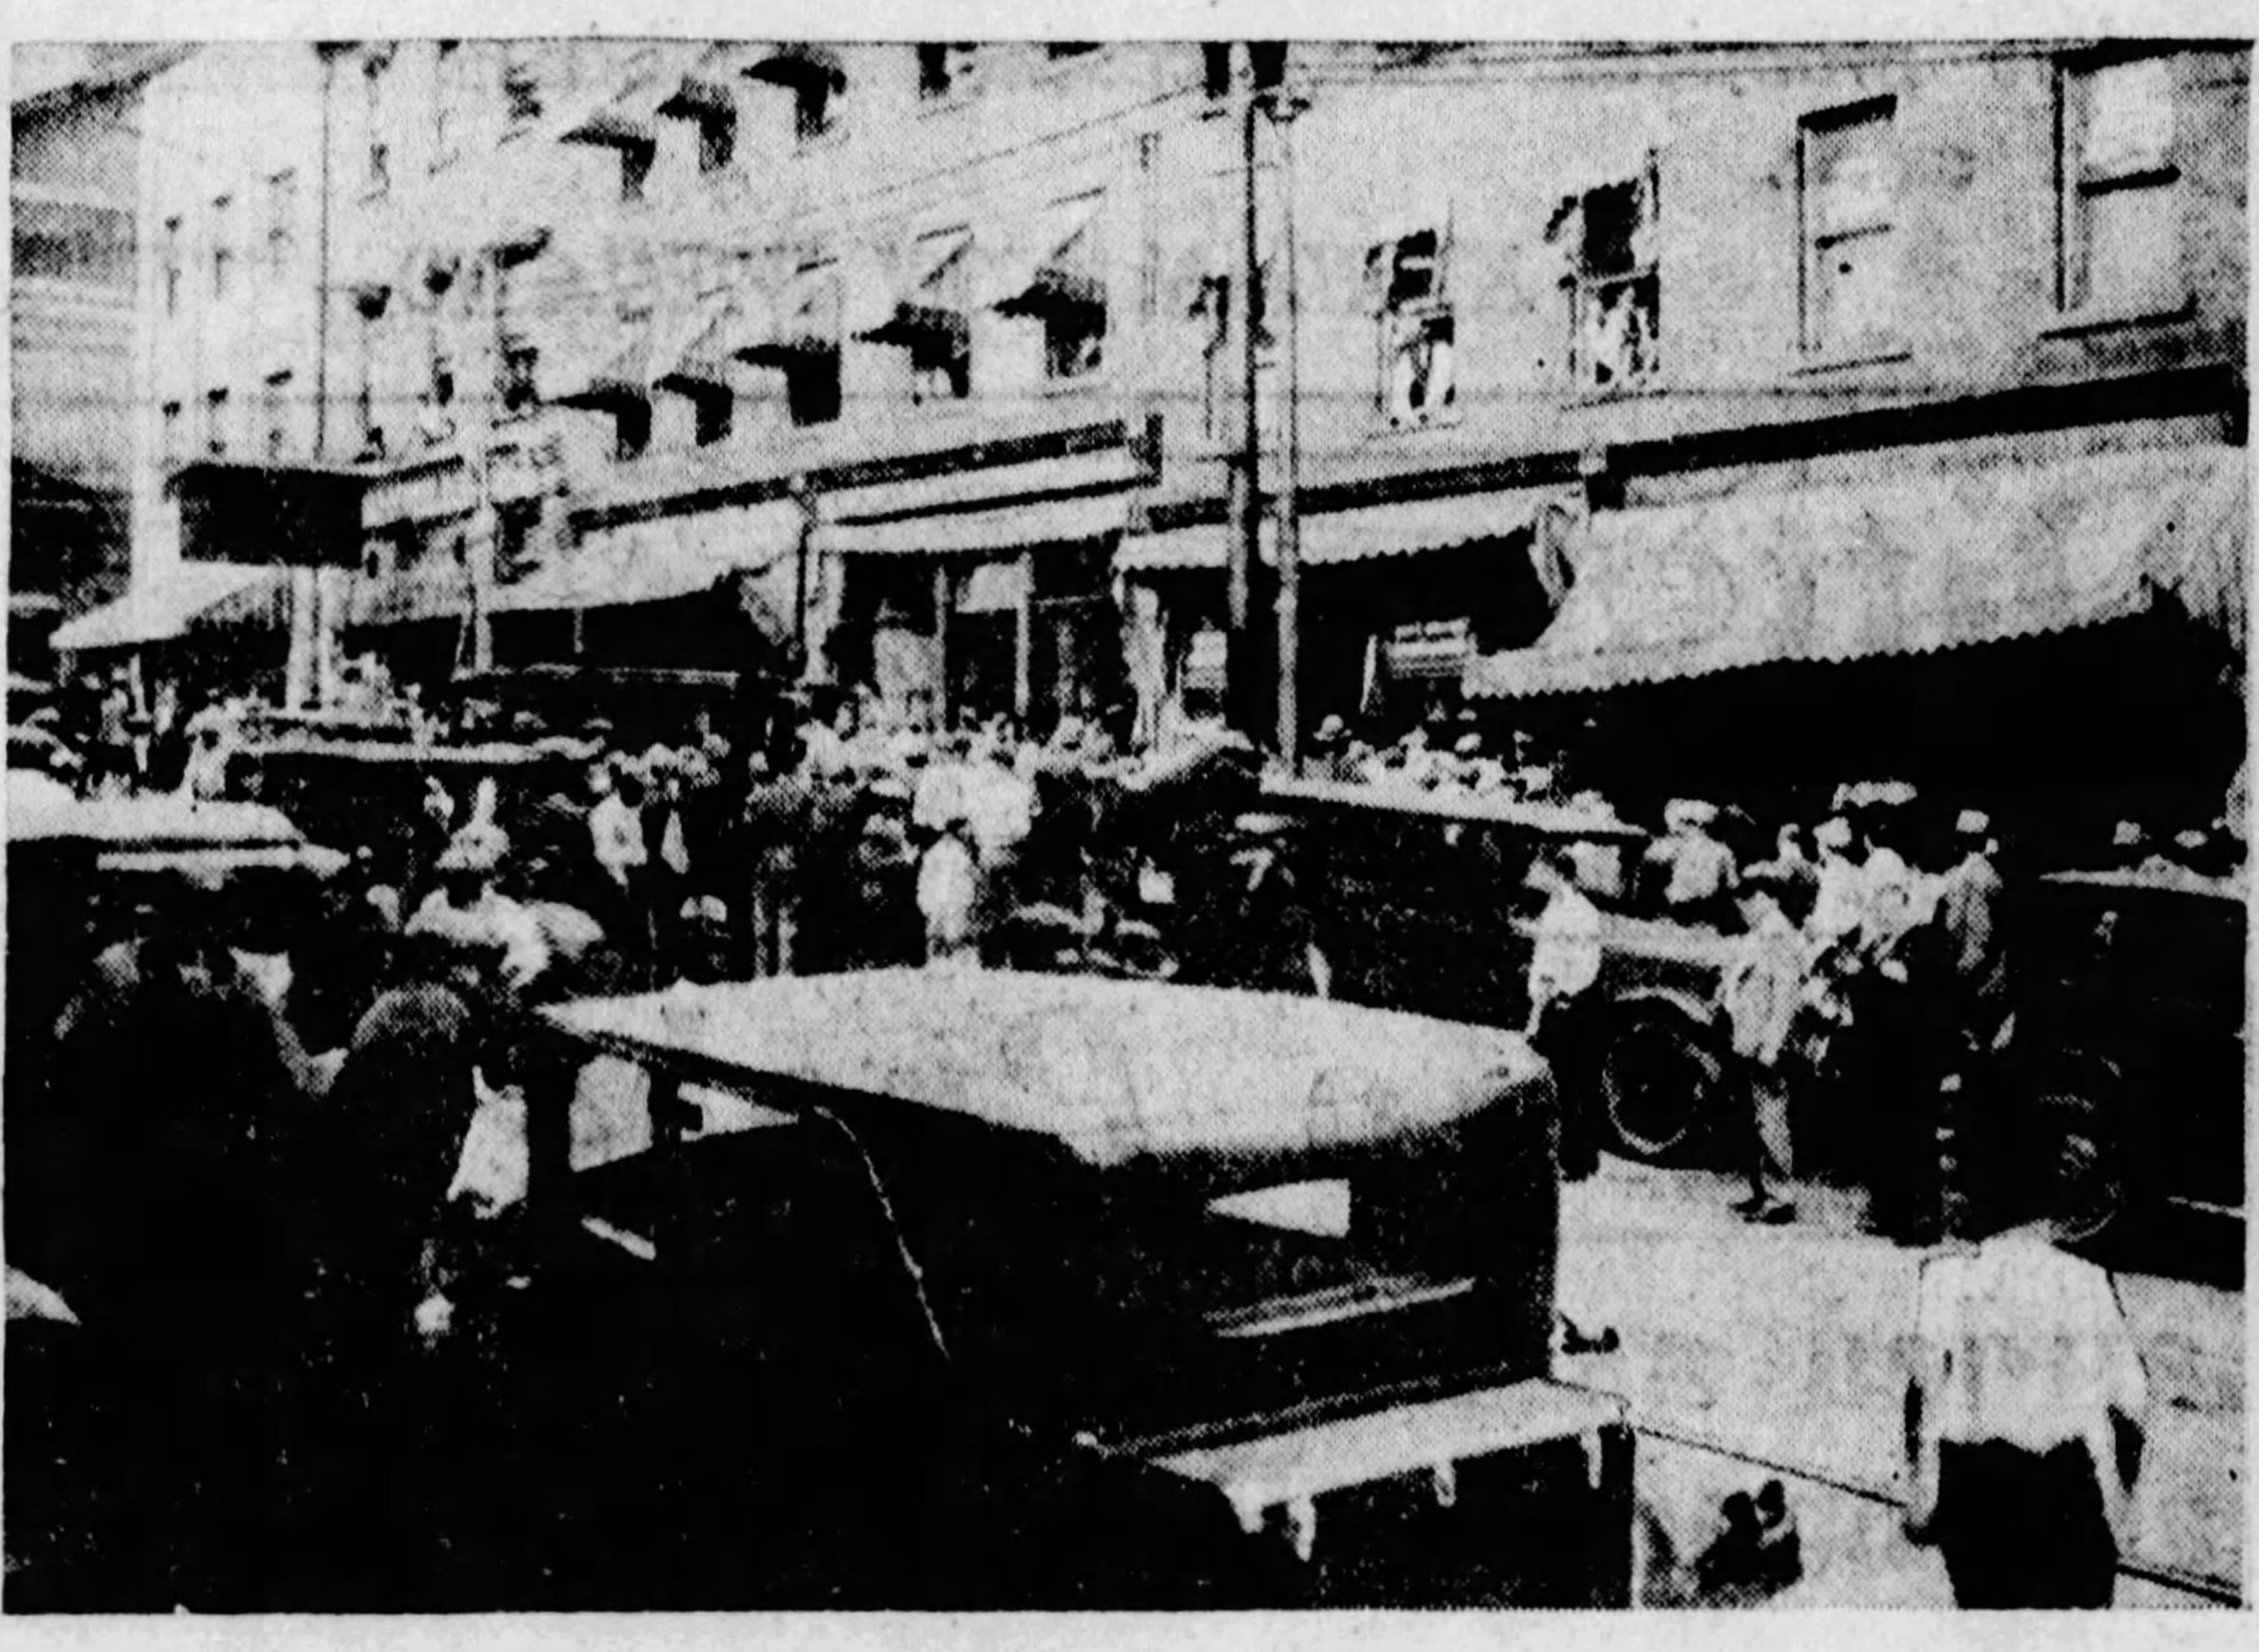
Some of the governor's advisers attached considerable political importance to this decision. To them, it offers an opportunity for Gov. Smith to "tie up" Mr. Hoover's campaign manager with the continuation of Sinclair's oil dealing with the government. It is understood that the governor talked with Senator Walsh (D) of Montana, the prosecutor of the Teapot Dom case, late last night concerning this latest development in the long history of the oil scandals.

Gov. Smith's trail through Illinois into Chicago was marked by tremendous turnouts at every stop, Alton, Bloomington, Springfield and Joliet. Although his train stopped only a few moments at each place, there were crowds of from 5,000 to 25,000 always present.

Hill District :-: Shop Where Jeweler Was Bound and Then Shot :-: Money Stolen

BOUND

Abraham Sussman, 55, 3602 Bates street, was found shot through the heart with his hands bound behind his back in this corner of his Wylie avenue pawn shop.



SON FINDS BODY

When word of the brutal murder and robbery spread through the Hill district, Wylie avenue quickly filled with the curious and several squads of police were sent from Center Avenue Police Station to clear traffic. Sussman's son, Louis, 17, found his father's body near the looted safe and cage in the rear of the shop shortly after the shop was opened for the day.

UGLY STREETS HIT BY SECRETARY MELLON

ing so much for the cause of education and in training the youth of the country in a knowledge of the arts and sciences.

"It is because of your interest in such things that I want to speak to you on a subject somewhat different from those usually associated with the work of government at Washington. It has to do with the beautifying of the nation's capital and the carrying out of the original plan whereby the city of Washington shall become not only one of the most impressive capitals in the world, but one which shall be representative of the best that is in America.

"Congress has made the necessary appropriation to initiate this work and to carry out the most important features of that long neglected plan of Washington and Maj. Pierre Charles L'Enfant for the development of the city. The responsibility for carrying out this plan by the purchase of sites and the erection of buildings, was placed by Congress on the Secretary of the Treasury and has become, therefore, an integral part of Treasury activities.

FOUNDING HEROIC

"Washington, as you know, was founded for the express purpose of being the nation's capital. There have been only two other world capitals so founded—the former Russian capital of Petrograd, and the newly created city of Canberra in Australia. To me there has always seemed something heroic about the early beginning of Washington. When we remember that at that time the entire country had a population of less than six million; that communication was difficult and the government almost without financial resources, we marvel at the courage and vision of men who proceeded to build a city in the wilderness and to project it along lines so magnificent that even today we do not find it easy to carry their plans to completion.

"Congress authorized the capital to be established on the Potomac River and that President Washington be allowed to select the exact spot. He did so, with the aid of Jefferson and Madison; and these two, with the three commissioners appointed to prepare the new seat of government, gave to the city the name of Washington and to the District the name of Columbia. Washington, himself, throughout his life always modestly referred to the new capital as 'The Federal City.'

"Washington's views were carried out, and so we owe one more debt to that great man, who, more than any other single individual, gave us not only our country but our national capital as well.

"Unfortunately, after his death there was no driving force, either in Congress or elsewhere, which could carry out his plans for the city's development. The end of the Civil War found it a badly built, straggling town, largely unpaved, with a few streets lighted by oil lamps, and the areas reserved for parks overgrown and neglected. Later President Grant induced Congress to give the city a territorial form of government, and under Alexander R. Shepherd, a man of extraordinary energy, courage and vision, who became Commissioner of Public Works, the city was transformed, but the effect for which Washington and L'Enfant strove was entirely lacking.

COMMISSION NAMED

"Such was the condition of the nation's capital in 1900, when the one-hundredth anniversary of the establishment of the seat of government in the District of Columbia was celebrated. Shortly afterwards Senator McMillan secured authority from Congress for the appointment of a special commission of experts, who should recommend a plan for the beautification and development of Washington.

"After a careful study of Washington and its possibilities, these men presented a report, known as the Plan of 1901. In it they recommended a return to the original plan of Washington and L'Enfant, with such extensions of it as might be required to meet modern conditions and the city's growth. After submitting their report, the commission passed out of existence; but its members were consulted unofficially by Presidents Roosevelt and Taft with regard to the location of public buildings and memorials. Later Mr. Burnham and Mr. Olmsted, who were the only members then living, were made members of the Commission of Fine Arts, a body created by Congress in 1910 to serve in an expert and advisory capacity regarding questions affecting the development of Washington. This commission, which was established during the administration of President Taft, owes much to the backing which he gave it and also to the interest and understanding of Mr. Root. Under the chairmanship of Mr. Charles Moore, it is now doing splendid work for Washington and the country.

"The Commission has adhered to the Plan of 1901 as a restatement of the authority of the L'Enfant Plan and has insisted that this plan must continue as fundamental in the development of Washington. In more than a quarter of a century since the Plan of 1901 was presented, much has been accomplished. The unsightly railroad tracks have been removed from the Mall; and due largely to the cooperation and public spirit of a distinguished son of Pennsylvania, President A. J. Cassatt, of the Pennsylvania Railroad, a great Union Station has been built in accordance with the plans of the Commission. The Station and also the beautiful City Post Office adjoining it, have been placed in a position subordinate to the buildings on Capitol Hill, but in a harmonious and vital relation to them.

GREAT PLAZA PLANNED

"At the foot of Capitol Hill, looking toward the Treasury and the White House, the Plan of 1901 contemplates that there shall be a great open plaza with monuments and fountains somewhat like the Place de la Concorde in Paris. It was intended that this space should provide a dignified entrance to Pennsylvania avenue and also into the Mall leading westward to the Washington Monument a mile away. The memorial to Gen. Grant has been located in this space in accordance with these plans, but there progress has stopped. The development of the plaza and the Mall has been delayed until arrangements could be made for the removal of the Botanic Gardens to larger and more suitable quarters on land to be acquired on the west front of the Capitol. The state of Pennsylvania has erected a memorial to Gen. George Gordon Meade, as a companion to the Grant memorial, and in doing so has also provided for suitable landscape setting in accordance with the Mall plan. Thus these two memorials will stand in the great Union Plaza at the head of the Mall and the way will be open at last to complete the developments required to make the Mall into a beautiful park.

"First it will be necessary to demolish the temporary buildings and the smokestacks erected during the war. Then a great avenue of greensward, bordered by drives and lined with four rows of stately trees, will be projected through the Mall, leading westward from the Capitol and the Union Plaza to the Washington Monument and the Lincoln Memorial beyond. Along this avenue at intervals will be such buildings as the Agricultural Department, the Freer Gallery, the National Museum and the Smithsonian Institute. This avenue will end at the Washington Monument, and beyond the monument, at the point where the new axis meets the Potomac, has been placed that beautiful white marble structure, the memorial to Abraham Lincoln.

"From the foot of the Lincoln Memorial a great bridge, commemorating the union of the North and South, is now in process of building. When completed it will lead across the Potomac to the slopes of Arlington, where, surrounding a mansion once the home of Gen. Robert E. Lee, are the graves of those who died in their country's service, including that newly erected national shrine, the Tomb of the Unknown Soldier. From Arlington a boulevard will stretch to Mt. Vernon, the home of Washington; and all of this region and the section known at Potomac Park, with its river drives and famed cherry trees, will be joined, under plans now being carried out, with Rock Creek Park and that section of the city where the great gothic cathedral is rising on the wooded heights of Mt. St. Alban.

"GAS" STATIONS TO GO

"Now, I must ask you to return for a moment to a consideration of another vast project which will eventually realize L'Enfant's dream of a great avenue bordering the Mall and leading from the Capitol to the White House. You are familiar with the distressing spectacle which Pennsylvania avenue presents today. It is perhaps our most important street and certainly there is no avenue of corresponding importance in any capital which can compare with it in sheer ugliness or lack of architectural dignity. It is the street over which our great processions pass in triumph to the Capitol. Yet never, in the days of either the ancient or the modern world, has any one seen before a triumphal way bordered throughout much of its length, by gasoline stations, lodging houses and Chinese laundries.

"This state of affairs, I am glad to say, will soon be remedied. An appropriation of $50,000,000 has been made, supplemented last winter by an additional $25,000,000, and other amounts will be forthcoming as the work progresses. The amounts already appropriated will be used to initiate the most important features of the plans for Washington's development, with special regard for the Mall and for improving Pennsylvania avenue.

"The Secretary of the Treasury was authorized to use this money in the purchase or condemnation of land and the erection of public buildings. It is intended to carry through, as rapidly as possible, the most pressing needs as regards housing of government departments and activities. These will include a new and larger building for the increased activities of the Department of Commerce; a Supreme Court building, a building for the Bureau of Internal Revenue; an Archives building; a building for the Department of Agriculture; still another for the Department of Labor, and several others besides.

LONG VISTAS TO CAPITOL

"It is easy to see what the effect will be. As one proceeds down Pennsylvania avenue toward the Capitol, on the south side will be a succession of beautiful and harmonious buildings, all of a design in keeping with the semi-classical tradition so well established in Washington. On the north side vistas will be opened up, so that groups of buildings, such as the beautiful District of Columbia Courthouse on John Marshall Place, shall be brought into the general plan of Pennsylvania avenue. At the same time the Mall will present the spectacle of a great park bordered on one side by the new boulevard lined with beautiful buildings, and on the other side by a wide park-way of greensward with its four rows of trees, its drives and walks, statues and reflecting pools, all arranged in such a way that long vistas will be opened up for views of the Capitol in one direction and of the Washington Monument and Lincoln Memorial in the other.

"Washington has many advantages in so far as its future development is concerned. Its life centers around the government, as those who planned the city intended it should do. There is no manufacturing; and the engineering and industrial problems which have to be met at such expense and effort in great industrial centers like Pittsburgh and Chicago are entirely absent. Washington is still a city of moderate size, notwithstanding the fact that its population has grown from 75,000 at the time of the Civil War to about a half a million today. But so long as it remains chiefly a seat of government, it will retain its unique character among the cities of the country. More and more it will be visited by people who will go to Washington because of its beauty and their feeling of pride and personal ownership in the nation's capital. With the rapid growth in the use of automobiles and airplanes, larger and larger numbers will visit Washington each year. As it becomes more beautiful and its fame grows, people will visit it from all parts of the world and Washington will find, as Paris did, that architectural and landscape beauty can be a source of profit, as well as pride and satisfaction, to a city.

"But there are weightier reasons than that why we should give our support to the effort to rebuild our national capital. Until recently, America has been in the frontier stage as nations go. We were too busy about the hard realities of existence to have much time for the amenities. But now we have the opportunity and we have also the resources to raise the standard of taste in this country; and the extent to which this is being done has no parallel at present in any country in the world. No where are the arts of architecture and landscape engineering being practiced more extensively and successfully than in America.

"It has been said that in evolving the skyscraper, we have made the only original contribution to architecture since the Gothic. Certainly, in adapting architecture to the needs of modern conditions and crowded spaces, we have produced something that is expressive of human aspiration and human need. Judged by that standard, the Woolworth Building is a work of art, both because it is beautiful in itself and because it expresses the needs and aspirations of a great people. If we can give to our office buildings something of the beauty of Gothic cathedrals or model our banks and railroad stations after Greek temples, we shall, in time, provide a magnificent setting for the requirements of modern civilization.

"But we must remember that, just as these things are architectural expressions of the nation on its commercial side, so should the city of Washington, as President Coolidge has said, express the soul of America. We do well, therefore, to give to it that beauty and dignity to which it is entitled. In doing so, we are not only carrying out those plans which Washington made so long ago for the city which he founded but, at the same time, we are justifying that faith which he had from the beginning in the future greatness of America."

LADY ASTOR ABSENT

Lady Nancy Astor, who had been invited to participate in the exercises, was unable to attend, according to word received by trustees of the institute.. Lady Astor expressed her regrets and asked for an invitation to the exercises of 1930.

Following the plan adopted last year, approximately one-third of the usual number of artists were invited to exhibit. Each artist, however, sent from three to five pictures. There are 381 paintings, 253 from European countries. In all, 116 artists, 62 European and 54 American, are represented.

Pittsburgh is represented in the exhibit by Everett Warner, Raymond Simboli, Charles W. Burns, Johanna K. W. Hailman, the late Carlotta Saint-Gaudens, and John Kane.

HERTZ THREATS SPUR TAXI WAR PROBE

CHICAGO, Oct. 18.—Preparations are being made today for a grand jury investigation into Chicago's "taxicab war." The action was taken following the revelation of threats against John Hertz, head of the Yellow Cab Company here.

Subpenas were issued for Robert McLaughlin, president of the Checker Cab Company, Edward Cook and Arthur F. Albert, the company's attorneys.

Hertz declined to discuss the threats made against him.

Strife between the yellow and checker cab companies over parking concessions is credited with one murder, several bombings and the burning of the Hertz racing stables at Cary, Ill.

Negotiations were afoot here last night to call a conference of officials of both companies to settle their differences.

He said going back to Soviet Russia for a reason to refuse the use of the hall, the city ought to be fair enough to go back to the regime of the czars and determine what brought the soviet into existence.

President Malone said the only question for Council was to decide whether Connelley had the power to refuse the use of the hall. He questioned the right to single out one group. Councilman Robert Garland said he would refuse to sanction the use of any city-owned building to any group that fails to swear allegiance to the United States government. Garland's motion to sustain the action of Connelly, seconded by Robert Alderdice, carried.

N. Y. SEWER GRAFTING SMITH'S FAULT—G.O.P.

International News Service.

NEW YORK, Oct. 18.—The Republican organization in New York state today launched a campaign to place responsibility for the $16,000,000 Queens sewer scandal at the door of Gov. Alfred E. Smith.

Following the conviction yesterday in Long Island City of Maurice E. Connolly, resigned borough president of Queens, and Frederick B. Seely, former chief of the Queens sewer bureau, Republican speakers dug into the seven-year history of alleged corruption and fraud of Queens borough sewer extension for campaign material in Gov. Smith's greatest stronghold, metropolitan New York.

Attorney General Albert Ottinger, Republican gubernatorial candidate, in opening his campaign upstate cited the Queens sewer graft scandal in his indictment of Tammany Hall rule in New York City.

A campaign pamphlet, circulated by the Republican State Committee, declares that although Gov. Smith's attention was directed to the irregularities of the Queens contracts by a special investigating committee of the State Assembly as early as 1921, the inquiry which led to the indictment of Connolly and Seely, did not begin until December, 1927.

Charges that Queens' officials paid three and four times as much for sewer pipe as other cities were the nub of the public protest which forced the investigation by a special state commission.

Connolly was sentenced to year in the penitentiary and fined $500. He immediately filed notice of appeal. Seely's sentence was deferred until Saturday.

Estimates of the "cut" between contractors and borough officials during the last eight years place the total roughly at $16,000,000.

John M. Phillips, lock-joint pipe dealer of Queens and a power in the Queens Borough city hall, was indicted with Connolly and Seely last June. All three were named for conspiracy to defraud the city of New York. Phillips died suddenly 10 days later at Atlantic City.

JAWORSKI MUST COME BACK

Frank Graff could rule on the motion for a new trial, Jaworski, aided by his brother, Sam Jaworski, escaped from the county jail with Jack Vasbinder.

Jaworski would be allowed three months to appeal to a higher court if Judge Graff refuses the motion for a new trial.

Gardner anticipated that Jaworski would be back in the county jail next Wednesday. Stanton promised that the Cleveland charges against the killer, who directed not only the Mollenauer job but the $104,000 Coverdale payroll holdup, would be dropped on Monday.

QUESTIONING "HOT"

Assistant District Attorney Andrew T. Park put Winkler through what District Attorney Samuel H. Gardner described as "the hottest cross-examination I ever listened to." Hot as it was, it was an insufficient stimulant to Winkler's memory, and when he left, mopping his brow, he was told to "think it over" and return this morning.

There were to be other witnesses called this afternoon, many of them from the North Side, which is the police district of Inspector Charles Faulkner, of whose friends and confidantes several faced inquisition yesterday. Faulkner is under indictment in the Federal rum probe.

When the session ended yesterday Gardner announced that the inquisitors were no longer wandering through a maze of suspicions and anonymous accusations, but were working at definite objectives.

INDIVIDUALS ACCUSED

"We're building up individual cases," Gardner said. "In the last four weeks we piled up the skeletons of our cases. Now we're putting on the plaster—chinking up the cracks. We chinked up some pretty large cracks today."

Abe Berkowitz, who once ran a saloon in Faulkner's district but now is in the auto accessary business, furnished him with a lot of plaster, Gardner said. Berkowitz told the jury about his raiding feud with Faulkner, whose police visited Berkowitz's saloon 31 times in one year.

"Just because I wouldn't kick in," Berkowitz told reporters.

"He gave us some extremely good stuff," Gardner said of the former saloonkeeper.

Horace McCullough, a newspaperman "covering" Faulkner's No. 12 police station, testified before the jury for 30 minutes. He was subpenaed as "secretary to Inspector Charles Faulkner."

Bloodshed that attended election riots in 1927 came before the jury with the appearance of Motorcycle Patrolman T. W. McGuire. The patrolman was dropped from the force in September, last year, after two bystanders had been wounded in a gang fight over the Fourth Ward aldermanic election. He was jailed for alleged interference with policemen who attempted to quell the riot, and Alderman Verona interceded for him. McGuire recently was reinstated.

Among the witnesses scheduled for testimony today were George Smith, 128 Ormsby avenue, Mt. Oliver; E. J. Hoftz and wife, 2642 Penn avenue; Cora Dawson, Negro, 52 Crawford street; Gertrude Moore, 185 Home street; Mrs. Rich Conners, 1725 Edna street; Alfred S. Hershberger, 615 Walbridge street; Roy Jackson, 805 Main street, Sharpsburg; Andy Hensel, Sharpsburg; Rocco bel Sitto, former police lieutenant of Sharpsburg; Norman P. Regelman, 4012 Mintwood street; Mrs. Mary Lach and son, 23 South Twelfth street.

LLOYD'S AUTO SOUGHT WHEN BILL IS UNPAID

A writ of replevin issued on the automobile of Walter J. Lloyd, head of the employment bureau of the Pennsylvania Department of Labor, is still unserved at the sheriff's office. Chief Clerk B. J. Coffey, of the sheriff's office, says the car cannot be found.

The writ was obtained by the Marmon Company of Pittsburgh, it being alleged Lloyd owes $440.75 on the car which he purchased for $1,900. Lloyd, it is claimed, took the car back twice for repairs. The first time it was overhauled free of charge. On the second trip Lloyd is said to have told Harry Blumenthal, manager of the company, that unless it was overhauled free of charge he wouldn't pay the rest of the bill. The replevin suit followed.

TRAFFIC LIGHT'S ORDER HELD UP

Council, yesterday, rescinded an order for the installation of a "stop and go" traffic signal at California and Termon avenues at the request of residents of the neighborhood.

On motion of President James F. Malone the bureau of traffic relief was asked to make a survey of California avenue between Bellevue and Woods Run bridges to establish the proper location of the control light.

Objectors to the recalled order explained that a light as proposed would congest traffic, as a count between the peak hours of 4 and 6 p. m. disclosed that 1,400 vehicles crossed Termon avenue, whereas only 38 crossed California avenue at the intersection. They said the heavy traffic on California avenue would be tied up waiting for the slight traffic on Termon avenue to appear.

GOVERNMENT NAILS HOOVER WHISPER

By WILLIAM K. HUTCHINSON,
International News Service.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 18.—The long whispering attack on the American citizenship of Herbert Hoover, started during the Republican pre-convention campaign and continued by Democratic sources since his nomination, was silenced effectively today following a formal announcement by the State Department that "there never has been the slightest question of Mr. Hoover's American citizenship."

The fact that Hoover spent many years abroad in the employment of British engineering firms was the basis of campaign whispers that Hoover had lost his American citizenship. Only once previously during the campaign had this story been brought into the light of political debate and that occurred during Hoover's visit to Elizabethton, Tenn. On that occasion, former Gov. Alf Taylor, of Tennessee, declared Hoover had been offered a British title to become a British citizen and that his reply was "he preferred to be beheaded and his body cremated, rather than lose his American citizenship."

LIBEL SILENCED

The State Department, in silencing this campaign libel, declared it twice had investigated Hoover's citizenship, once in 1920 and more recently in response to a newspaper inquiry. The department reported that Hoover had registered in 1908 at the American consulate in London as an American citizen, in response to an order by the late President Roosevelt that all American citizens living abroad should be registered by the consular offices. It further stated Hoover had given the United States as his permanent residence in registering.

DAVIS HERE HITS DEMOCRATS ON TARIFF

James J. Davis, Secretary of Labor, and Congressman Harry A. Estep, speaking last night at a Republican mass meeting in Turner Hall, South Side, challenged the Democratic orators of the country to prove their contentions in reference to the tariff and prohibition.

The tariff, not prohibition, is the big issue of the campaign, Secretary Davis contended. He said:

"I think the tariff is the big issue of this campaign. Liquor is not the issue. As much as some would like an increase in the alcoholic contents of our drinks, that will not solve our problems. Increasing the alcoholic contents of our beverages will not count for much if the stomach groans for the lack of food."

Speaking of the tariff, Secretary Davis pointed out that every time the Democratic party tampered with the tariff times were bad. In this connection he said: "You only need go back to 1892. What was it on the South Side? Could you get a job? Out in Highland Park we got a dollar a day and some soup tickets for the work we were doing. We not only had unemployment, but we had a panic ....What was the trouble in America in 1913 and 1914? They passed the so-called Underwood-Simmons bill and the Democratic candidate said in his speech of acceptance that it was his sort of tariff. And we had half a million men out of work in New York alone."

Other speakers at the meeting were James Kambach, Attorney Benjamin Lencher, Councilman James F. Malone and County Commissioner Joseph G. Armstrong.

Urges Veterans To Renew War Comradeships

An appeal to war veterans to renew and keep the comradeships formed during the World War was made yesterday by Commander Charles A. Gebert, state head of the American Legion, during his first visit yesterday to Pittsburgh since his election. Commander Gebert addressed the weekly luncheon of the City Post of the Legion and visited wounded veterans in local hospitals. He paid high tribute to Attorney W. H. McNaugher's activities in behalf of the American Legion. Attorney McNaugher was defeated for state commander by Gebert.

HOOVER TAKES WISCONSIN POLL LEAD FIRST TIME

UP-STATE VOTE NIPS SMITH'S CITY MARGIN

By CHARLES N. WHEELER.
(Noted Political Analyst)

CHICAGO, Oct. 18.—Wisconsin, the outstanding see-saw state of "bolts and nuts," as Sam Blythe puts it, this morning shows a trend to Hoover.

One week ago today Gov. Smith leaped into the lead and held it, though by a narrow margin, until the last batch of figures in the Hearst nation-wide poll arrived.

The tabulation now stands:

	Hoover.	Smith.	Total.
Men	10,559	11,478	22,037
Women	9,366	8,418	17,784
Total	19,925	19,896	39,821

Hoover lead, 29.

It will be observed that Hoover has a lead of 948 in the women column, while Smith's men lead is 919.

The closeness of the women vote in this tabulation is due in a measure to the fact that in the Hearst figures today, while covering the state, the Milwaukee vote is complete on the 5 per cent basis. That is, the entire 150,000 estimated total vote in Milwaukee and the suburbs has been canvassed on the 5 per cent basis.

WOMEN FOR HOOVER

It is in Milwaukee that Smith is going to register his largest lead over Hoover, particularly with the men vote. As the poll is extended out into the state, however, the percentage of women votes steadily increases for Hoover. At the same time there is a slight recession in the Smith men vote percentage.

All other polls taken up to this time, particularly the Literary Digest, give the state to Hoover by 30,000 to 170,000.

Last week's Digest percentages divided 58.5 for Hoover to 41.5 for Smith. These probably will draw more closely together as the Digest's returns come in more fully from Milwaukee.

The total vote in the state four years ago was 840,000. An increase of perhaps 20 per cent may be registered in the voting on November 6, which would bring the state total up to approximately 1,000,000 votes.

Computed on the Digest's percentages of last week, the division would be:

Hoover	585,000
Smith	415,000
Hoover plurality	170,000

Computed on the percentages indicated in the Hearst poll this morning, Mr. Hoover would carry the state by an eye-lash lead.

What seems to be developing in Wisconsin is a pro-Hoover reaction to the bolting by Senator Blaine and State Chairman Herman L. Ekern, of the LaFollette faction, and the refusal of Senator LaFollette himself to say a word of approval for the Republican candidate, although all three leaders maintain their positions in politics as Republicans, and under the primary law.

The situation has been further aggravated by the flop of the Madison Times, the LaFollette champion, to Smith while still supporting the LaFollette clan candidates on the state ticket below Mr. Kohler, the Republican candidate for governor.

The Times also has bolted Kohler for the Democratic candidate. In the recent primary Kohler defeated Congressman Beck, the LaFollette candidate.

Get Four Nights To Celebrate Halloween

CONNELLSVILLE, Pa., Oct. 18.—Four nights of Halloween celebrations beginning October 29 have been arranged by a "Big Four" committee, comprised of residents of Connellsville, Scottdale, Mount Pleasant and Uniontown. Each town will assist the other in putting on a celebration. Scottdale starts on October 25, Connellsville the next night, and Uniontown and Mount Pleasant follow in order.

HOOVER TOPS COOLIDGE'S VOTE IN TWO COUNTIES

Herbert Hoover will win over Gov. Alfred E. Smith by overwhelming majorities in Wayne and Cameron counties, judging by final tabulations of returns from those counties in the straw vote canvass of Pennsylvania by the Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph.

The Republican vote in each of these two counties will be substantially increased this year, it is indicated. In 1924 President Coolidge captured 74 per cent of the total vote in Wayne county, while Hoover wins 84 per cent of the votes in the poll. In 1924 President Coolidge won 77 per cent of the total vote in Cameron county and Hoover wins 89 per cent of the straw votes.

The straw vote in Wayne county results: Hoover 434—406 men and 28 women; Smith, 85—79 men and 6 women. Party shifts favor Smith, 38 men and 2 who favored Coolidge now favoring Smith, and 26 men and 2 women who voted for Davis now voting for Smith. The LaFollette vote goes 5 to Smith and 3 to Hoover.

The straw vote in Cameron county, one of the smallest in the state, results: Hoover 179—165 men and 14 women; Smith 22—20 men and 2 women. Party defections in this county favor Hoover, 26 men who voted for Davis now favoring Hoover, while 8 men who voted for Coolidge now favor Smith. No shifting by women is shown. The LaFollette vote goes 5 to Hoover and 4 to Smith.

The latest returns in the Pennsylvania poll, conducted as part of the nation-wide canvass by the Hearst papers, increase the lead of Hoover over Smith to 23,996, with 90,420 ballots cast.

The present standing is: Hoover 57,208—46,237 men, and 10,971 women; Smith 33,212—25,705 men and 7,507 women. This vote in 1924 was divided as follows: Coolidge 62,360—50,232 men and 12,128 women; Davis 9,852—8,319 men and 1,533 women; LaFollette 5,484; not voting 12,724.

STEP NEARER PLANE BEACON

Initial steps to establish a light beacon equaling the largest in the world to aid night airplane travel was taken at a hearing before Council yesterday.

W. J. Strassburger, representing the Grant office building, highest in Pittsburgh, proposed erecting the beacon on the top of that building and sharing equally with the city in paying the $22,000 required for the installation. Maintenance charges running between $500 and $600 a month would be paid by the Grant Building owners.

The light would flash to the skies the word "Pittsburgh" in Morse code and a ribbon light pointing to the nearest illuminated landing field.

The beacon would be 90 feet higher than the highest hill in this district; would be 440 feet above the sidewalk, and 1,240 feet above sea level, Strassburger said. Light rays would be visible 75 to 150 miles, depending on atmospheric conditions.

Strassburger was told that Council had an opinion from City Solicitor Charles A. Waldschmidt to the effect that the city could not go into partnership in the enterprise, but could assume complete ownership.

Tentative agreement was effected whereby the Grant Building owners would transfer ownership of the beacon to the city.

GREENSBURG, Pa., Oct. 18.—With the opening of the hunting season slated for Thursday, 8,000 licenses have been issued by the Westmoreland county treasurer's office here. This number is smaller than at the same time last year, but that is attributed to the early start of the season.

Try Magnesia For Indigestion

Says Bisurated Magnesia Must Make Stomach Feel Fine in Five Minutes or Money Back

People who suffer from indigestion usually have tried pepsin, charcoal, drugs and various digestive aids and got little more than slight temporary relief—sometimes not even that.

But before giving up to Chronic dyspepsia, just try the effect of a little Bisurated Magnesia—not the ordinary commercial carbonate, citrate or milk, but pure Bisurated Magnesia, which you can obtain from May Drug Co., or any reliable druggist in either powder or tablet form on the positive guarantee that it must give complete satisfaction or its small cost will be returned to you.

Take a teaspoonful of the powder or four tablets with a little water after your next meal, and see what a difference this makes. It will instantly neutralize the dangerous, harmful acid in the stomach which now causes your food to ferment and sour, making gas, wind, flatulence, heartburn and the bloated or heavy, lumpy feeling that seems to follow most everything you eat. You can enjoy your meals without a fear of indigestion.

Even her love couldn't forgive this fault

How "B. O." (Body Odor) almost broke up our engagement

THE merest gesture it was—but it told me clearly why she acted so coldly.

I was close to her—whispering softly—an offended look passed over her face.

Instantly I drew back. Why had her expression changed? Why was it that lately so many people looked at me queerly whenever I approached them? I was puzzled. But slowly a suspicion dawned upon me. "B.O." —Body Odor!

My guess was right. I never could have won her if I hadn't discovered my trouble and how to end it. Today we are married. There's no "B.O." to mar our happiness now.

Ever guilty of "B.O."?

"Of course, not!" we promptly tell ourselves. Yet, like the chap above, the most fastidious of us may at times offend others—unknowingly.

We must perspire. Even on a cool day, our pores gives off as much as a quart of odor-causing waste. Our sense of smell becomes deadened to this familiar odor. But to others, it's unbearably offensive.

Avoid this risk! Use Lifebuoy, the purifying toilet soap. Its bland and abundant antiseptic lather deodorizes pores, ends "B.O."

Splendid for the skin!

This same mild, antiseptic Lifebuoy lather also purifies face pores—keeps complexions smooth and clear. Guards health, too—by removing germs. You'll learn to love Lifebuoy's pleasant clean scent, which tells you Lifebuoy purifies, and which vanishes as you rinse.

Use Lifebuoy a week and you'll use it for life. Get some today.

Creomulsion contains, in addition to creosote, other healing elements which soothe and heal the inflamed membranes and stop the irritation, while the creosote goes on to the stomach, is absorbed into the blood, attacks the seat of the trouble and checks the growth of the germs.

Creomulsion is guaranteed satisfactory in the treatment of coughs from colds, bronchitis and minor forms of bronchial irritations, and is excellent for building up the system after colds or flu. Money refunded if not relieved after taking according to directions. Ask your druggist.

The Rotary Club of Pittsburgh indorsed the welfare bond issue at its luncheon in the Fort Pitt Hotel yesterday. The resolution, presented by John W. Chalfant, vice president of the Colonial Trust Company, contains the following:

"The Rotary Club of Pittsburgh is deeply interested in the mentally ill, the feeble-minded, epileptics and delinquents in the state-owned institutions of Pennsylvania, which are seriously overcrowded and lacking in many of the facilities necessary to give the best modern care to their patients. The Rotary Club indorses the $50,000,000 bond issue for capital development and improvement of state-owned institutions, and members of the organization are urged to vote favorably on this measure when it is presented at the polls as Amendment No. 10 on the ballot, November 6."

472,000 QUALIFY TO VOTE IN COUNTY, FIGURES SHOW

A total of 472,134 residents of Allegheny county will be eligible to vote at the November election, according to Gilbert C. Cloonan, county statistician.

The ballot will be the largest ever used in this county, 26 by 38 inches, since there are 14 proposed Constitutional amendments to be voted upon, beside local bond issues.

The Pittsburgh voters number 183,773 and, according to Cloonan, this total gives a ratio of 5 to 1 of Republicans and Democrats.

With the party division of the three other cities in the county incomplete, the aggregate of boroughs and townships show the ratio of the major parties to be 9 to 1 Republican. With McKeesport, Duquesne and Clairton included, this ratio might be lowered.

THAT WHEELING SNAKE A REAL BOA CONSTRICTOR

WHEELING, W. Va., Oct. 18.—Picked up in a street here a week ago, a four-foot snake has been identified as a tropical boa constrictor, but the mystery of its presence is unsolved. A. B. Brooks, naturalist at Ogelbay Park here, was unable to classify the snake and it was sent to the Cleveland (O), Museum of Natural History, which classified it as a young boa. It will be kept at the Cleveland museum.

Cascara is Your Doctor's Choice

When physicians pronounce cascara the PERFECT laxative—why experiment with things that lash the system into action? Cascara, you know, is the bark of a tree. A natural and normal stimulus to the bowels.

The Indians, who used to chew this bark, had no word in their language that meant "constipation!"

Perfect regularity is possible today, and to all of us. We have cascara in ideal form: the very delightful-tasting candy Cascaret gives us pure cascara. It has helped at least a million people to habitual regularity. Millions of others, unfortunately, have stuck to stronger things and acquired only the laxative habit.

CASCARETS
They Work While You Sleep!

Your first Cascaret will demonstrate how THOROUGH this gentle laxative is, after all. Your next surprise will be the length of time before you need another. Eventually, you'll see that cascarizing tends to make the bowels move thereafter of their own accord!

A modern drug store must stock many laxatives, but for your own good the druggist would rather have you ask for the inexpensive little box of Cascarets than anything else.

GLORY BARN CONVERTS TO BE BAPTIZED IN TANK

Immersion services will be held for the first time tonight by the Rev. John W. Sproul, in Glory Barn. A large number of persons who have professed Christianity will be baptized, the evangelist said.

For baptismal rites water in a tank will be heated and changed frequently. A large boiler has been installed to heat the big wooden tabernacle when cold weather arrives. This will keep the auditorium at 70 degrees. A ventilating system permits change of air every few minutes. Last night Mr. Sproul preached on "The Work of the Holy Spirit and the Dispensation of the Spirit."

HOLD 5 CHINESE FOR GRILLING

Five Chinese, arrested by East Pittsburgh police last night, are to be questioned by city police in connection with the tong war which broke out last Sunday in various sections of the country.

Borough police on complaint of neighbors raided the house at 803 Wilson avenue, and arrested Yee Say, 58; Engi Foo, 27; Jim Lee, 22, and Eng King, 22, all of that address, and Tony Wing, 29, of 599 One Hundred and Seventy-sixth street, New York. Neighbors had complained about noise the men were making. Police reported finding several notes and a gun in a search of the house. The prisoners are charged with violating a borough ordinance and will be arraigned before Burgess James Beech tonight.

Weather Conditions.

The disturbance that was centered over Missouri yesterday morning is now centered over Lake Michigan; lowest barometer reported 29.64 inches, at Green Bay, Wis. The low pressure area covers the Lake region, Ohio Valley states and the Upper Mississippi Valley states. It is causing cloudy weather everywhere over the eastern half of the country, and rain is falling this morning at scattered places in the Ohio Valley and the Lake region. Moderately heavy rains occurred during yesterday and last night over Western Pennsylvania and along the Ohio River as far down as Louisville and over Iowa.

There was a change to cooler following the rain, but there are no temperatures below 40 reported except in the far Northwest and in the Rocky Mountains.

River Conditions.

There was from an inch to an inch and a half of rain over the Upper Allegheny River during yesterday and last night, which started a rise in that section of the river. Moderately heavy rain occurred also over the Upper Ohio, but over the Monongahela the rain was very light. Stage at Pittsburgh is 9.9 feet; Dam No. 2, 8.5, and Dam No. 6, 7.6 feet. The Allegheny and the Ohio will rise slightly.

Winter ahead!

Your car—do you guess it's protected or are you SURE?

Insist on this seal. It appears only on standard glycerine solutions vouched for by the Glycerine Producers' Association as especially adapted for automobile use.

REG. U.S. PAT. OFF.

Give your car this permanent, safe, anti-freeze protection. No evaporation, no odor, no constant worry. Harmless to car and finish. Does not boil away.

RADIATOR Glycerine
THE SAFE ANTI-FREEZE

It can't evaporate—one filling NOW ends freeze-worries all winter . . .

WHY gamble with an anti-freeze that evaporates? "I guess it's safe" has cost motorists many thousands of dollars. For unless you use a permanent anti-freeze you never can be sure of safety. You can't see evaporation. That's what fools you. Silently, stealthily your protection slips away without your realizing it. Then a sudden cold snap and you're caught—radiator frozen, perhaps a cracked engine block or broken pump.

With Radiator Glycerine you know your car is freeze-proof all winter long.

Put it in your car NOW

It is a simple matter to make your car freeze-proof for the winter with one filling of Radiator Glycerine. It is far simpler than the constant worry and replacement that ordinary radiator solutions require. See that your car is properly serviced with Radiator Glycerine now and you can leave the tea kettle in the kitchen and stop running for more solution every time you have a cold snap.

Radiator Glycerine means permanent protection but, better still, it means safe protection. You know what glycerine is. You know it is so bland and harmless that it is even safe to eat. You take no chances with electrolytic corrosion, blistered car finish, inflammability or unpleasant odors.

Radiator Glycerine is merely this old friend adapted for radiator use. Amundsen used it in his flight to the North Pole, motor car manufacturers recommend it in their instruction books, the U.S. Bureau of Standards points out its virtues as meeting the requirements of an ideal anti-freeze.

See that your car is serviced for Glycerine

Remember that Radiator Glycerine is a "one-shot" anti-freeze—it should last at least one whole winter without replacement. Obviously it is a sensible precaution to make sure that you do not put it in a leaky cooling system, or that it is not wasted by carelessness. That's why we ask you to have your car properly serviced—a simple cleaning and tightening of the cooling system, is all that's necessary. Make sure this is done—our servicing instructions tell how. Then enjoy your car this winter as you never have before.

Investigate Radiator Glycerine. Your own garage probably has it. Any distributor listed here can tell you where to get it. Put it in now.

A good radio set needs a new set of tubes once a year

A brand new set of RCA Radiotrons at least once a year is the engineers' specification for maintaining fine broadcast reception. Change them all at one time. Old tubes lower the efficiency of new ones.

MORE PRIZES UP AS NEW ZAIN TEST BEGINS

The third of the six periods into which the $15,000 Zain Ad Test is divided expired at midnight last night, but the fourth period immediately began, with hundreds of new prizes to be won. One hundred dollars in cash will be paid by the Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph for the best advertisement about one of the 39 local business concerns co-operating in the test, that is sent in during the period by an amateur writer. For the best advertisement sent in during the entire course of the test the Sun-Telegraph will pay $1,000 in cash.

Aim high; strive to win the $1,000 prize. To be eligible for it you must send in at least one advertisement about each of the 39 firms some time during the campaign. If you fail to win the grand prize you will have a good chance, because of the pains you have taken, of winning one or more of the multitude of other awards to be made. In addition to the prizes totaling $15,000 in value that the Sun-Telegraph is giving, a number of the participating concerns are giving special prizes on their own account.

ALL HAVE CHANCE

You do not have to know anything about the technique of advertisement writing to get into the test on equal terms with the other contestants. The whole plan is based on the assumption that neither you nor theo ther contestants have written the other contestants have written advertisement writers and newspaper employes are barred.

Here are some appreciative letters from recent prize winners:

J. F. Weber, 636 Industry street, writes: "Just a word of thanks for the wonderful combination pen and pencil set awarded me in the Ad-Test. It just goes to show what a little effort may bring forth. It has been no little pleasure, to say nothing of the mental exercise afforded, to spend a few moments originating ideas."

W. W. Ross, 1111 East street, North Side, writes: "As winner of the Cogswell chair offered by Pickering's for the best ad written about their store during the first period of the Zain Ad-Test, I have just written them, advising of its safe delivery to my home yesterday. It is an award that will always be a reminder of the time well spent by me in writing Zain ads and one that is much appreciaed by my wife and myself."

READ THE RULES

Elsewhere on this page you will find the rules and a list of the 39 firms. Visit their stores; use their service; buy their products. That is the best way in which to get good ideas for ads about them. And remember, it is the idea that counts. The ad may be a plain statement of fact, a letter, slogan or jingle.

You will experience no difficulty in obtaining material for an interesting advertisement about the P. H. Butler Grocers. "There's a store near you." Call attention to the big business done by Butler's, which insures rapid turnover and fresh goods. Call attention to the great variety of the groceries carried, the low prices, and the prompt and satisfactory sales service.

The Haller Baking Company, 206 North Denniston avenue, has delivery trucks covering a wide territory, through which their bread, rolls and cakes are sent direct from "oven to home." You can easily see what that means in getting fresh goods to the customers. Haller products not only are famous for being delivered fresh; they are made with the greatest care, and are both palatable and wholesome.

As this is written the weather forecaster predicts showers. And showers bring to mind Sam's Umbrella Shop at 635 Penn avenue, "Pittsburgh's only exclusive shop." You may think there is nothing that you can learn about umbrellas, but if you will call at Sam's and ask some questions you will learn differently. Sam carries a large stock of men's and women's umbrellas. He repairs umbrellas, too.

LIVE SUBJECTS

United States Royal Tires and Willard Batteries are to be featured in the advertisements you write about the Glick Auto Supply Company, 3534-3542 Bigelow boulevard. Inquire about the material of which Royal Tires are made and of their reputation for long life. They are good for many thousands of miles. Willard Batteries are celebrated for their reliability and durability.

Write each ad on a separate sheet of paper, which should be at least as large as a postal card, and preferably commercial letter size. Put your name and address on the back of each sheet and also on the flap of the envelope in which you mail them. SEND THE ADS TO THE ZAIN AD-WRITING TEST, CARE OF THE PITTSBURGH SUN-TELEGRAPH, PITTSBURGH, PA.

4—Ads submitted for the grand prize must be received before midnight on November 15, 1928. In order to compete for grand prize, contestants must have submitted at least one ad on each concern listed.

HEAVY RAIN SPOILS FIRST DAY OF HUNTING SEASON

A heavy rain dampened the ardor of hunters for the opening of the bird and squirrel hunting season in Pennsylvania today. Drastic changes have been made in the game laws since the last hunting season closed.

Set to open on October 15, an advance of two weeks, the actual opening was delayed by a new three-day per week hunting schedule. Hunting for the feathered game is restricted to the last three days of the week, Thursday, Friday and Saturday. This three-day schedule will also prevail during part of the rabbit hunting season.

Quail and pheasant are reported in abundance in the counties in Western Pennsylvania, but large bags, it is believed, will be the exception during the early days of the season, due to the heavy foliage in the woods this year. The trees are still almost in full leaf and the underbrush has been heavy which will make hunting for pheasant difficult.

The pheasant and quail season lasts until November 30. The rabbit season opens November 1, with a three-day season each week until November 30, and a six-day week season until December 15. Deer hunting will be restricted to doe deer this year, the hunters taking out a special license.

WOMAN RUN DOWN, INJURED BY AUTO

Miss Estella Forsythe, 45, of 1304 Arch street, was in critical condition in the Allegheny General Hospital today, her skull and jaw fractured when she was hit by an auto at Stockton and Merchant avenues. The driver, Thomas McDonald, 30, of 220 Herendon street, was held by police.

Stomach Signals; Read Them Right

PROBABLY that belching after eating is nothing more than the sign of excessive gastric acid. It is well to know how easily this may always be remedied. Quick and complete relief can be obtained by taking a little "Pape's Diapepsin" after eating or when pain is felt. So remember this for your comfort, and lest that constant gas on the stomach does not drift into gastritis!

"Pape's Diapepsin" instantly neutralizes the excess stomach acid and soothes, heals and strengthens the inflamed stomach lining, promoting normal, painless digestion and thus helping to prevent future trouble.

For many years millions have used and recommended "Pape's Diapepsin" for the speedy and sure relief of indigestion and allied stomach troubles. Follow their example! Get a 60-cent package of "Pape's Diapepsin" from any druggist; no matter how severe your stomach troubles you will get relief.

MISS MARION DAHL

Know Her?

You ought to know this lovely New York City girl because her blonde beauty has been displayed on so many magazine covers. She's Marion Dahl, 35 Clarkson St., Brooklyn. Artists say she's a "type!" They fairly rave over her delicate flesh tints and the golden glory of her hair!

Miss Dahl says: "Everyone I know, tells me how wonderful my hair looks, nowadays. I don't feel like it's a personal compliment, however; I take it more as a compliment to the method I'm using to care for it. It's the rage among girls here in New York. All you do is put a little Danderine on your brush each time you use it. My hair was wiry and hard to keep in place, but Danderine makes it soft and easy to dress and holds it like I arrange it, for hours! My scalp fairly tingles with vigor after I use it, and it keeps my head so clean I don't need to shampoo half so often. It brings out the color of my hair marvelously, making it fairly glisten!"

Every application of Danderine tones and refreshes your scalp. It removes the oily film from each strand and makes dull, stringy hair gleamy, soft and easily manageable. It dissolves dandruff and keeps it out of your hair. It isn't sticky or oily. It doesn't show. All drug stores have the generous 35c bottles.

Best Remedy for Obstinate Cough Made at Home

You'll never know how quickly a stubborn cough or chest cold can be conquered, until you try this famous recipe. It is used in millions of homes, because it gives more prompt, positive relief than anything else. It's no trouble at all to mix and costs but a trifle.

Into a pint bottle, pour 2½ ounces of Pinex; then add plain granulated sugar syrup or strained honey to make a full pint. This saves two-thirds of the money usually spent for cough medicine, and gives you a purer, better remedy. It never spoils, and tastes good—children like it.

You can actually feel its penetrating, soothing action on the inflamed throat membranes. It also promptly loosens the germ-laden phlegm, and at the same time, it is absorbed into the blood, where it acts directly on the bronchial tubes. This three-fold action explains why it brings such quick relief even in severe bronchial coughs and "flu" coughs.

Pinex is a highly concentrated compound of genuine Norway pine, containing the active agent of creosote, in a refined, palatable form, and known as one of the greatest healing agents for severe coughs, chest colds and bronchial troubles.

Do not accept a substitute for Pinex. It is guaranteed to give prompt relief or money refunded.

HOT TEA BREAKS A COLD—TRY THIS

Get a small package of Hamburg Breast Tea at any pharmacy. Take a tablespoonful of this hamburg tea, put a cup of boiling water upon it, pour through a sieve and drink a teacupful at any time. It is the most effective way to break a cold and relieve grip, as it opens the pores, relieving congestion. Also loosens the bowels, thus breaking a cold at once.

It is inexpensive and entirely vegetable, therefore harmless.

Ten Candidates in One

The Republican Party presents in a candidate who is at once an administrator, and a business man, an engineer and a scientist, a statesman, and an authority on conservation and aviation, manufacturing and merchandising, agriculture and foreign trade, domestic commerce and international affairs.

His grasp on transportation problems is the knowledge gained as a shipper of more tonnage by land and sea, than any man of his time. He has bought and sold and distributed more grain and meat than entire nations annually consume.

The yield, the soil, the traffic facilities of every grange and ranch section are at the tips of his mental fingers. He knows farm overheads and marketing costs. He knows elevator charges and dockage percentages. He knows the competitive districts and crops of the universe—the dumping grounds and the fighting grounds of export.

He called the first employment conference in history, when 5,000,000 men were unemployed and he organized them back into jobs.

For eight years he has dealt daily with the progress of electrical development and water power.

His memory is a blue-print mapped with inland waterways.

He has studied Mississippi flood control on breaking levee banks, with his brain in overalls, not clad in statistics and second-handed analysis.

He has waged relentless campaigns against industrial negligence, mining risks, and hazardous machinery.

He has directed the Bureau of Standards, an experimental laboratory in which millions are daily saved for commerce—a Federal hospital that prescribes cures for the thousand wasting diseases of business—a monster test tube, ceaselessly changing rubbish to dividends, and waste piles to revenues.

He has guided the course of commercial aviation.

He has been commander-in-chief in the development of our radio forces, and road-breaker for the wizardries of wireless transmission.

He has shown merchandising how to make two profits where one grew before by standardizing and simplifying production, reducing assortments to essentials, and substituting the exactitudes of science for the hits and misses of inefficiency. He has brought cheaper production to the factory and cheaper prices to the home.

He has measured the reckless decimation of our timberlands and charted the conservation of oil and mineral resources in practical terms.

He has conducted researches in dairying, stockbreeding, fertilization—and taught young industries the fundamental laws of management and marketing.

He has smashed rubber monopoly and kept the maintenance cost of automobiles within average purse reach.

He has found outlets for our goods from Dan to Beersheba, and furnished American commerce with a Bureau of Information that is saving millions once lost through ignorance of alien codes and trade practices.

A vote for Herbert Hoover is a vote for experience, not experiment—a vote for the continuance of an administration which has led America to new peaks of achievement—a vote for the party which has wiped soup-kitchens, strikes and bread lines from the land—a vote for stability, and for efficient government—a vote for continued high wages, busy mills, active factories—for the protection of American investment, American labor, and American homes from the invasion of pauper labor and product—from quack legislation—from the corner saloon. And from a half-hearted tariff.

The continuance of the Republican Party in office means the continuance of prosperity—means the greatest living American in the White House.

AVOID DIZZY SPELLS

Never well. Always tired and fagged out. Beauty tossed away by neglect. To be beautiful and to keep youth the system must be free from poisonous backwash of constipation, which often causes dizzy spells. For 20 years, Dr. F. M. Edwards gave his patients, in place of calomel, a compound of vegetable ingredients mixed with olive oil, naming them Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets. Known by their olive color. They free the system of poisons that ravage health, energy, beauty.

You need never have sallow complexion, dull eyes, coated tongue, throbbing headaches—all signs that your bowels are clogged, liver is torpid. Take Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets nightly. They act smoothly and without griping . . . How much better you'll feel and look! Everywhere wise men and women who know the value of good health take Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets. All druggists, 15c, 30c and 60c.

Chronicles of Thespians Abroad; Amusements in Our Theaters

LUNT AND LYNN FONTANNE NOT SURE WHO THEY ARE SINCE VISIT TO SPAIN

By GEORGE SEIBEL.

GEORGE SEIBEL

ALFRED LUNT and Mrs. Alfred Lunt, who is known on the stage as Lynn Fontanne, spent last summer in Spain and are full of raptures about the land of the Toreadors and Don Quixote. But they got their greatest thrill when they encountered a group of American tourists in Granada. They heard two women who had been regarding them intently say to each other: "He certainly does look like Alfred Lunt." "Yes," replied the other one, "he does—but the shape of his head is different. And she looks like Lynn Fontanne." "She does," admitted the first woman, "but she hasn't got Lynn Fontanne's nose."

Even since then the Lunts have not been sure of their own identity.

They saw little of the drama in Spain, during the summer season, but much of the country and the people. "Spain," said Mr. Lunt between the acts of "Arms and the Man" at the Nixon, "is the land of romance and color. There almost anything could happen. If we had met Don Quixote riding down a hill, with the helmet of Mambrino on his head, we should not have been one bit surprised. There are relics of the Romans everywhere, relics of the Carthaginians, even of the Phoenicians, who used to come here to get tin—but the most interesting of all are the relics of the Moors, who built a Mahometan civilization there that has seldom been surpassed in the history of the world. Modern medicine, astronomy, mathemathics, and a lot of other sciences go back to the days of the Moors in Spain, in Granada and Cordova especially."

Mr. Lunt hopes some day to appear in a drama based upon a legend in Washington Irving's "Tales of the Alhambra." There is a story by Chateaubriand, called "The Last of the Abencerages," which also appeals to him strongly, but its climax is lyric rather than dramatic.

As for Mrs. Lunt, she has ambitions in another direction. Lady Macbeth is the role she would like to enact. She has ideas about the character that would give it an entirely new angle, a different psychological aspect.

"Lady Macbeth was not the truculent and bloodthirsty person she is usually supposed to be," said Miss Fontanne. "She was most likely a sweet and gentle creature, like so many of our modern murderesses. Lucrezia Borgia and Beatrice Cenci were not hard as nails, mannish and dictatorial. Now a woman of that sort would rarely commit a murder, because no one would give her the chance—everybody would be watching her for any overt act. No, the dangerous women are those that look the most harmless."

"At any rate," I consoled her, "you would not need to fear the law. Your trip to Spain shows you how hard it is to identify anybody."

"Yes," she admitted, "but that makes it equally difficult to prove an alibi."

PLAYERS COMING :-: NEXT MONDAY :-: IN NEW BILLS

Hot Biscuits for Breakfast—

an easier and better way

Strange, isn't it, that when Mother announces "Hot biscuits for breakfast," everyone hops out of bed without any urging? Just try this time-saving scheme and we'll wager your family will have hot biscuits for breakfast often.

Whenever you make biscuits for the evening meal, mix up enough extra dough for the following morning. Have your biscuits all cut out, put them in the pan and keep them overnight where it's cold. All you have to do the next morning is to heat your oven and bake them.

Try this tested recipe for biscuits given below. Made with Crisco they are light, tender, fluffy and snowy-white.

Master Recipe
for "Rolled" Biscuits

2 cups bread flour
4 teaspoons baking powder
½ teaspoon salt
4 tablespoons Crisco
¾ cup milk or water (for "drop" biscuits) or
⅔ cup milk or water (for "rolled" biscuits)

Sift dry ingredients together 3 times. Work Crisco in with fork. Add liquid gradually.

Form dough into shape, roll ½ inch thick, cut. For scone-shaped biscuits, cut squares, then diagonally in half. Brush top of biscuits with melted Crisco or milk. Bake in hot oven (450° F.) 15 to 20 minutes. Makes about 12 biscuits.

To use buttermilk or sour milk beat in ¼ teaspoon soda for each cup of milk. (If milk is very thick, use a little more milk.) Use same amount of baking powder and follow method for either "drop" or "rolled" biscuits.

You taste your milk— You test your eggs— NOW—taste your shortening!

Crisco's sweet flavor will delight you!

Crisco is the registered trade-mark of a shortening manufactured by The Procter & Gamble Company

DAPPER'S DEATH LAID TO CEMETERY PROWLER

Is there a mad man roaming the night in Mifflin township wreaking an insane rage in wrecking the tombs of cemeteries, frightening citizens into suicidal mania, and playing the leading role in mysterious murders.

There is a question keeping county detectives awake at night and causing First District Attorney Andrew T. Park to declare that his insistance that the mysterious killing of H. R. Dapper, shot to death at the Lebanon Church road near Buttermilk Hollow, Mifflin township, on the night of August 20th, was the work of a madman with a grewsome predilection for church yard cemetaries as the scene of his nocturnal activities.

ROADS SHUNNED

Travelers are shunning Buttermilk Hollow and the Lebanon Church road more than ever now since its record of two murders and numerous grave-yard-ghoul activities has been followed by a tragic suicide in the very house and very room where a murder was committed 8 years ago.

What obsessed Jacob L. Gessner, 65, prosperous inspector of the National Tube Company, to fatally shoot himself early on Monday, October 8th, in the Kirker home, Lebanon Church road, Buttermilk Hollow, Mifflin township. The Gessner family knows of no reason for his melancholy and sleepless nights but old wives of the district whisper that he must have seen the fiend who has wrecked scores of tombs on the Lebanon Church road district, and who is suspected of having lured Dr. Dapper to his doom.

Mrs. Margaret Dapper, the widow of the celebrated murder mystery has long since taken refuge in the home of her father-in-law, H. A. Dapper, 18 Clifton boulevard, Carrick, where she lives with her small daughter while watchmen guard against the mysterious night prowler who has several times alarmed the family. Dr. Dapper's home at 1211 Brownsville road, Carrick, from which he was lured to Lebanon Church cemetary and to his death, is closed.

Buttermilk Hollow and the Lebanon Church road first came into notoriety when on December 18th, 1920, Mrs. Anna Kirker, a bride of 25, was found slain in her cottage and Joe Thomas, a Negro, was arrested as her slayer. Thomas escaped, was re-arrested and electrocuted for the crime, although some insist that he was innocent and that the mystery had never been solved.

Eight years later came the Dapper murder in the same vicinity, and Assistant Prosecutor Park's theory that a madman was the murderer. Then three [illegible]taries, Roman Catholic, Jewish, and Protestant in the district were entered night after night and t[illegible] wrecked and ruined by a ghoul. One tomb, valued at $2200, was shattered, and scores of graves in each cemetery marred and crosses and monuments defaced. Then on October 8th, Jacob Gessner ended his months of brooding by killing himself just where Anna Kirker had been killed 8 years before.

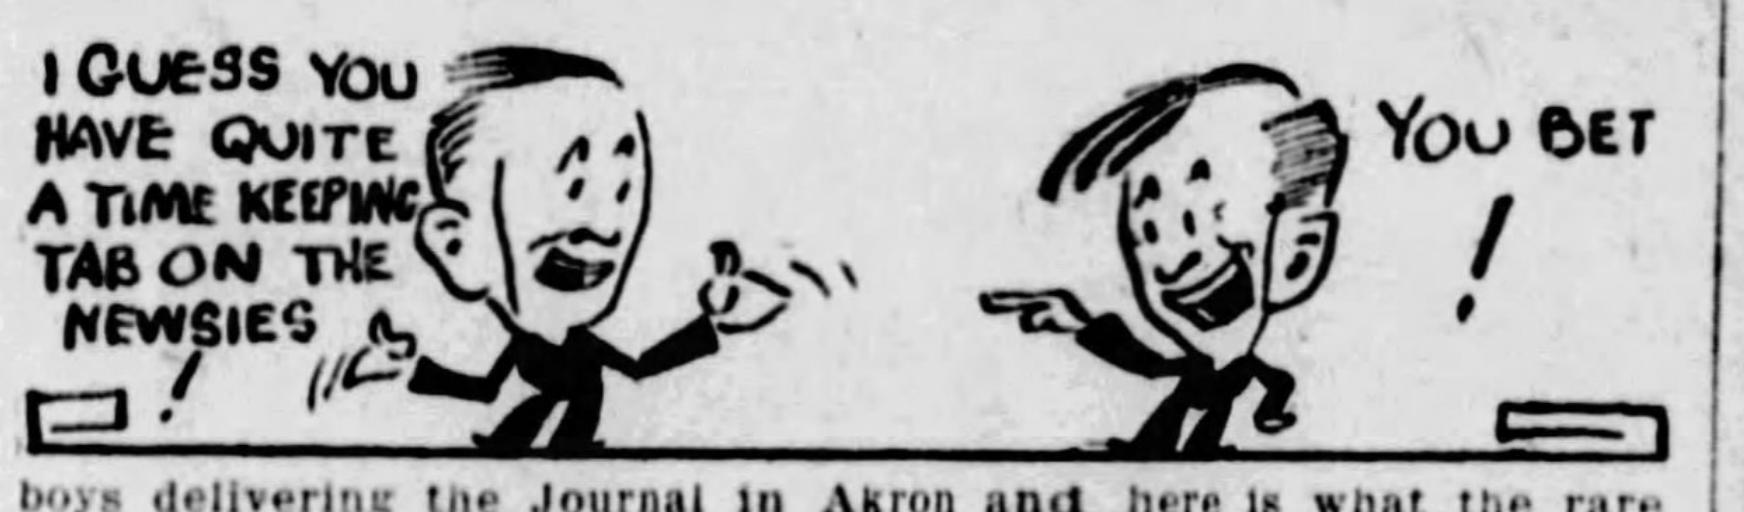
SIDEWALKS OF PITTSBURGH

By HAVEY J. BOYLE

RABBIT MARANVILLE, who played for the Pirates and also worked here a couple of winter seasons, and who, the experts say, was about the only star the Cardinals had in the last world series, is visiting in Akron, O., with an ex-Pittsburgher, Joe Aylward, who is now circulation manager of the Akron Beacon Journal. Mr. Aylward got the Rabbit to make a talk to the newsboys delivering the Journal in Akron and here is what the rare Rabbit said in his speech:



I GUESS YOU HAVE QUITE A TIME KEEPING TAB ON THE NEWSIES !
YOU BET !

"It is quite a pleasure to meet and talk with you boys, because over a long period I have noted many good things the newsboys of Akron have been doing."

It just goes to show what a close observer of things the Rabbit always has been, for if you consider the fact that for a great many years he has been playing in cities more or less remote from Akron, and the further fact that Rabbit has had many and varied interests, you grasp the idea that Rabbit must have had quite a time keeping tab on the newsies of Akron.

You can't tie the Rabbit.

A friend of the Sunday night concerts suggests that this column remind music-lovers that the first of the season's Sunday night affairs will be heard in Syria Mosque, October 28. While the success of the coming season is already assured there are still seats for new subscribers.

THIS recalls how one of the concerts of last season was saved by a hairpin. Elias Breeskin, of Pittsburgh, is the man who rehearses the local orchestra. On a concert night Mr. Bresskin had to make quick connections between a downtown assignment and the Mosque in Oakland.

He made arrangements to have a dress suit delivered to the Mosque where he planned to make a quick change. He discovered that his vest was missing just about the time he was told the concert was to begin in five minutes. A hurry call was sent out for a vest. A man connected with the orchestra association volunteered his vest and then buttoned his coat to hide his lack of one.

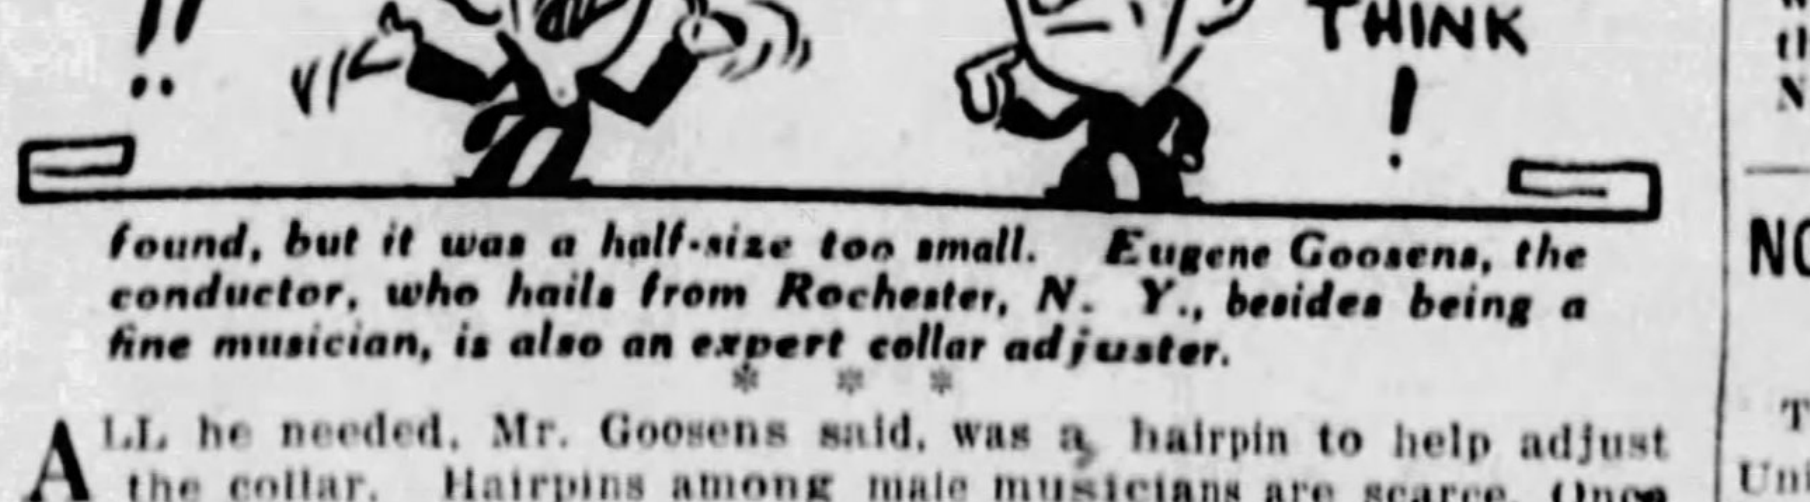
When Mr. Breeskin got his vest, everyone thought the crisis was over, but it was then discovered he had no collar. There followed another hasty scramble for a collar. One was found, but it was a half-size too small. Eugene Goosens, the conductor, who hails from Rochester, N. Y., besides being a fine musician, is also an expert collar adjuster.



AND NOW NO COLLAR !!
HUM-M-M LET ME THINK !

ALL he needed, Mr. Goosens said, was a hairpin to help adjust the collar. Hairpins among male musicians are scarce. Once more a messenger went out through the audience. Hairpins, it developed, were scarce even among the ladies. One dowager was considerably taken back when the excited messenger asked her if she would give a hairpin to save the concert. It was an unusual request, but the lady consented to make a contribution to art. Then with the aid of the hairpin Mr. Goosens adjusted Mr. Breeskin's collar.

It is further reported that Mr. Breeshin in a borrowed vest and a collar that was too small was not altogether a picture of freedom of movement that evening at the mosque.

In the evening the Rev. Dr. George W. Mead will preach. The Bible school and Christian Endeavor societies will hold special services on that date.

Lincoln Avenue Widened

Under the auspices of the Civic Club of the Lincoln avenue district a community celebration will be held next Thursday afternoon and evening observing the completion of the widening and repaving of Lincoln avenue from Frankstown avenue to the city line. The East End Terrace Association is joining with the Civic Club in perfecting the program.

The exercises will take place in the Lemington avenue school house and on Agnew street adjoining. Appropriate exercises by the school children of the district; a band concert at night; street dancing on Agnew street; Punch and Judy shows and an automobile parade are a few of the features of the program that has been arranged. At the completion of the afternoon program a dinner will be held in the auditorium of the Corpus Christi Catholic Church, Lincoln avenue and Agnew street. City and County officials, including judges of the local courts and representatives of the Pittsburgh Railways Company, are expected to attend.

SHANNON LINKS ERROR IN COURT

Finding that a part of Baldwin township, comprising a triangular wedge into the Castle Shannon Golf Club links, cannot be annexed to both Mt. Lebanon township and the city of Pittsburgh, an amendment was filed in Quarter Sessions Court to set the matter straight.

On July 5 a petition was filed for annexing a small section of Baldwin township to Mt. Lebanon township so that children living therein could go to the new Mt. Lebanon School nearby instead of traveling two miles to Baldwin Township School.

Two weeks later a petition was filed by citizens of a somewhat larger section of Baldwin township asking annexation to Pittsburgh. In the description, by an error, the little triangle in the golf links was also included in the part asking annexation to Pittsburgh.

Judge James B. Drew allowed the amendment. A hearing will be held on the whole annexation question October 19 after which an election date will be set.

ST. ADELBERT'S SOCIETY WILL GIVE MASQUERADE

A masquerade dance will be held by the St. Therese's society of the St. Adelbert's Catholic Church in the school hall, South Fifteenth street, Monday night.

E. PGH. SCHOOL RENOVATED

The Bessemer avenue public school of the borough of East Pittsburgh underwent a thorough renovation during the vacation, being painted inside and out and having all the windows weatherstripped. Since the beginning of the new school term the underweight children have been given daily rations of graham crackers and milk at intervals during their school hours. Three new teachers have been added to the grade school teaching force—Miss Elizabeth Brown, Miss Florence Morgan and Miss Sarah Cousins. They are all members of the first graduating class of the East Pittsburgh High School and all graduated last June from the Indiana State Normal School.

North Boroughs Form Symphony Orchestra

How are you on the clarinet, horn, violin, saxophone, bassoon, piccolo, or what have you?

If you can play any instrument acceptably you are invited to become a member of the first North Boroughs Community Symphony Orchestra. The first meeting and rehearsal was held in Avalon Borough Hall. Its sponsors hope to weld a high class organization from public school musicians and others in Avalon, Bellevue, Ben Avon, Emsworth and West View.

Fred W. Penfield, of 529 Taylor avenue, Avalon, director of the Letter Carriers' Band and also of a children's orchestra in the Odd Fellows' Orphanage, Davis avenue, is leading the movement for the community orchestra.

"We would like to interest the entire North Boroughs in our orchestra," said Mr. Penfield. "We feel that there is abundant talent to develop a very creditable organization."

To Speed Carson Survey

Preliminary surveys and estimates of cost for the widening and reconstruction of East Carson street extension, from the city line at Beck's Run to Eighth avenue, Hays borough, will be started in the near future.

Public Works Director Norman F. Brown yesterday conferred with County Commissioners and informed them that it was the desire of the Public Works Department to start work on this project as soon as possible.

Director Brown told Commissioners that the improvement was too big for the county road maintenance department to handle and it would be necessary for the county to advertise for bids. Before bids could be solicited, the Director pointed out, complete plans, surveys, preparation of construction and grand jury plans would have to be made.

County Commissioner Joseph G. Armstrong is anxious to have the work started. East Carson street extension is a direct outlet for the South Side to municipalities in the Homestead district. The improvement when completed will make Carson street extension a high speed thoroughfare.

The cost of the improvement will not be determined until after preliminary surveys and plans are completed. The widening and reconstruction of East Carson street is one of the improvement projects authorized in the people's bond issue passed this year. The cost of the improvement will be taken from bond issue funds.

Further discussion on the project will be held when the Commissioners meet next week. Authority to begin the surveys is expected to be granted Director Brown following the meeting.

WHISKY RUN SPAN O. K'D

A modern steel bridge costing $25,000 will replace the present obsolete wooden span over Whisky run, Noblestown road, Greentree borough. Authority to advertise for bids for the construction of the span was granted Public Work Director Norman F. Brown, by County Commissioners yesterday.

An agreement entered into between the county and State Highway Department, June 5, this year, called for the widening and reconstruction of Noblestown road. The work is about completed. County engineers informed Commissioners yesterday that the old span should be razed and a new one built to conform with the Noblestown road improvement.

NEW GRAHAM BOULEVARD

Work is advanced on the improvement of Graham boulevard, on the edge of Wilkinsburg, to connect three important highways—Laketon road, William Penn highway and Greensburg pike. The new road, expected open by winter, will be of concrete and brick construction from Laketon road to Greensburg pike, crossing the William Penn highway at the eastern Wilkinsburg line. Wilkinsburg and the county share expenses.

RETURN TO NORMAL ROUTES SATURDAY

The opening of the new Sixth Street Bridge to traffic will permit the North Side street cars to return to normal routes on Saturday, October 20.

Traffic problems have been carefully considered in rerouting the lines. A general plan adopted in June, 1927, for street car lines in the entire downtown district will be completely placed into effect with the changes to be made on Saturday.

Practically all of the North Side cars will be looped so that three right turns will be made and only one left turn. This will result in a minimum disturbance to through traffic.

All of the lines operating over the Ninth Street Bridge except Route 5, Spring Garden, will run over the Seventh Street Bridge. All of the Seventh Street Bridge lines except Route 18, Woods Run, and Route 19, Western avenue, will be changed to the Sixth Street Bridge.

The Sixth Street Bridge cars, with the exception of Routes 7 and 22, will make a loop on Penn avenue to Sanwix street to Duquesne way and back over the bridge.

All Seventh Street Bridge cars will loop on Penn avenue, Sixth street and Duquesne way. The Spring Garden Line will turn on Penn avenue, Seventh street and Duquesne way.

Route 7, Charles street, will operate on Sixth street to Liberty avenue. It will turn at Twelfth street, come back on Liberty avenue to Stanwix street, Duquesne way and the bridge.

Route 22 will run out Sixth street to Liberty avenue and Sixth avenue. It will return on Fifth avenue, Penn avenue and Stanwix street.

To reduce congestion Routes 86 and 88 will turn at Seventh street and Route 95 at Ninth street.

Mouthorgan Band Organized at Allen School

The lowly harmonica always has been more or less notorious. But now it comes in for a share of glorification.

This has been brought about by the organization of a harmonica band at the Allen school, Mount Washington. There are about 75 members in this unique orchestra, all of them being pupils at the school.

The band has been sponsored by H. G. Masters, principal of the school, and by Miss Blanche Longdon, an instructor.

In speaking of the band, Mr. Masters said: "It is just of those interesting things we do to quicken interest in music. While, in a true sense, the harmonica is not a musical instrument, we find it excellent in creating interest in music."

The prize "soloist" in the band is said to be Albert Endler. Albert is a product of Germany and is but 8 years old. "But he's a shark when it come to the mouthorgan," his schoolmates say. Other members of the band include Walter Bonvey, Russell McIlvainey, Clarence Rohrbacher, John Okey, Lloyd Long, Robert De Haas, Jack Noah, Jack Channing and Alfred Simmen.

HOMESTEAD TO FORM GIRL SCOUT COUNCIL

A local council for the Girl Scouts of Homestead will be organized at a meeting tomorrow night in the Homestead Library. Pittsburgh Scouts will serve as aides for the Teachers' Institute at Syria Mosque, Friday. Miss Adelaide Werner, director of Girl Scout Region No. 5, assisted in instructing scouts in a troop management course Wednesday night in Utility Hall.

Dormont Orders Walks

Borough Manager E. O. Garrett of Dormont went walking one day not so long ago. And today pavement contractors are working overtime in that borough.

It seems that Mr. Garrett found many Dormont sidewalks in a sad way—there were many defects and many needs of repair. So he continued his walk, which by this time developed into the nature of a survey. The result was that over 200 notices were sent out, asking property owners to look to their pavements. They were given 10 days to get busy.

Now the time limit is up and the borough manager plans another walk to see how things are coming along. But already answers received to his notices indicate that Dormont will start the winter with some well repaired pavements.

Those that are deliquent in giving the matter their attention will find that the borough will see that their walks are paved—but they will get the bill. And if they refuse to pay, the borough's police chief, Albert Ruehling, also will go walking—handing out summonses.

AVALON BUILDS MANY HOMES

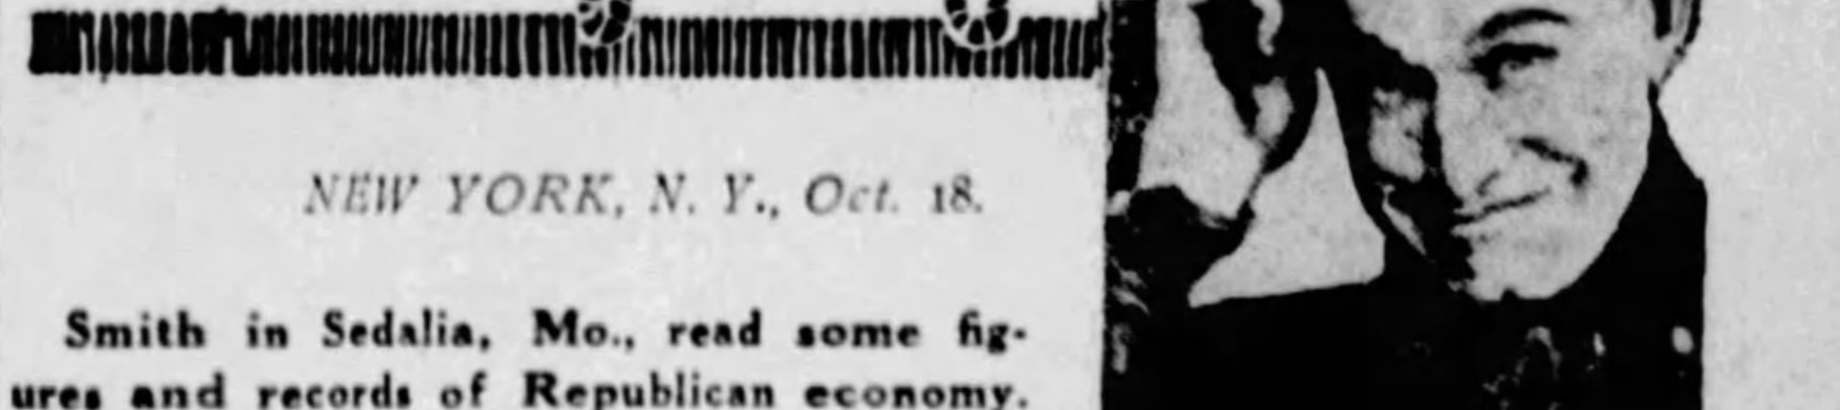
New Buildings in Avalon since the first of the year total approximately $200,000, Capt. J. N. Arthur, borough manager, announced.

Several fine new residences have been erected in California avenue and adjacent streets. Garages have been numerous. Recent permits issued for buildings over $5,000 follow:

To Peter Bromilow, brick veneer dwelling, Center avenue, $6,000; Ida M. Shaney, double brick veneer dwelling, Elizabeth avenue, $8,800; Santo Amideo, remodeling dwelling front into storeroom, 618 California avenue, $9,000.

Braddock Schools Plan Mouthorgan Contest

Under the ausupices of the Capitol Theater of Braddock a harmonica contest will be conducted for the benefit of the school children of the boroughs of Braddock, Rankin and North Braddock. Public and parochial school pupils will be eligible for the gold and silver medals that will be awarded the winners. In order that each child have a fair chance an instructor E. I. Clark has been engaged who will for the next four weeks teach the contestants the instrument.



Will Rogers Says

NEW YORK, N. Y., Oct. 18.

Smith in Sedalia, Mo., read some figures and records of Republican economy. The Department of Agriculture had spent 45 million more in '27 than in '24. That means that cost of "promise of relief" has advanced that much.

Mellon's department had saved some money but it showed that it cost 50 million more to save it than it did the same department in '24, showing that even the cost of saving money has gone up.

They have also been printing government documents on both sides of the paper. I don't know how any one ever found it out that they were using both sides.

Yours, WILL ROGERS.

STOLEN LOVE

by HAZEL LIVINGSTON

Bill Dreams of Joan After Rollo's Dad Gives Him a Chance to Make Good

WHAT HAS GONE BEFORE

Joan Hastings, seventeen and beautiful, living with two old maiden aunts in a house long run to seed, hears the tragic story of her unmarried mother's love affair and death from Aunt Evvie, who warns her not to follow in her footsteps. Joan, lonely and impressionable, falls in love with Bill Martin, whose social status is far beneath her own. The aunts plan to send her away to school, and she and Bill, terrified at the thought of parting, let their emotions get the upper hand. Bill is arrested, the victim of a bootlegging gang, and Joan, frantically asking for money to bail him out, confesses to her aunts her relations with him. Horrified, they put her on a train, bound for school, in charge of a woman friend. They denounce Bill and persuade him never to see her again. Joan slips off the train, and Walter Dunne, a kindly motorist, gives her a ride back over the two hundred miles. She arrives at Bill's home a little while after he has kissed his mother goodby, leaving no address. Through Dunne, she goes to live with Maisie Kimmer and gets a job in a department store. She writes Bill, but receives no answer. Her aunts hear that she has never reached the school, and Evvie telegraphs the woman to whom she entrusted her that Joan took a later train, after being left behind by accident at a way station. Having assured herself that this lie is admissible, Evvie washes her hands of her niece. Meanwhile Bill, on his way, picks up Rollo Keyes, a rich lad befuddled with drink, gets his car to working for him and drives him to his home.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY.

"I SURE have," Rollo agreed pleasantly. "I'm through with the oil business. Too smelly. How would you like to set me up in real estate, eh, pop?"

"Not a cent!" he shouted.

"Oh, very well!" Rollo said, not in the least disturbed. "Shall I leave your house, too? You usually have me leave home, you know. Don't forget the best part of the speech. Before I go, I'll have a little more of the beef, please—and another potato—"

He chattered on, dragging in all his tried and trusting wiles, all the old jokes that never failed to get a laugh, but they fell flat. The old man didn't respond. He sat in heavy silence, seeming not to hear.

"Oh, by the way, send up a tray to my friend upstairs," Rollo directed the maid when the meal was over.

"And send him down to me when he has eaten!"

"Sure—throw us both out together. Say, you should have seen that bird fix the car on the road last night. I take my hat off to him—"

"I'd have taken mine off to you if you had done it yourself!" the old man answered.

When Bill came into the room he looked at him a long time. He looked at Bill's broad shoulders, his strong freckled hands. He questioned about the repairing of the car on the road. Why wasn't Rollo like this lad? Why wasn't he?

"I might use you—if you aren't afraid of getting your hands dirty," he said gruffly.

"Hear, hear!" Rollo shouted.

Bill glanced quickly from one to the other. He didn't understand them, and he was ill at ease in their big, pretentious house. Still, here was a chance, a chance to go to work, and make something of himself . . . for Joan.

His face glowed. He reached out and took the old man's knotted, hairy paw in his. "Try me!" he said.

Bill was learning surveying. Emmett Keyes gave orders that he was to have every opportunity, every opportunity that Rollo should have had. He thought, poor, lonely old man, that Rollo would come back to it, too, when he saw what he was doing for the other boy. He thought that in Rollo's friendship for Bill he would lose interest in certain other of his friends, whose influence he feared. So he schemed, and he planned—first for Rollo's sake. After awhile, for Bill's sake.

Yes, Bill was getting ahead. As the days slipped by, and the weeks turned into months he was sure of it.

"When summer comes — say about August, I'll strike for a vacation, and run up home and see Ma," he promised himself.

He meant that he would see Joan, but he wouldn't promise himself that yet. "Not till I really got there—have something decent to offer. She deserves the best—and I'm going to see that she gets it!"

Bill was none of your letter writers. He didn't want letters, he wanted Joan.

But the days that Bill checked blithely off on his calendar dragged drearily for Joan. The bright dream was fading. She still looked on the little hall table every night when she came in the door. She still sorted the little heap of old bills and circulars Maisie left there—hoping—hoping—

"Anything for me, Maisie?"

But she knew what the answer would be.

"Dearie, it's foolish to mope that way. I don't want to hurt your feelings, but don't you think he would answer your letters if he wanted to see you again?" Maisie asked gently.

"If he got them, he'd answer," Joan said stoutly.

"Well, didn't you say he had a mother in Sausalito?"

"Yes"—very low.

"Well, dearie—why don't you—"

"I told you I didn't want to go back—I might meet my aunts—"

"But you could write to her," Maisie said reasonably. "I notice you never put the return address on the letters"—

CHAPTER XIII.

JOAN turned the key in the door slowly a few evening later.

She knew what was waiting for her on the little hall table, even before Maisie, frying chops in the kitchen, pushed the swinging door ajar, and called: "There's a letter for you!"

Maisie, sympathetic Maisie, who never knew that anyone ever wanted to be alone, came and waited, drying her ink, ringed hands on a kitchen apron, while Joan ripped the big manila envelope open.

All her letters, forlorn little pile of them, came back to her. And Mrs. Martin was glad Joan wrote, she was indeed, because she didn't know what to do with the letters, Bill not sending his address or anything, but she knew he was getting along all right, because he was a good boy, and he sent money home regularly. And she hoped Joan would come and see her because her daughter's husband got a real nice job in San Rafael and didn't live with her any more, and she was getting the house looking real nice, and there would be lot of cherries this year.

"Don't cry, dearie!' Maisie slipped a protecting arm around her. "You see—he never did get the letters, did he? You were right, after all—weren't you? He never got them—"

"I'm not crying," Joan said steadily, poking at the little brass clasp on the envelope. "He didn't get them — he — never sent for them."

"You mustn't worry because he didn't write to you. You can't expect a young boy to remember long. They don't, honey, they just don't—"

"Yes, I know, Maisie."

"Well, then you shouldn't cry over him!"

"But I don't cry—over—"

It was true she didn't cry. Not even in the long nights when she lay wide-eyed and wakeful, thinking . . . thinking . . . It was her own fault. She had run after him. She wanted him to love her. She called him back that night in the moonlight when he wanted to go away. She called him back and begged him to kiss her goodby. And when he did she clung to him, and wouldn't let him go. She had thrown herself at him—cheapened herself — no wonder he was through with her—no wonder he wouldn't send her letters. Good riddance to that Johnnie Hastings, who was a bad girl . . . a bad girl, like her mother before her.

One night when she came home after work she found the table set with the lace tablecloth, and all the best silver that Maisie kept in little red flannel cases under the mattress in the wall bed. Maisie herself was all in a flutter, frying squabs in the kitchen. She pointed to Joan's room with a long-handled fork—"Fanny's in your room, resting. She just got back from New York—she's going to stay for dinner—"

"Fanny?"

"My oldest daughter—you know—the one I said was a dressmaker and married a French aviator—de Guitry her name is—she calls it Francine de Guitry. Don't you remember I said she owned that swell place on Sutter street—Maison Francine? Well, she goes East all the time to look over the styles, and she just got back—just put the salad on the table, will you, dearie, and call her?"

Madame de Guitry—no one but Maisie could have thought of her as Fanny—had the most languid of smiles for Joan. She sank into her chair with a faint stir of pungent Oriental scent, from her austerely simple black crepe gown. Her dark red hair was brushed severely back from her thin, blue-white face, her thin lips were scarlet, her cold gray eyes were shadowed with coal black, amazingly long lashes.

She couldn't be Maisie's daughter.

Maisie was pathetically proud of her. She pressed delicacies upon her, she plied her with questions, and ran an inquiring finger through the dark red waves of her hair.

Francine de Guitry during the meal was looking at Joan, closely, critically, as one looks at a painting or a piece of bronze. The languid air had slipped from her. Her eyes grew dark and snapping, like Maisie's.

"Walk into the front room and back, will you?"

Joan obeyed, self-consciously.

DON'T take a slap at the whole world just because one person has taken a slap at you.

How foolish for a man to condemn all women as grafters just because one girl used him and played him for a sap.

How foolish for a woman to place all men in a category with villains and crooks just because one trifler came into her life and lied and laughed.

Some of the happiest couples in the world today are those who met after unfortunate experiences with others, and appreciate each other's worth just the more, because they have learned the bitter lesson of misplaced trust and faith.

MORIARTY RESIGNS AS TIGER LEADER

UZCUDUN, PETERSON IN GOTHAM FINALE

SPORT COMMENT

by JAMES J. LONG

Bush Declares "Dreyfuss Comes First" in Denial of Detroit Dickering—Donnelli's Ability to Kick With Either Foot Recalls Brooke. Hunters Confused by New Week-End Game Regulations.

THE opinion of the majority of Pittsburgh baseball fans that there was no foundation for reports sent out of Detroit yesterday, to the effect that Donie Bush was negotiating with President Frank J. Navin of the Detroit club with a view to accepting the managership of the Tigers for next year, is confirmed by Bush himself in the following telegram from Indianapolis to the Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph, following the resignation of George Moriarty last night:

Donie Bush.

"As I have said before, Mr. Dreyfuss comes first. As for Detroit, I know nothing more than I have already said—that I have never had any negotiations with the Detroit club, and would not be guilty of discussing such a subject with any club owner while in the employ of another. I am planning on being in Pittsburgh this week-end or the first part of next week."

THOUGH Bush has not yet signed to manage the Pirates again in 1929, President Barney Dreyfuss says he has planned all along to retain him, and as Donie, in return, declares that the Pittsburgh magnate "comes first," it is clear that there is no desire on either side for a change.

The fact that Manager Bush intends to make a trip to this city within the next few days undoubtedly means that he is to have a conference with President Dreyfuss on the subject of a 1929 contract, and in that event it is not likely that any great length of time will be required for them to reach an agreement.

AS a matter of fact, Bush could not go to another club without the consent of the Pirate owners, according to President Dreyfuss, as his contract for 1928 contained a reserve clause giving the local club the right to his services for a continued period under the laws of organized baseball.

It is contended, therefore, that not only is Bush prohibited from dickering elsewhere, even if he desired to do so, but that Navin or any other magnate except the Pirate president attempting to talk business with Donie under the existing circumstances would be liable to stiff punishment by the ruling powers of the game.

BUFF DONNELLI, captain of the Duquesne University football team is one of those gridiron rarities who can punt with either foot.

Donnelli, a former Heidelberg soccer player, kicks right-footed or left-footed to suit the situation, and is the first gridder developed in this district in many years to possess that ability.

Buff Donnelli.

MENTION of two-footed punters will recall to veteran local fans the old professional football days here, when they were privileged to see in action one of the greatest kickers in the history of the game. He was George Brooke, earlier a star at Penn, and who was picked by Walter Camp for a halfback position on his All-America team in 1894 and for the fullback post in 1895.

Brooke first played here for the "Three A's," and later for the Homestead L. A. C. stars. If opposing players were charging in on him on one side when he was about to kick, Brooke merely shifted around and booted the ball with the other foot. He could drive it 60 yards, too, and was so little affected by onrushing would-be blockers that he often paused calmly to brush the mud off the pigskin before sending it down the field.

JOHNNY GOOCH, former Pirate catcher now on the Brooklyn roster, who has been in Pittsburgh for two weeks having an injured side treated by Bert Munhall, Carnegie Tech trainer, is making ready to leave Saturday or Sunday for his Southern home to spend the winter. The popular backstop says he has been benefited greatly by Munhall's treatment, and is planning a course of light exercises during the off-season which he expects to put him in the best condition of his career for the 1929 National League campaign.

TODAY ushered in the hunting season in Pennsylvania, and after days of waiting and eager anticipation the usual large number of first day shooters were found in the fields and forests throughout the state in quest of small game.

Johnny Gooch.

In fact, some of them were so eager this year that they neglected to wait for the first day of legal shooting, and since Monday numerous arrests have been reported from various parts of the state on charges of illegal hunting.

THESE arrests were due to a misunderstanding of the changed regulations put in force this year in Pennsylvania. Having failed to acquaint themselves with the alterations, many hunters started out on Monday in the belief that the season was to open on that day, October 15.

However, the season did not begin until today. The new Pennsylvania game regulations permit shooting only on Thursday, Friday and Saturday of each week during the small game season, instead of on all days except Sunday, as in the past.

THIS is the first time that week-end hunting restrictions have been tried in the Keystone State, and the confusion that resulted explains the arrests. Many of those arrested were honestly mistaken, but, according to the game wardens, there were others who "just took a chance." Another thing that hunters must bear in mind is that the rabbit-shooting season will not open until Thursday, November 1. The only game that can be shot at present (and even some of this protected in

HEAVIES TO END SEASON

NEW YORK, Oct. 18.—(AP.)—The job of clamping the lid on the outdoor boxing season, as difficult a task as the prying-off process in the rains of last Spring, will be undertaken again tonight at Ebbets Field. The final outdoor show will bring together Paulino Uzcudun, the Basque heavyweight, just returned from a trip to Spain, and Big Boy Peterson, of New Orleans, who will substitute for Roberto Roberti in the 10-round joust.

The Italian giant, scheduled first to close the season against George Godfrey and later with Uzcudun, took the ills that delayed both matches to the X-ray machine and found that he had been boxing most of the summer with two broken ribs. Peterson, who lost to Double Robert on a foul early in the season, was called in to substitute.

The match will be the last to brave the autumn chills out of doors. Fugazy hopes to stage the Roberti-Uzsudun lated in an indoor arena. Tex Rickard, master of promoters, staged only two outdoor matches this season. Both shows, the Sammy Mandell-Jimmy McLarnin lightweight title go, and Gene Tunney's heavyweight title defense against Tom Heeney, were financial failures.

PLAN BASEBALL SCHOOL

LOS ANGELES, Oct. 18.—(AP.)—Baseball has taken its place among the fine arts in academic science. A school, whose faculty will be composed of men who have won more or less fame in the realm of baseball, past and present, has been organized here for the purpose of instructing young players in the national pastime. Rookies of the diamond will come under the personal supervision of such men as Frank (Pop) Dillon, first base veteran of many years in both major leagues; Jess Orndorff, former Boston catcher, and Johnnie Bassler, former Detroiter and now star of the Hollywood Pacific Coast League club's catching corps.

The course to be given by the baseball school will be an intensive one, devoted exclusively to teaching the youngsters all the fine points of the game and what to do in various situations that are apt to arise. The course will run for three months, December to March, and negotiations are being completed for use of Wrigley Field here as the training site.

The school, its organizers said, has been started for the purpose of eliminating the haphazard system now used for developing players.

MAY NAME HARRIS FOR JOB

DETROIT, Oct. 18.—(AP.)—George Moriarty, manager of the Detroit baseball club of the American League, resigned last night at the expiration of his two-year contract with the team.

The resignation was contained in a letter to Frank Navin, president of the club, sent by Moriarty from his home in Woodstock, Ill. Beyond stating that the resignation had been accepted, Navin refused to comment. He declined to state if he had signed a new manager or had one under consideration.

Although nothing official was given out, it was more or less an open secret that Moriarty would sever his connection with the team at the conclusion of the past season. In the two seasons that he piloted the club the Tigers finished in fourth and sixth places, respectively.

HARRIS TO GET JOB

While the caliber of the team's playing roster was blamed in some circles for the poor showing, the view was said to have been held by the owners that Moriarty was in a measure responsible, and it was decided to replace him.

Stanley Harris, former manager of the Washington Americans, visited Detroit last week, ostensibly for a conference with Navin, and following the visit it was rumored that he would pilot the club next year. Queried tonight, President Navin said he had no statement to make on the subject at this time.

It was also reported the club was negotiating with Donie Bush, manager of the Pittsburgh Pirates, but this likewise could not be confirmed.

Moriarty's letter of resignation follows:

"I hereby tender my resignation as manager of the Detroit club. In severing my connection in this capacity, it is my sincere wish to convey my thanks to the fans and the press of Detroit for their support. I also wish to say that I hold Frank Navin in the highest esteem.

"Unfavorable circumstances played a part in the showing of the team this season. However, my contact with the game from the sandlots up has taught me to accept the reverses of baseball with the same spirit that accompanies success. That is exactly the way I feel about it.

"Detroit is a great baseball city and its fans know the game thoroughly."

MAKES POOR TRADES

Between seasons, two trades that proved disastrous, weakened the club in both the batting and fielding departments. They involved release to the St. Louis Browns of Lou Blue and Heinie Manush.

It was not disclosed whether the owners or the pilot was responsible for the dismissal of the two stars, but as the season wore on the stump in offensive and defensive power of

COUNTY LINKS IMPRESSIVE

By VERN SWARTSFAGER.

Director of Allegheny County Parks Paul B. Riis escorted newspaper men over the new South Park golf course layout yesterday afternoon on an inspection trip.

The event proved very impressive and the reaction to the new links was favorable. A large crew of men is working upon the construction of the layout at this time and have a number of greens and fairways well under way.

A complete review, with pictures, will be presented in tomorrow's Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph.

LEWIS DEFENDS TITLE

LOS ANGELES, Oct. 18.—(AP.)—Ed Strangler Lewis took two falls out of three last night to defend his title successfully against the challenge of Marin Plestina, Jugo Slav heavyweight grappler.

Double Windup Bill at McKeesport

TWO welterweights and two bantamweights will top off the weekly boxing card at McKeesport tonight with 10-round battles. The welters are Allen Beatty, of McKeesport, and Johnny Carey, of Erie, who will meet in the main event, and the bantams Howard Mayberry, of Donora, and Jackie Rodgers, of the North Side, who will box the other feature event. Mayberry knocked out Mickey Hart in three rounds at Washington, Pa., Monday night.

In two six-round preliminaries, Dominick Profio, of Cecil, the former amateur knockout star, will meet Tom Harris, of Lawrenceville, and Mike Hogan, of the North Side, will oppose Joe Ribnicky, of Donora.

Mike Moran, of Mt. Washington, has been matched for an eight-round bout with Eddie Weygandt, of New Castle, at East Liverpool, O., November 5.

BUFF TO BOX CARPENTIER

Frankie Buff, of Natrona, and U. S. Carpentier, of New Kensington, featherweight rivals, will box one of the six-round preliminaries at Motor Square Garden next Monday night, when Garfield Johnson, of Lawrenceville, and Maxie Rosenbloom, of New York, will provide the main event. In the semi-final, Young Rudy, of Charleroi, will tangle with Johnny Kusic, of Youngstown.

In two other battles, Joe Louder, of the South Hills, will meet Harry Spencer, of Washington, Pa., and Paul Karcis, of New Brighton, will tangle with Ray Braun. Karcis is a brother of John Karcis, the Carnegie Tech fullback.

Jack Katkish, of Lawrenceville, and Young Firpo, of New Castle, box the windup at the Jolly Bowl, New Castle, next Monday night, with Jack McFarland, of Wilkinsburg, meeting Joey Goodman, of Norfolk, Va., in the semi-final. Other bouts on the card include: Bud Bollender vs. Mickey Dugan, Elmo the Mighty vs. Mike Sala and Tom O'Leary vs. Johnny Francis.

Al Fay, who defeated Tom Sayers in a preliminary to the Otto Von Porat-Chuck Wiggins bout at Chicago last night, is a brother of Harry and Ray Fay, of Charleroi, and is a protege of Jack Kearns, former manager of Jack Dempsey.

Johnny Urban, Lawrenceville heavyweight, is back in town from New York visiting his parents and his brother, Jack Burke, also a heavyweight boxer.

Happy Albacker, former pal of the late Harry Greb, is visiting in the city and brings the news that he now is managing a pair of boxers whom he is anxious to show here. They are Gene Moretti, New Jersey welterweight, who has boxed Tommy Farley, Roxie Allen, Sylvan Bass, Frankie Hayes, George Tulley, Frankie Nelson, Al Trainer and others, and Mickey Rosenberg, a featherweight. Moretti meets Red Grange at Millville, N. J., Friday night of next week.

Tom Dolan, another intimate friend of Greb, also is going to handle boxers. He has a heavyweight under cover whom he will have ready to spring on the fans within a few weeks.

AMATEUR BOUTS TONIGHT

The North Side A. C. will hold another of its amateur boxing shows in German Masonic Hall this evening. Seven bouts are listed.

Harry Fay, of Charleroi, and Marco Polo, of McKees Rocks, box the semi-final to the Big Boy Peterson-Paulino Uzcudun bout at Ebbets Field, Brooklyn, tonight.

Johnny Dunn, New Kensington featherweight, boxes Tommy Paul in a six-round bout at Buffalo tomorrow night. It will be the semi-final to a 10-rounder between Jack McVey and George Nichols and will mark Dunn's third appearance in Buffalo, where he is a favorite with the fans.

Breaks Counted In Series

By CHARLES J. DOYLE.

AT the banquet held in his honor in Wilkinsburg Tuesday, Bill McKechnie brought out a point that shows the force of the breaks in baseball as well as the uncertainty of the grand old game.

"Consider the first game of the series," mused Bill in his talk to his friends. "Bill Sherdel threw something like 140 pitches to the batters. Two of these 140 pitches were thrown to the wrong spot and what was the result? Three runs!

"Sherdel pitched to Gehrig with Ruth on base and two out. He made one offering too good on the inside and Lou slammed it against the rightfield fence for two bases, scoring Ruth. Then he threw a curve ball on the outside to Meusel and Bob hit a homer into the rightfield bleachers." The score of this game was 4 to 1, showing the importance of the two misdirected pitches.

THE Redbirds, under the guidance of Skipper Bill, drew more people than any former Cardinal team. The St. Louis entry was in the flag fight from the start, and although the rival organization had good representation in the Browns, the fans of the two-team town came out in very generous numbers to support the potential champs.

McKechnie sings the praises of Miller Huggins and his men for their skill and sportsmanship; he thinks the Yanks are real champs, but down a little deeper Bill thinks that his Cardinals, moving along at the pace they displayed as they went down the home stretch of the National League race, could make a better showing in a long series of games. The Redbirds have tangled with the Yankees in the springtime barnstorming contests and Bill

A. A. U. WARNS ATHLETES

NEW YORK, Oct. 18.—(AP.)—To guard against any overstepping of American or international rules by touring athletes this winter, the foreign relations committee of the Amateur Athletic Union has issued a statement of policy. In effect, it warns foreign as well as American athletes to obtain necessary sanctions, as well as full information as to International A. A. F. and A. A. U. rules before accepting invitations to compete.

The A. A. U. committee makes it clear it will exercise full control of visiting amateur athletes and their itineraries so far as credentials are concerned.

While no definite information as to forthcoming visits of any foreign athletes to the United States ever has been received, it is understood a small group of Americans intends to visit Australia and New Zealand this winter. Invitations have been received for four men to visit Australia and three to go to New Zealand.

GEORGIE PECK BEATEN

FAIRMONT, W. Va., Oct. 18.—(AP.)—Joe Colombo, 145 pounds, of Clarksburg, won a newspaper decision over Georgie Peck, 145, of Pittsbugh, in 10 rounds here tonight. In the semi-final, Gregg Crebbs, 149 pounds, of Morgantown, and Steve Weldon, 146, of Fayette City, Pa., drew in six rounds.

STAR'S FATHER DIES

LAWRENCE, Mass., Oct. 18.—(INS.)—With his clothing and body partly burned from accidental contact with electric power wires, Fred Tootell, 47, father of F. Delmont Tootell, the Olympic Games hammer thrower, was found dead beside the roadway at Cruffs Crossing in Salem, N. H., yesterday.

MID-ATLANTIC MEETS HERE

With the possibility that McKeesport and Altoona will enter the Middle Atlantic League, there is unusual interest in tonight's meeting of the circuit, which will be held in the Henry Hotel.

It is understood Jeannette and Scottdale are to be dropped from the league and these two cities substituted. Jeannette and Scottdale, it is said, have proved too small in population from which to draw to make them paying spots for the league.

The status of some of the other clubs in the league is uncertain, Johnstown and Wheeling, and possibly Fairmont and Clarksburg, being the only cities sure to stick in the league.

WOMEN'S ATHLETIC EXPOSITION IS PLANNED

CHICAGO, Oct. 18.—(AP.)—A world exposition for feminine athletes showing women's sports as carried on throughout the globe will be a part of Chicago World fair of 1933, Miss Elizabeth Waterman, director of athletics of the Illinois Woman's Athletic Club, announced yesterday.

National games and sports peculiar to the various countries and a combination of competition and instruction will be included in the exposition.

YALE WON'T COMMENT ON SAVANNAH REPORT

NEW HAVEN, Conn., Oct. 18.—(AP.)—The Yale Athletic Association declined to comment on the Savannah report that Yale and Georgia may play in Athens, Ga., during the 1929 season. At the association offices it was said merely that "no comment is forthcoming." Yale has never yet sent a football team into the far South.

RUDOLF SURPRISES

NEW YORK, Oct. 18.—(AP.)—The jumpers were the attraction at Laurel yesterday in the $10,000 added Governor Cole Steeplechase Handicap. Rudolf sprang a surprise by winning by a margin of eight lengths over Jolly Roger, a heavily played favorite.

DUKES PREPARE FOR LOYOLA

By JESS CARVER.

JOHN C. HOLOHAN, the erudite graduate manager of athletics at Duquesne University, who was the first man to come to earth after the Dukes walloped Wash-Jeff with the exception of the coaches, spent a busy day yesterday fixing up his field for the crowd he expects when the Dukes meet Loyola University of Baltimore here on Saturday.

Everybody was busy at Duquesne yesterday. John was fixing the field, Brew Big Shot Jackson was taping up the players and Coaches Layden and Reag were working on the plays. The team has snapped back into the ol' grind surprisingly well since it broke lose against Wash-Jeff, and it is difficult to discover traces of the to-be-expected, over confide— about the squad. The student body is still blistering, but the players realize that they have as hard a task before them in the [illegible] for the tough games yet to come as they had in prepping themselves to succesfully cop with the Presidents.

Coach Layden will send somewhat of changed lineup into action against Loyola. Some of the freshmen who were barred from competing against W. and J. and who are in the right frame of mind will likely draw starting assignments. Doggo Burns and his injured knee will ride the bench. Steeves or Todd loom as the likely replacements. Capt. Bluff Donnelli has a wrenched side, but he will be available for duty.

BIG MEL BACK

Tech, with Saul Meilziner back in the lineup and at his old spot at center, is drilling on the offense for the Wash-Jeff game. Bob Waddell and his assistants had the white footballs out and the flood lights on last evening and worked the squad hard and late. John Dresher has been moved to a guard post, temporarily. The backfield remains about the same, with Harpster, Karcis, Letzelter and either Eyth or Moorehead at the halfbacks.

No startling changes are expected in the starting lineup that Pitt will throw against Allegheny on Saturday. It is possible, that Jimmy Rooney will be in the backfield in the place of Toby Uansa, who is nursing a wrenched side. If Toby is able to start, he will get the call.

The Panthers do not appear to have taken the West Virginia defeat to heart. The setback sobered them up, that is certain, but they will be a tough team to beat from now on. They had the licking coming and now they have fallen—lookout.

Coach Sutherland paid particular attention to the team's aerial attack yesterday and also drilled the boys on defense against the pass. Edwards was throwing 'em far true, and the receivers, whether backs or ends, were nailing 'em.

The line, with Monty Montgomery at center, Capt. Fox, his broken hand and Ruby Dimeolo at the guards: Mike Getto and Tully at the tackles and Jo Jo Donchess and Honeyboy Guarino at the ends is expected to remain as is. Lewis and Jess Grissinger, both of whom have shown strength at the guards are available for first call replacement duty at the tackles. Their work has served to cause Coach Sutherland to rest a sight easier when he is considering his reserves.

In Bill Loehr and Scanlon, the Panthers have a pair of wingmen who are fast approaching the class of Guarino and Donchess. Loehr is a sterling defensive player. He'll be a welcome sight when Guarino and Donchess have passed along.

Buck Templeton imparted the intracacies of Allegheny's forward passing and off tackle plays to the scrubs and the varsity was drilled in the defense against these plays. The secondary defense looked to be a much improved unit in yesterday's drill.

PENN STATE.

STATE COLLEGE, Pa., Oct. 18.—(AP.)—Another shake-up struck the Penn State lineup yesterday as the Lions went through their final scrimmage in preparation for the Penn game on Saturday. With two regulars out with injuries, Coach Bezdek switched linemen around frequently trying to find an effective combination for the first team line. Frank Diedrich was moved to the second team backfield for the first time this season during the scrimmage, but was later returned to his regular position. Hamas, Miller, Collins and Evans were the first team backs at the start of the scrimmage.

ST. VINCENT'S.

LATROBE, Pa., Oct. 18.—With the gradual return to form of Binda, who had been out for a week with a bad shoulder, Coach Clem Crowe finds his St. Vincent's College backfield in better shape than it was with the Jeannette boy out of it. Binda and Butula, of Pittsburgh, are the starting fullbacks. The practice yesterday featured fundamental work.

WEST VIRGINIA.

MORGANTOWN, W. Va., Oct. 18.—Realizing that one of the hardest games of the year is scheduled to take place at Laidley Field, Charleston, W. Va., where Washington & Lee and West Virginia clash on Saturday, Head Coach I. E. Rodgers called the Mountaineers into an extraordinary session here yesterday evening. Plans for the attack and defense which the Mountaineers will employ against the Generals were rehearsed and discussed. The importance of the battle was emphasized and the West Virginia gridders were made to feel that only by displaying a brand of superlative play will they be able to enter the game on even terms with the southern invaders. A record-breaking attendance is assured by the largest advance ticket sale that the annual southern classic has ever produced. Hundreds of fans from Northern West Virginia will make the trip on the special train and by automobile, thus augmenting the turnout from the southern end of the state.

W. VA. WESLEYAN.

BUCKHANNON, W. Va., Oct. 18.—The West Virginia Wesleyan football squad will embark this evening for Washington, D. C., where on Saturday afternoon they will clash with the powerful Georgetown University eleven. Coach Cebe Ross will put his charges through their last workout this afternoon and then togs will be packed for the journey to the national capitol.

For the past three weeks the Wesleyan team has been traveling far and wide on their football engagements. On October 6 the Bobcats were in New York City; then last week the Methodists went down into the heart of the West Virginia hills to Beckley to play Concord State and now this week-end finds them in Washington.

SCHOOL TEAMS TO MEET ON MUDDY GRIDS

Muddy gridirons, certain to slow down the fleet of foot, will greet the high school football elevens as they engage in a trio of City League contests today. The advantage will be with the heavy elevens and whenever it is possible the coaches will toss the husky boys into the frays.

The big game of the day and one of the biggest and most important of the season will feature South Hills and Perry in a Section Two battle on the Oliver High field. The game is regarded as the crucial contest of the Section Two campaign.

South Hills has been installed a favorite over the Perryites. The Mazeskites have won three league contests, downing Allegheny, South and Oliver in the order named. The eleven has shown great defensive strength in all three battles, and so far have escaped being scored on.

Perry, however, figures to give the boys a real run for it today. The Perrysville Avenue gridders have a strong line and have been pointed for the contest.

Two other City League contests are on the card for the afternoon. In Section I, Schenley will clash with South on the Bellefielders' field. This game may be counted as an almost certain Schenley triumph.

A second Section II fracas will bring together Oliver and Langley at Langley.

SERIES

doubtless knows whereof he speaks.

THAT the Cardinals went into a period of relaxation in the many days of rest in the interim between the close of the season and the start of the world series is the opinion of many close observers. The Redbirds had it much tougher than the Yanks in the closing day. When McKechnie and his men left New York for Boston a few days before the curtain fell they were only one-half of a full game ahead of the Giants, and the feeling was that they would have to fight it out with the Giants on the following Sunday, the day that marked the close of the race. The Yanks, on the other hand, had a lead of a game and a half or better on the in-and-out Athletics and appeared to go over the wire on their own momentum.

Sunny Jim Bottomley and Rabbit Maranville were booked for a vaudeville turn to be staged at the conclusion of the world series. The idea was O. K., but Sunny Jim seems to have crabbed the skit to a great extent with his "Casey-at-the bat" performance in a couple of games.

BUBBLING over with good feeling and humor nearly all the time, the two Redbirds might have considerable appeal on the stage; on the other hand, they might lose most of their naturalness if they stepped out as Thespians. Maranville probably would not, but his teammate would be doubtful quality as an actor.

Pie Traynor and Scoops Carey frowned upon a stage offer at the end of the 1925 series. Pie has turned down thousands of dollars in holding steadfast to an ideal. With others signing this or that in mock sincerity, Traynor has held aloof and as a consequence has remained a diamond hero in the eyes of all baseball lovers, especially boys.

Speaking of Sports

By HARRY KECK, Sports Editor

DOC CARLSON—that is, Dr. H. C. Carlson, Pitt basketball coach—will now take a bow. He is one of those terrible things known as an author. His book on basketball, based on the undefeated campaign of his Pitt Panthers last season, is off the press and getting some corking reviews. However, he does not crave any special attention in this regard at this time, for he also is a football enthusiast and former player and coach and does not want to rush the basketball season with football occupying the limelight. And, besides, many folks are likely to mistake a basketball for a pumpkin at this time of the year.

Speaking of troubled waters, the dear old Navy football team certainly is being buffeted around on them this fall. In three games to date, the Middies have not scored a point, have held their opponents to an average of less than one touchdown per game, and have yet to break into the win or tie column. Davis & Elkins started the damage with a 2-0 victory on a safety, Boston College then came along with a 6-0 win, and Notre Dame triumphed, 7-0, last week. Navy plays Jimmy DeHart's Duke University eleven at Annapolis this week and is looking for the break in luck that has been a long time coming. Meanwhile Army will be playing Harvard at Cambridge.

AN INTERESTING battle on next week's card is that between West Virginia, conqueror of Pitt, and Herb McCracken's Lafayette College team at Easton. It will be the first appearance of a West Virginia University eleven at Easton since back in the '90s. Relations were resumed last year after the long lapse and Lafayette was held to a 7-7 tie at Morgantown. Lafayette plays Bucknell and West Virginia meets Wash-Lee this Saturday.

The form players combed one out of their whiskers when Dominick Petrone, New York featherweight, was technically knocked out by Lou Moscowitz in the ninth round of their bout in New York Tuesday night. Although Moscowitz has been coming rapidly to the fore during the last year, Petrone was a 4-to-1 favorite to defeat him. He was floored twice with rights to the jaw before the referee stopped the mill.

HOOT FLANNIGAN, former Pitt halfback star, now is coaching a sandlot eleven, the Hose Company No. 5 Mountaineers of Martinsburg, W. Va. Two brothers have made good on the Carnegie Tech squad. One is a back and the other an end.

A strong fight is being waged against the boxing law in California, and it will be decided along with the presidential election next month. If the law should be repealed, the sport in the Golden State will revert to its status prior to 1924, when only amateur bouts were permitted.

NEBRASKA and Syracuse again furnish a leading attraction on the football card Saturday. Each always has found the other eleven a tough and worthy rival, and this year's battle is not likely to be any different from those that have gone before it.

The National Boxing Association could do a lot worse than to nominate Tommy Loughran for the heavyweight championship, as has been proposed. Given the title to defend, he certainly should make a swell job of it, in view of the manner in which he has taken on and defeated all comers in the light-heavyweight division. Jack Sharkey and Johnny Risko are the outstanding challengers among the regular heavies, and Loughran has beaten the latter twice with little exertion and should be able to outbox the former. Tommy now has the Pennsylvania commission in his corner in his fight for recognition, and that is a pretty good start.

DEVOS-SHADE MATCHED FOR CHICAGO ON NOV. 2

CHICAGO, Oct. 18.—(AP.)—Dave Shade, California middleweight, and Rene Devos, of Belgium, have been matched to meet in a 10-round bout here November 2. In their last meeting Devos gave Shade a lacing, compelling him to cancel or postpone several bouts until he recuperated.

certain counties) includes ringnecks, squirrel, Virginia quail, woodcock, wild turkey and grouse.

THOUGH in declining to recognize a native son, Tommy Loughran, as the new heavyweight fistic champion, the Pennsylvania State Athletic Commission takes the sportsmanlike stand that "championships must not be awarded without having been won in the ring," it also means to see that Loughran is dealt with fairly in the elimination series to determine the new occupant of Gene Tunney's vacated throne.

In short it declares that while it turned down Loughran's request that he be recognized as heavyweight champion, it does recognize him as a contender for the big title, and desires that he be given the same recognition everywhere else. It backs up this stand by serving notice that it will not recognize any fighter as heavyweight champion until that boxer has first met and defeated Tommy.

Tommy Loughran.

THE decision will be approved by all fair-minded boxing followers, including Loughran's admirers, who share the opinion of the commission that championships can be won only in the ring.

And a fair chance in the eliminations may be all that Tommy will need to acquire the title in the right way, as he shapes up, despite his lighter poundage, as being at least equal to any of the other men listed for the competition and vastly superior to the majority of them.

Fight Results

At Chicago—Otto Von Porat won on foul over Chuck Wiggins, three rounds; Haakon Hansen and Johnny Burns drew, six rounds; Al Fay defeated Tom Sayers, six rounds; Andy Mitchell knocked out Harold Scarney, five rounds; Leo Mitchell knocked out Sid Swick, four rounds.

At Barcelona, Spain—Bianchi defeated Cola, 10 rounds; Bernasconi defeated Cyclon, 10 rounds; Oldani defeated Jim Moran, 10 rounds.

At Fairmont, W. Va.—Joe Columbo defeated Georgie Peck, 10 rounds; Gregg Crebbs and Steve Weldon drew, 6 rounds.

At San Francisco—Frankie Klick and California Joe Lynch drew, 10 rounds.

At Newark, N. J.—James J. Braddock defeated Pete Latzo, 10 rounds.

At Mineola, L. I.—Johnny Walker defeated Barney Monte, 8 rounds.

GAME COMMISSION TO START FARMS

HARRISBURG, Pa., Oct. 18.—(AP.)—By authority of the game commission, the state will enter the game breeding business in a definite manner within the near future. The decision to start game farms, which will be used specifically for the propagating of rare birds, has been made by the commission, it was announced yesterday, and authorization has been given for the purchase of lands for the first farms, to be established in Montgomery and Lawrence counties. The action was occasioned, it was said, because of the excessive prices charged for the importation of birds for stocking purposes, due largely to the high tariffs imposed by countries through which the shipments pass.

MOTHER OF TWO SETS ENDURANCE SWIM MARK

NEW YORK, Oct. 18.—(AP.)—Mrs. Lottie Moore Schoemmel clambered out of the hotel swimming pool which had been her bed and boarding place continually for three days and nights yesterday, brought out with her a new world's endurance swimming record of 72 hours, 2 minutes and 40 seconds.

Restoring supremacy in this strange form of athletic activity to the so-called weaker sex, the new mark displaced the former standard set by Jimmy Cherry, an ex-sailor, in Los Angeles on Sunday night, not long after Mrs. Schoemmel took the water here. The blonde New York woman of 29, mother of two children, stayed in seven hours and 40 seconds longer than Cherry.

BAN JORDAN, HOLMES

PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 18.—(AP.)—The Pennsylvania State Athletic Commission today announced the indefinite suspension of Linn Jordan, Johnstown, Pa., boxer, and Bobby Holmes, boxer, of Erie, Pa., for their unsatisfactory work in a bout at McKeesport last week. The bout was stopped by the referee.

UMP TO VISIT JAPS

ST. MARY'S, Kas., Oct. 18.—(AP.)—Football fans of the nation will miss E. C. Quigley on the gridiron this year. WIGGINS LOSES ON FOUL

CHICAGO, Oct. 18.—(AP.)—Otto Von Porat, hard-hitting Norwegian heavyweight, won on a foul in the third round of his scheduled 10-round bout with Chuck Wiggins of Indianapolis last night. Wiggins was on the verge of a knockout when he fouled Von Porat three times with hooks to the groin, and the fight was stopped by Referee Eddie Purdy.

HAHN RETIRES

FALLS CITY, Neb., Oct. 18.—(AP.)—Lloyd Hahn has definitely decided to hang up his running moccasins and after that he doesn't know what he will do. BURNS TO PLAY AT M'KEESPORT

By TOM BIRKS.

INDEPENDENT gridiron followers in the district numbering many thousands were surprised when the news flashed around that the Burns club of New Kensington, 1927 champion, had forsaken its usual course of playing in the Aluminum town, and had actually signed to meet the Glassport Odds club at Rainbow Gardens Sunday.

The coup of manager Roy Quinn, of Glassport, in inducing Jake Luffy's club to go on the road at probably the highest guarantee ever offered in the district was much-talked-of in independent circles during the day, and with the exception of Billy Doll, Manager Grafton Sullivan expects to show in McKeesport practically the entire club that carried the Black and White to a championship. Wolfe, the young sensational scholastic player, who is keeping Sharkey out of the fullback berth, will probably start the game, and the Tube City fans will favorably compare him and Newlin, the Olympics' flashy halfback. Rainbow Gardens has a full capacity for parking facilities and is situated on the state road between McKeesport and Irwin. Considering the importance of the game, three central board officials will handle the contest, Sammy Weiss, the Tube City attorney; Cox, of Springdale, and Charley Nelis will handle the affair.

Manager Roger Patrizio is looking for the banner crowd of the year Sunday when Ed Ritter lands in Oakmont with the Eighth Ward Traders. Both clubs came through a real struggle last Sunday and will naturally be pepped for the coming battle. Coach Restizelli has been driving the Oakmonters hard all the week to further increase the hitting power of the Allegheny River aggregation. Ritter states that the Bloomfielders have struck their stride, and the win over the East Liberty Paulsons was the tonic required.

Word was passed around Bridgeville during the early part of the week that Manager Walter Der, of Bridgeville, was completing negotiations to add to the Firemen's lineup two of the brightest luminaries in the football racket. Der, when questioned, admitted that two men were being sought, but until they were actually signed the names could not be given. Evidently the Bridgeville pilot expects some competition along that line. Bridgeville expects to have little trouble with the Coraopolis gridders, but the following week will find something hot at the Speedway.

Manager Fred Iverson will take the Olympics to Akron on Sunday to meet the Awnings. The Tube City contingent will travel by bus to the Rubber Town, and Iverson expects that his charges will have a tough battle with the professionals.

Manager Kennedy, the pilot of the Big Red McChesneytown gridiron machine, will anchor at Springdale Sunday where his undefeated gridders will meet the Amicus. Plenty of interest always marks the playing of the McChesneytown outfit and it is expected that a large crowd will watch Crowe and Edwards in action. The fact that McChesneytown did not score at Port Vue means Kennedy will drive the boys hard this week.

LANCASTER, U. S. POLO STAR, PLAYWRIGHT, DIES

MONROVIA, Cal., Oct. 18.—(AP.)—C. D. Lancaster, 51, playwright, poloist and former Chicago hotel owner, died yesterday of an illness which had confined him to a sanitarium here for several months.

Lancaster became internationally known as a member of a world-touring polo team and a writer on that sport. He built and owned the Lancaster Hotel in Chicago; came to California in 1924, and here wrote the stage success, "The Great I Am," and several motion picture scenarios.

The body is to be cremated and the ashes sent to Shelbyville, Ind., where Lancaster's parents and five sisters are buried.

OUAFI, JOIE RAY TRAIN FOR BIG RACE SUNDAY

NEW YORK, Oct. 18.—(AP.)—El Ouafi, brown-skinned Algerian marathon champion, paced 12 miles around Madison Suare Garden yesterday testing his stride and working out the muscle kinks for his 26-mile race with Joie Ray and a half dozen other distance stars here Sunday night.

No time was taken for the distance covered by the wiry-muscled running machine that weighs only 114 pounds. El Waffle scaled that before he started and to the amazement of newspapermen was only a few ounces lighter when he finished. He perspired little and finished at a fast clip in fine condition.

The 1928 Olympic champion, with the bristly hair that stands up and waves as he runs with a smooth, effortless stride, will taper off in his training from day to day. He plans, however, to run a fast six miles on Saturday as a final warm-up.

Ray, for years the American mile champion, is training out of doors for the fifth marathon run of his picturesque career and his professional debut.

El Ouafi, who learned to run following his father's three-camel caravan in Algeria prior to the World War, soon will celebrate his thirty-first birthday. A strict vegetarian, he was the fastest dispatch bearer in the French Army before winning the Olympic tryouts of 1924 and finishing seventh in the International classic of that year.

Rather naively, the Arab explained through an interpreter that he took up running as a sport because it cost him nothing. All the equipment necessary, he said, was the normal afternoon attire of Algeria—and that does not even include shoes.

MEDITATIONS of a MARRIED WOMAN

by HELEN ROWLAND

WE MODERNS

SUCCESS in love, for most men, consists chiefly in keeping out of it.

Many a man discovers, too late, that what he considered his victory in winning a woman was only his Waterloo.

* * *

The bitterest moment in a woman's life is not that in which she discovers that the man she loves has been fooling her, but when she discovers that she can no longer go on fooling HERSELF about him.

HELEN ROWLAND

Before marriage, it is hard for a man to find words in which to tell a woman all he thinks of her; but, after marriage, he can often tell her in a couple of good, strong, unmistakable ones, that leave her in no doubt.

* * *

Any clever man may "get by" with a lot of petting and near-love-making, but it takes an artistic actor to imitate real romance, and make it click.

At twenty a woman always wants another lover to add to her string; at thirty, she often wants another husband; but at forty, all she asks is just another FLING!

* * *

The ideal modern wife must be a clever juggler, who can manage a lot of domestic dumbbells, toss plates with one hand, catch the point of her husband's jokes with the other, and balance a social ladder on her chin.

* * *

No woman considers that she has been "properly groomed," these days, unless she can go into a beauty parlor looking like a hag and come out looking like a houri.

* * *

When a woman puts her love-letters in a safe-deposit vault, it is either because she considers them previous mementos of a past love, or because she considers them priceless securities for a future bank account.

HOW TO KEEP WELL

Satisfy Hunger, but Don't Overdo It

DO you overeat? After taking all the food your body requires, do you add another course or two? I read the other day: "Every morsel to a satisfied hunger is only a new labor to a tired digestion."

DR. COPELAND

The instincts of a healthy body are to be trusted. Of course, if you have perverted and distorted your appetites by abuse of your organs, you cannot trust your desires.

If the wires of the telephone lines are crossed and tangled by a tempest, the ringing of your telephone is meaningless. It is not a call for you, but merely the senseless noise of a disordered system.

If you habitually eat food you do not require, or take foods that are harmful to your system, your stomach cannot be trusted to tell you truthfully whether you need more food or not. You just don't know whether you have had enough or really require more. On the contrary, if you are sensible about your eating, and practice common sense every day, you may trust your appetite. Your feelings will accurately record your necessities.

Then you will know by the satisfaction of your hunger that the meal should be ended. Under these circumstances, to add a single morsel, is only to give unnecessary labor to the digestive system. As the epigram states, it will give "only a new labor to a tired digestion."

The digestive powers are set to the actual requirements of the body. We must have so much protein, so much fat and carbohydrates. All we take in excess of our real needs must be worked over by the machinery of the body and be disposed of by organs which require all their energies for their normal work. We wear out the machinery by giving it unnecessary work to do. We tire it by overwork.

The other day I was in Syracuse and went to lunch with three business men of that city. They are successful executives and splendid characters. All of them are strong, vigorous, handsome, healthy men.

I cannot refrain from observing what people eat. My interest in health and nutrition makes me wonder how well these teachings of ours are affecting the public.

Of course, I noticed what my friends ordered. One took graham crackers and a glass of milk. One took fruit and a slice of cheese. The third took "half and half," a bowl of half cream and half milk. Into this he broke whole wheat bread and pieces of American cheese. This is an unusual combination, but an excellent one.

The milk and cheese supply the essential protein. The bread and cheese give the carbohydrates. The cheese and cream furnish the fat and vitamins. The milk supplies the minerals.

At another meal he will get the fruit and fresh vegetables to give his body the other elements. But for noontime, the orders of all these men struck me as a sensible meal on the part of each of these office men.

A light meal in the middle of the day and a meal so well balanced, is exactly the sort of meal the business man should have. It supplies the demands of appetite and does not tire digestion. Neither is it so heavy as to clog the system and send the brain to sleep.

Answers to Health Queries

M. B. Q.—I have spells of headache and pains in the jaw; also twitching of the nerves around the mouth. What would you advise?

A.—Neuritis may be responsible. Be sure that you have no diseased tooth which may be causing trouble. Examination should locate the source of infection.

★ Dentists tell the three fundamentals of mouth hygiene

HERE are the results of an investigation conducted among 50,000 practicing dentists. Their statements establish beyond any argument, certain fundamental truths about dental hygiene. It has been their experience that:

Acids are the most frequent cause of tooth decay and infected gums.

The most serious trouble occurs at the place where teeth and gums meet—known as The Danger Line.

The best product known to neutralize acids in the mouth is Milk of Magnesia.

It is easy to see, from this consensus of professional opinion, that it is not only necessary to brush your teeth, but also to use a dentifrice that neutralizes the dangerous mouth acids that cause tooth decay.

Squibb's Dental Cream was made with this purpose in mind. It contains more than 50% of Squibb's Milk of Magnesia—an amount ample to reach into all those tiny pits and crevices on your teeth which are inaccessible to any tooth-brush. The Milk of Magnesia thus counteracts the acids, and remains to protect your teeth and gums after use.

Squibb's Dental Cream cleans thoroughly, relieves sensitive teeth and keeps the gums in healthy condition. It contains nothing that can harm the delicate tissues in your mouth. You will enjoy using it. 40c a large tube at all druggists.

WHEN IT'S HARVEST TIME

Drawn by Dorothy Flack

IT'S harvest time—not only in the grain fields but in Love's field. Love's Harvest Time! All Summer he has tenderly cared for the seeds of Love which he has implanted in the hearts of his subjects, and now—the richest harvest of all is to be reaped. The harvest of love!

Is there anything in the world lovelier or more beautiful than Love? If there is, I'd like to find it, and I am sure Dan Cupid would, too. Perhaps to many an aching heart the harvest times come as a season of sadness. Because they know the mistakes they made in keeping Love away from them, in shutting their eyes and ears and hearts to Love's call. But who knows? It's never too late for love, so perhaps this Harvest Time will bring them the happiness they have longed for.

So if you hear Love's call this season of Harvest Time, heed it! Don't run fearfully away, for Love alone can give you the benefit of a crop that is older than Time itself—the crop of joy and happiness and fulfilled dreams that will stay with you always.

Love's Embers

Absorbing Sequel to "Revelations of a Wife"

By ADELE GARRISON

Light Begins to Dawn Upon the Mystery

LILLIAN kept her word not to speak to me until Katie brought the luncheon tray, and all the morning I worked over the intricacies of the code paper which had been secreted in Princess Olina's miniature case. I had the original now, which she had turned over to me, and I knew that when I had completed the translation, I would have the difficult task of preparing a trick paper which should resemble the original without betraying any of its secrets, and which she would be prepared to give to the red-bearded man when he should signal her to do so.

I was so absorbed in the task that only Lillian's insistence made me stop for the luncheon tray and a half hour's relaxed nap upon the couch of the upstairs screened balcony while she sat reading near me. Then she awakened me and we went back to my room again, where I worked until the characters before me began to blur and I put my hand up to my eyes in a gesture of brushing them away. Lillian must have been watching me closely, for she was at my side the next minute.

"I knew I'd be needed," she scolded. "You haven't one bit of sense. Now put this away, pronto. I prescribe one scented bath, one icy needle shower, fifteen minutes lying down and then dressing for dinner. You'll have just time. No, you're not going to show me anything. I'll look at them when we come upstairs again. Cover the stuff up. It looks like a sublimated cross-word puzzle to me."

"It is," I returned, laughing, and then I followed her directions meticulously. Indeed, she gave me no chance to do anything else.

Dinner was not a particularly lively meal. Of course, my father and Allen Drake were served in their own rooms, for they wished no premature betrayal of their presence at the farmhouse, and over the rest of the family seemed to hang a sense of something unusual and unpleasant. Dicky was in a distinctly bad humor and spoke only the most necessary and perfunctory words. I think we were all glad when the dinner was over and we went out on the veranda, where a few minutes later we were joined by young Mr. Jackson on one of his increasingly frequent calls upon Mary. A few minutes later Mr. Veritzen and Noel arrived, and as I saw the inevitable grouping of the young people, Mary with young Jackson and Noel with Eleanor Lincoln, I wondered what Dicky's niece and my employer's son would say could they know the real identity of their comrades.

I had little time for speculative thought, however, for the visitors had stayed less than half an hour when Lillian called me aside.

"I'll tip Phil off to take Noel away," she said, and will you give young Jackson a hint to stay away until you send for him? Invent any reason you please, but we can't risk having them around for the next few nights. Chance callers could be managed by some of us, but we don't want anybody who's specially interested in Olina."

Obediently I made an opportunity to speak to young Jackson, and with a sudden resolve tossed aside all subterfuge.

"I must ask a great favor of you," I said, when we were out of earshot of the others. "But first it is only fair to tell you that Miss Lincoln has confided her real identity—and yours—to me. She said she was sure you would not object. But I shall not address either of you as prince or princess. We must keep her secret for awhile."

He started violently. "You will—will—not tell—Miss Mary," he said, and I guessed that he was indulging in the romantic dream of wooing Dicky's lovely young niece as Mr. George Logan Jackson, and then revealing his true identity as Prince Georges of Trees.

"No, indeed," I returned, "but I must ask you not to come to the farmhouse for a few days—not until I send you word. There is a reason for this connected with—Miss Lincoln, which I will tell you later."

He bowed low over my hand.

"Dear lady, you know that your wish is my law," he said, and in another five minutes he had followed the example of the Veritzens and bidden us good-night. Mother Graham, Katherine and Junior already had gone upstairs, and Mary soon followed. Then my father and Allen Drake came down to the veranda for the outdoor air which they had been denied during the day, and they and Dicky smoked while Lillian and I tried to keep up a conversation with Princess Olina who was patently distraught. And, then, clear upon the air came the hoot of an owl in the signal for which we all had been listening.

EDWARD GARMAN

Penn. Mother Was Guessing

When your child is underweight, pale and listless, is bilious, sallow, feverish, fretful, with bad breath, coated tongue and no appetite, nine times out of ten it's a sure sign his little stomach and bowels are weak.

Don't experiment in cases of this kind. Just follow the example of the millions of mothers who are using California Fig Syrup to regulate their children's stomach and bowels and give tone and strength to these organs so they continue to act normally, of their own accord.

Mothers all over Pennsylvania are eager to tell how this rich, fruity, pleasant-tasting preparation clears up the most stubborn cases of constipation and makes pale, lifeless children rosy-cheeked, bright-eyed and full of energy again. Mrs. Katherine B. Garman, 5438 Irving St., Philadelphia, says: "From the very first my little son, Edward, had trouble with his stomach and bowels. It had me guessing until I decided to give him some California Fig Syrup. It stopped his trouble quick, brightened him up, made him eat. Soon he started gaining weight and now he's the picture of health."

See that the Fig Syrup you buy bears the name "California," so you won't be imposed on by imitators.

Tomorrow's Horoscope

Friday, October 19

ALTHOUGH the general trend of events on this day is under benefic rule of the stars, yet there is some menace from sudden decisions or whirlwind operations. New undertakings are well fortified, but ill-considered change, removal or travel may involve difficulties. Employment is under favorable auspices and personal matters are happily aspected. Favors may be expected from females.

Those whose birthday it is may expect benefits or recognition from employers and in new undertakings, but they should be cautious in the matter of sudden or ill-considered change, journeys or removal.

A child born on this day may have some singular gifts, as well as fine social qualities, equipping it for success in employment, in diplomacy, or in secret orders.

The keen spirit seizes the prompt occasion—makes the thought start into instant action, and at once plans and performs, resolves and executes.—HANNAH MORE.

ANOTHER UNSOLICITED TRIBUTE FOR ALL-BRAN

Good news for sufferers from constipation

Mrs. Kiell sat down and wrote us a letter when she had proved ALL-BRAN a safe "sure-cure" for constipation. Read her voluntary tribute:

April 4, 1927

"I have been using Kellogg's ALL-BRAN for quite some time and I want to tell you how much I appreciate it. I have found it a sure-cure for constipation, and know it is a remarkable regulator for the stomach. After using it, my family and I certainly will not be without it. I have even gone so far as to send some of it to my mother in Poland, Europe."

Gratefully yours,
MRS. ANNA KIELL,
77 Wolcott Terrace, Newark, N. J.

Perhaps you know what a terrible affliction constipation is. Blighting wherever it thrives. Ruining health. Marring beauty. Causing headaches, back pains, foul breath, loss of sleep—indeed, leading to more than forty serious diseases.

But did you know it can be easily relieved by a pleasant cereal food? Kellogg's ALL-BRAN is guaranteed to bring relief. Eat two tablespoonfuls daily—chronic cases, with every meal. Serve with milk or cream—fruits or honey added. Use in cooking. At grocers. Made by Kellogg in Battle Creek.

Women Praise Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

THERE are three trying periods in a woman's life: when the girl matures to womanhood; when a woman gives birth to her first child; when a woman reaches middle age. At these times Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound helps to restore normal health and vigor. Countless thousands testify to its worth.

"Since taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound I am gaining fast. When I started taking it I was always tired and worn out and had to lie down at least an hour a day. I am a floor-manager and on my feet a good deal and I have to work at home some too. A girl friend who had taken the Vegetable Compound recommended it as one of the best medicines. I have taken three bottles and I have improved in every way and am still taking it. I would be willing to help any girl who is suffering as I was by answering her letter."—Nannie E. Browne, R.6, Box 141A, Riverdale, Roanoke, Virginia.

"After giving birth to two children I became so nervous, suffered with headache and backache and could scarcely walk. I didn't want anything to eat and could scarcely do any work. After taking a few bottles of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound my appetite came back and now I can do as much work as any woman. I do all my housework, washing and ironing, and am assistant post-master for my husband. I have two big boys, one six who goes to school and one four years old. I tell my friends how the Vegetable Compound has helped me and recommend it to them."—Mrs. L. C. Machen, Hollins, Alabama.

"I had suffered for several years. At last someone told me to get Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and I did. I keep it in the house all the time. I would not be without it now, as it has helped me wonderfully. It sure is a woman's friend if ever she had one. It strengthens me so that I can do my work. I have taken it off and on for over 18 years. I live on a farm and help do all my housework besides raising chickens and working in the garden. I am the mother of six children and advise any woman or girl to take the Vegetable Compound."—Mrs. O. C. Shannon, Oakland, Missouri.

Pittsburghers Visit as Others Fete House Guests

No matter how many parties there may be on the calendar, I must stop for a moment to tell you about some of the folks who are either away from home or are entertaining visitors from other towns. Among the former is Mrs. Harry C. Milholland, of Wellesley avenue, who is in the East just now visiting her two sons and their wives. She is spending a part of the time with the J. Clarke Milhollands at their home in Hulett, Long Island, and the remainder with the junior Harry Carter Milhollands, who live in East Eighty-first street, in New York.

You knew, of course, that the William G. Costins have been down at Hot Springs, Va. I understand that they gave a dinner last Saturday night there, with Baron and Baroness Marcus Rosenkrantz among the guests.

As for those who have out-of-town guests, I hear that the Tom M. Girdlers, of Academy avenue, Sewickley, are going to entertain Mr. and Mrs. Cyrus Eaton and Mr. and Mrs. C. W. Lundoff, of Cleveland, over the week-end. The Girdlers will give a dinner for their guests Saturday night in their home and next morning Mr. Girdler is planning to have a stag breakfast at home, for Mr. Eaton and Mr Lundoff.

Also among the travelers are the Donald C. Bakewells, of Centennial avenue, Sewickley. They went by motor to New York and are spending a few days there, stopping at the Barclay, I believe.

INTERESTING from both a philanthropic and a social standpoint is the meeting-reception which Mrs. Henry R. Rea is going to give next Thursday afternoon at "Farmhill," her Sewickley Heights home. About 300 women who are engaged in the campaign for the new Allegheny General Hospital will be Mrs. Rea's guests, the hours being from 3 to 5 o'clock. Mrs. Rea, who just recently returned from Europe, is general chairman of all the women's divisions for the campaign, and this is her first step in welding the various groups into a compact organization.

There are three divisions of workers, including the auxiliary committee, which is headed by Mrs. W. C. Robinson, president of the women's auxiliary; the North Side women, under the leadership of Mrs. Walter McFarland, and the graduate nurses, undert he chairmanship of Miss Emma Schneidemann.

Mrs. Rea has also invited the Rev. Dr. Maitland Alexander, president of the hospital; H. L. Mason, Jr., vice chairman for the campaign, and a number of physicians of the hospital staff, who will discuss the campaign.

ANOTHER debutante party was given yesterday, this one in honor of Marian Stone and Louise Evans. A SMALL luncheon, with bridge following, was given yesterday in the Allegheny Country Club by Miss Martha E. Porter, of Sewickley, in honor of Mrs. Richard Newman, the former Mary Shields, of Edgeworth, who came on from her home at Fort Myer, Va., to be present at the wedding of her cousin, Martha Brooks, and Alexander Laughlin Robinson on Monday. Mrs. Newman is the house guest of Mrs. Benjamin R. B. Townsend, of "Fairway," Sewickley Heights.

THE marriage of Miss Mary Schreiner, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Schreiner, of Howe street, and John Hilleary Botts, of Atlanta, Ga., son of Mr. and Mrs. James B. Botts, of Roanoke, Va., was solemnized yesterday at 5 o'clock in the Episcopal Church of the Redeemer by the Rev. Dr. Robert N. Meade. The bride, who was given in marriage by her father, was gowned in white satin with a full court train, and her tulle veil was held with a coronet of lace. She carried white roses. Miss Janet Botts, sister of the bridegroom, was maid of honor, appearing in blue chiffon and velvet with a hat to match, while the bridesmaids, Miss Polly Kelly and Miss Margaret Jane Petty, wore Alice blue chiffon and velvet with hats to correspond. They carried cactus dahlias and blue delphinium. Donald Lee Wiltsee, of Winston-Salem, N. C., was best man and the ushers included John B. Schreiner, Lewis Hester, George Goodridge and Curtner Akin, all of Pittsburgh. A dinner and reception in the Schreiner home followed the ceremony, with covers laid for 30 at the bridal table. Mr. and Mrs. Botts will go to Georgia by boat and after November 1 will be at home in Atlanta.

This gives to Pittsburgh one of the world's outstanding jewelry establishments, both in beauty of appointments and broad range of precious merchandise.

GROGAN watches and clocks are "instruments of precision." There are many fine models exemplifying the talents of both watchmaker and jeweler, some of which are adorned with precious stones, but in every instant the case is regarded with favor only when it houses an accurate and worthy mechanism. A visit to this department will be found most interesting.

says BUTTER....

One secret of my fame is spreading
For the bread I meet at mealtime,
But most important is the Cooling . . .
I am given in-between-time.

ONE of the most necessary . . . one of the most commonly used foods is butter. For the table and cooking it is practically indispensible. But more important, because it is one of the most perishable of foods . . . sensitive to heat and odors, it requires careful preservation between meals . . . the cooling protection of proper refrigeration.

Butter, meats, vegetables, and foods of all kinds are at their best when kept in the consistently chilled atmosphere of a good refrigerator . . . summer and winter alike. It has been proved that but six days of the average year have suitable temperature for refrigeration by means of outside window-boxes.

If you have an ice-box be certain it is well filled with ice . . . as much in winter as in summer . . . and that the most perishable foods are kept in the coldest place.

Constant, frigid temperature is definitely maintained with Automatic Electric Refrigeration . . . assuring preservation of foods for many days without spoilage.

BREWERY WHISTLE 'ASSET'

The plant of the Monongahela Beverage Company, of Monongahela, Pa., is an asset to that community—"because it has a fire whistle."

That statement was made yesterday by L. B. Frye, director of public safety and an undertaker of Monongahela, before Federal Judge Nelson McVicar. Frye was testifying in behalf of the company in a "padlock" injunction suit brought by the government.

Under direct examination of Attorney Warren H. Van Kirk, counsel for the companny, the witness testified the concern had a good reputation and was a benefit to the twon, because of the whistle used to call out the fire department.

The government, represented by Assistant United States Attorney Joseph A. Richardson, charged the company violated the prohibition law July 20, by loading a barrel of high test beer on a truck and had other barrels of illegal beer in the racking room.

Judge McVicar reserved decision.

THE SAFETY OF YOUR HOME IS MEASURED BY THE SAFETY OF YOUR TOWN

Your own carefulness in safeguarding home, factory, store or other property against fire is a solemn duty, but it is not enough.

No matter how careful you may be, a bad condition in adjacent or even distant property may undo all your own efforts. Cities must be made safer. It is a civic as well as a personal obligation.

Here is where the Stock Fire Insurance companies—constituting the National Board of Fire Underwriters—have rendered a conspicuous service. Their skilled engineers work unceasingly to make American cities safer.

These engineers have systematically surveyed more than 400 cities, many of them several times. The improvements in water supply, fire alarm systems, fire departments and safety ordinances have been of great public benefit and a decided factor in the consistent rate reductions shown by Stock Fire Insurance.

New hazards, growing out of new inventions and processes, call for prompt engineering treatment. These engineers are always on the alert to provide the necessary measures.

This service is free to all cities, as well as to individual property owners, architects, contractors and builders through the National Board or the territorial board or Bureau of the Stock Fire Insurance Companies. Your own Insurance agent can give you information regarding this service. Inquiries are invited.

Forbes

Great Changes Are Coming In Big Business Methods.

By B. C. FORBES

TEN years from now great changes will have been made in the methods of conducting large financial, industrial and other business enterprises. Just as the federal reserve system divided the country into 12 districts, with a main establishment in each and headquarters in Washington, so we are going to see many of our principal business organizations divide the country into zones, set up an establishment in each and operate branches therefrom. In a sense, what we are going to witness is a modification of the chain store method of doing business.

THE head of one investment trust, for example, has just been outlining to me that he is working on the development of exactly this kind of set-up. In each of the 12 reserve districts will be organized a branch to serve bankers and other dealers in securities within its territory. The selection of the securities to be distributed nationally will be done by the head office. By this means it is planned to create hundreds of desirable channels through which to place trustworthy securities in the hands of banks and individual investors.

LONG ago the redoubtable A. P. Giannini intimated to me that he had a similar vision for the creation and development of a nation-wide network of banks. From his original institutions in Los Angeles and San Francisco he purposed to invade New York on a large scale, then reach out to Chicago and, in time, cover the whole continent. Subsequent events have shown that Mr. Giannini was very much in earnest, for he has since acquired the Bank of America in New York as well as other interests elsewhere.

QUIET progress is being made in the developing of so-called group banking. That is, powerful interests able to command a large amount of capital are actively working on a plan to acquire either the total stock or a controlling interest in banks in different communities. In most instances the existing management will be continued, but, where necessary, new blood will be installed. All the members of such a centrally-controlled group will get the benefit of the administrative and managerial brains of the high-priced executives at headquarters. Not only so, but it is figured that very advantageous arrangements can be made to enable each of the banks to acquire the right kind of investments for itself. Also, these banks are looked upon as very valuable potential outlets for new underwritings and other securities selected by headquarters.

ALREADY we have seen how Ford, General Motors and other aggressive motor manufacturers have acquired assembly plants, branches and suchlike properties in various strategic points throughout the country.

The most spectacular illustration of this trend is furnished by the mammoth mail order houses. Not only are they setting up large branch distributing houses in different parts of the country, but they are now rapidly opening up retail stores here, there, everywhere. Incidentally, the phenomenal rise in the securities of such houses has been influenced mainly by this branching-out policy.

Graybar Electric Company, the gigantic wholesale distributors of electric appliances, has operated on this principle of branch warehouses dotting the country and it has proved so successful that it is steadily widening its ramifications.

WHEN Bethlehem Steel, not so long ago, absorbed steel plants in different localities it was motivated by this same principle of having plants stragetically located; to cut down the cost of delivery charges.

Chain department stores, chain grocery stores, chain drug stores, chain tobacco stores, chain shoe stores, chain shirt stores, in short, chain stores of almost every description are sweeping the entire country.

Public utility leaders have been quick to see the potentialities of holding companies as instruments to make possible the acquisition of plants in many states.

Newspaper ownership is undergoing the same transformation, the largest publishers now publish papers in many cities.

THIS whole evolution is destined to bring about far-reaching changes in our financial, industrial, commercial and social structure. It will mean fewer individual owners of businesses and a great increase in the number of employes. But, at the same time, it is creating many millions of part-owners of enterprises—stockholders.

I, for one, cannot share the pessimistic view that this evolution will grievously cut down opportunities for the right kind of ambitious men.

COTTON MARKET

NEW YORK, Oct. 18.—The cotton market opened today steady at an advance of 1 point on July but generally 4 to 8 points lower under Southern selling and realizing by recent buyers. The latter was probably promoted by the failure of early weather map to show frost in the South and rather easier late cables from Liverpool. Offerings were readily absorbed by a continuation of broadening of the recent buying movement, however, and after easing off to 19.74c at the start December advanced to 19.90c by the end of the first half hour or 7 points net higher and 3 points above the best price of yesterday. While the weather map showed no frost in the Southwest temperatures were lower and there was a private report of frost at one point in Oklahoma. Late cables reported trade calling with London and continental buying in the Liverpool market, but prices there reacted several points from early advances.

The advance extended to 20.03c for October and 19.93c for December or 8 to 10 points net higher, but was checked by realizing at this figure. Trading became less active later, and there were reactions of 10 or 12 points from the best with the market about 1 to 5 points net lower at midday.

STOCKS WHIRL UP TO FRESH RECORDS

NEW YORK, Oct. 18—(AP)—Speculation for the advance was conducted with considerable violence in today's stock market. High priced industrials and specialties were whirled up 5 to 30 points to new high records, with a long list of standard industrials and rails advancing 1 to 4 points. There were several soft spots scattered throughout the list, however, particularly the New York tractions, which lost ground on selling inspired by the belief that the U. S. Supreme Court would decide against the higher fare.

So great was the volume of trading that the ticker fell 40 minutes behind the market by early afternoon. Total sales for the day probably will run close to 5,000,000 shares.

Call money renewed at 7 per cent but dropped to 6½, despite the calling of about $10,000,000 in loans. Some selling came into the market in the belief that the weekly Federal Reserve Bank statement to be issued after the close, would show another large increase in brokers' loans. Offerings generally were well absorbed.

Merchandising and chain store shares responded to predictions of unusually heavy earnings. Montgomery Ward was the spectacular feature, soaring 30¼ points to a new high record at 338, as contrasted with the year's low of 117. General Motors, which is expected to declare a 25 per cent stock dividend and a 2-for-1 stock split-up at the next meeting, changed hands in tremendous volume, touching a new high at 223½, up 4 points. Dupont, which has large General Motors holdings, soared 22 points to a new high at 440.

International Nickel, which is reported to be considering a 6-for-1 stock split-up, ran up 9½ points to 176, broke to 167 and snapped back to 172. American Type Founders, City Stores B, Jewel Tea, Frank G. Shattuck, Warren Pipe and Foundry, Kansas City Southern, Case Threshing and F. & W. Grand Stores established new high records on gains of 4 to 8 points. Allied Chemical jumped 12⅜ points, Loose Wiles 5½ and Radio, Wright Aeronautical, Union Carbide and Rossia Insurance sold 4 to 5 points higher.

Selling pressure was most effective against such issues as Interboro Rapid Transit, Brooklyn Manhattan Transit, Murray Corporation, Graham Paige and Motor Products, all off 2 to 8 points.

The closing was strong, Adams Express with a rise of 31 points, Rossia Insurance 21¼, Texas and Pacific Railroad 10, American International 9½ and American Express 7½ were the high spots in the final hour. Montgomery Ward reacted 10 points from its high figure. General Motors, Allied Chemical and Radio also backed up several points without diminishing the demand for other shares. Sales approximated 4,500,000.

Solving the Problems that Confront Your Estate

Money Takes Wings

FEW who are left the proceeds of life insurance in cash invest it wisely or keep it long. The temptation is to spend it quickly. That is why so many women and children for whom life insurance was purchased as a protection find within a few years that the money has taken wings and flown away.

The wise plan in buying life insurance is to create a Trust to receive the proceeds of policies in order that the estate may be carefully invested and conserved for the real protection of those for whom it is intended.

Our Trust Officers will be pleased to give full particulars regarding Life Insurance Trusts, small or large.

NEW FURNITURE MADE FROM ALUMINUM

By GEORGE H. SNYDER.

ALUMINUM, the magic metal born in Pittsburgh, has found its way into another product. For years it has been conquering new fields.

It is found on buses and street cars, on airplanes, in radios and automobiles. One of its latest adaptations has been to furniture.

ONLY a few years ago one of the pioneer aluminum furniture installations was made in the Mellon National Bank. This was followed by the use of aluminum chairs on the dining cars of the Pennsylvania Railroad.

Since then a market has been steadily developed. Production has grown from a tailored-to-order production to a well developed business with over 20 types of chairs carried in stock.

CHAIRS are not made of the soft aluminum found in cooking utentils. A heat treated alloy has been produced which compares favorably with steel in strength, but retains the advantage of lightness in weight.

All of the joints are welded so that it is impossible for an aluminum chair to squeak. It cannot splinter and start a run in a stenographer's silk stocking. It cannot be burned. It weighs about half as much as a wooden chair. It is as nearly indestructible as a piece of furniture can be.

Its wood-like finish is less likely to be marred than finishes in common use on either steel or wood. A forgotten cigaret will not leave a black mark. A blow with a hammer will not chip it.

ALUMINUM chairs have found their way into the dining cars of half a dozen railroads. They are used in restaurants.

Hotel managers have suggested that a top for tables be produced of aluminum with a wood finish so that they will be protected against burns which ruin expensive wooden furniture.

THE New York Life Insurance Company has just placed an order for 3,500 aluminum chairs for its office. A large passenger carrying airplane is to be equipped with aluminum furniture instead of the less durable wicker chairs.

ONE of the most outstanding instances of a corporation which has availed itself of the present favorable market for common stocks to reduce bonded indebtedness can be found in the Pennsylvania Railroad. This year the company has sold $62,500,000 of capital stock to stockholders and $17,500,000 to employes. Both of these offerings were made at par value of $50, although the present market price of the stock is about $65.

During 1928 total retirements of funded debt will be about $46,000,000. In the first seven months of the year $40,000,000 was spent for improvements. All of these will either increase revenues or reduce operating costs.

THE investment security business of the Bankers Trust Company has grown to such an extent that a subsidiary organization has been formed to take over the operation of this department. It will be known as the Bankers Company of New York. A. A. Tilney, president of the Bankers Trust Company, will be chairman of the board of directors and B. A. Tompkins, vice president in charge of the bank's securities operations, will be president. The board of directors will be the same as that of the bank.

SUGAR MARKET.

NEW YORK, Oct. 18.—The raw sugar market was firmer early today, with refiners showing more interest for nearby supplies. Prices advanced 1-32c to the basis of 3.96c for spots duty paid. Sales at this level were about 80,000 bags of Cubans from store for prompt shipment to local refiners.

Influenced by the steadier tone of the spot market, raw sugar futures were steadier during the forenoon session, with prices at midday net unchanged to 2 points higher. The old crop deliveries were relatively firm on covering, which was believed to be against sales in the spot market, while the new crop deliveries showed no change. Trading on the whole was not very active and was confined principally to the December position.

In refined withdrawals on old contracts continued of good volume, but new business was light. Prices were unchanged at 5.25c to 5.30c for fine granulated.

CARNEGIE METALS MEETS MODERATE PROFIT-TAKING

Recently active issues maintained a steady to firm tone on the Pittsburgh Stock Exchange today with May Drug reflecting further strength and Carnegie Metals meeting some profit-taking just under 25.

Discussion of the possibility of May Drug finding its way into one of the large national drug store chains was again heard but official information as to where the company will land is still lacking. Those on the buying side are confident, however, that the stock will see higher prices whether or not a merger takes place in the near future. Their assumption is that a deal will be consummated later, if the present rumored negotiations are not concluded successfully. May operates a chain of favorably located drug stores in Pittsburgh and the suburbs and has been able to withstand competition from outside sources with little difficulty. The move in the stock currently has been rather rapid, having started from around 22 at which the price it had been quiet for several months prior to the flurry which made its appearance a few days ago. Entrance of the Walgreen Company (chain drug store concern of Chicago) into Pittsburgh, is not regarded as a serious threat to May. The Walgreen Company's local store is at Sixth avenue and Wood street, in the Granite Building, but whether the company will open other stores in this city is not known.

FINANCIAL NEWS AND VIEWS

Ward and Motors Lead List.

The ticker was 40 minutes behind the actual transactions on the floor of the stock exchange at noon today, with quotations on the high-priced issues soaring into new high ground under the leadership of General Motors and Montgomery Ward. The General Motors advance has been confirmed recently by a wide upturn in the shares of the Du Pont Company, which is the largest individual holder of Motors common. Before the session was an hour old, Montgomery Ward had added almost 20 points to last night's final figure. Shorts in the issue were harried further by appearance of a scattered outside demand for the stock in response to a bullish statement issued by a brokerage house on the company's future prospects. Action of General Motors forecast another stock melon on the shares with the Street inclined to the opinion that it will probably be 50 per cent. Steel common held back, presumably for later performance when the traders will require some moral support of the kind Steel can easily furnish. Allied Chemical, however, went forward easily, convincing some of the close observers that Steel will come along later. Allied Chemical has a large investment in Steel common. A little selling made its appearance here and there as traders cashed in their profits under cover of the circus in the big stocks, but, on the whole, the trend was in the upward direction.

Harbison-Walker Record Earnings.

The net earnings of the Harbison-Walker Refractories Company for the third quarter of 1928 are officially estimated at $1,228,000 after deducting all charges for depreciation, depletion and federal taxes, which amount is available for dividends. These earnings are largest on record. They compare with $1,045,000 in the preceding quarter this year and with $893,000 in the September quarter in 1927. The directors will meet early in November to take action on the quarterly dividends on the preferred and common stocks. Net income in the third quarter is equal to 80 cents per share on 1,440,000 shares of no-par common, after preferred dividends for the period, compared with 69 cents per share on the same basis in the second quarter and 59 cents per share in the third quarter of last year. For the first nine months net is equal to $2.17 per share after preferred dividends, compared with $1.91 in the same period last year.

School Savings.

Nearly 14,000 schools in the United States now afford opportunity for school savings banking, almost 4,000,000 pupils are engaged in this type of thrift and their deposits are in excess of $26,000,000, W. Espey Albig, deputy manager of the American Bankers' Association in charge of its savings bank division, says in his annual report on school savings. "As of June 30, 1928, there are reported 13,835 schools in which opportunity for school savings banking is offered," says Mr. Albig. "These schools are attended by 4,609,825 pupils, of which 3,980,237 are participants in school savings banking, 1,687,602 each week. During the year these pupils deposited $26,005,138, received interest in the amount of $947,610 on these deposits, and at the end of the school year had net savings for the year of $9,476,391."

International Nickel.

Officials and bankers for International Nickel Company decline to discuss reports from Toronto that a splitup of the shares on a six-for-one basis and the absorption of the Mond Nickel Company are contemplated. The refusal of these interests to deny such reports, which have been given international prominence, leads to the inference that although no definite plan has been worked out, there is apparently some discussion, which is at a stage that does not permit of public announcement. It is known that several times in the past there have been discussions regarding the connection of these properties, which, together control 90 per cent of the world's nickel output.

The Rubber Stocks.

The rubber stocks, after a period of activity and advancing prices, have been reactionary of late. This is doubtless owing to the belief that there will be another tire price cut before the end of the year—probably around November 1, the date of the expiration of the Stevenson scheme. If a reduction in prices is made, however, it will not be at all comparable to the cut of June 15, last. At that time, the rubber companies were stocked up with 40-cent rubber, whereas at the present time they are all operating on 18 and 19-cent rubber. With United States Rubber earning around $1,000,000 a month, Goodyear about $2,000,000 and Goodrich approximately $1,500,000 a month, it does not seem that a small reduction in prices at this time would prove particularly harmful.

Stock outstanding consists of 96,930 shares of 8 per cent preferred and 50,000 shares of no-par common stock. Prifit for the first nine months of 1928 totaled $2,361,325 before federal taxes, against $1,929,205 in first nine months of previous year.

Zeppelin, World Wonder, May Visit Pittsburgh

Pittsburgh may have an opportunity to see the latest wonder of the world—the Graf Zeppelin. The damaged airship whose flight from Friedrichshafen, Germany, to Lakehurst, N. J., was a historic achievement, is expected to be repaired in a few days and a trip as far west, perhaps, as Chicago, is contemplated.

Pittsburgh has reason to feel honored in being included in the tentative route to be traversed. "I hope we can fly to Pittsburgh, Akron, Detroit, perhaps Chicago and other Midwest cities," Dr. Hugo Eckener, commander of the airship, is quoted as saying.

We, too, hope that Pittsburgh and as much of the country as is possible may be given a view of the first passenger and freight-carrying vessel to cross from Europe to America in the air. We will be glad to honor in whatever way we may the gallant Dr. Eckener and his wonderful crew.

As we welcome them with our cheers and salutes we can use our imagination. It will show us that seaports lose some of their importance and significance as we vision aircraft leaving interior cities of all nations of the world bound for interior cities of all other nations. While we now await the construction of an adequate landing field for airplanes we foresee the time when it will serve also for successors of the Graf Zeppelin.

The United States should have a special interest in Zeppelin airships since it was in this country that Count (Graf) Ferdinand von Zeppelin became interested in aeronautics. During the Civil War Count von Zeppelin was a Germany army military observer attached to the Army of the Potomac. During this visit his first balloon flight, in St. Paul, is said to have been the incentive that resulted in his future life study of dirigible balloons.

Connelley Assumes Much In Obstructing Speech

William Z. Foster, candidate for President on the Workers ticket (Communist), desired to hold a public meeting in North Side Carnegie Music Hall and Clifford B. Connelley, in charge of the property, refused permission, alleging fear of the danger of disorder.

Since the hall is ordinarily available for public meetings it appears that Connelley assumed a rather large responsibility in refusing to let a candidate for the office of President of the United States speak therein. The fact that Foster has a reputation of being an industrial malcontent has nothing to do with the merits or justice of the case. He represents a political idea and its adherents, and he has as much right, under our Constitution, to present his views about the kind of government we should have as either Smith or Hoover. You may regard these ideas as ridiculous, but you must remember that forcible repression of political ideas is what brought about the upheaval in Russia.

In a time of peace there is nothing particularly vicious about criticism of our government. Thousands cheer such criticisms when they are made by adherents of political parties with which we are affiliated. If Foster criticizes our government, which evidently is what Connelley fears, he does nothing that is not within his constitutional rights. He is campaigning for the presidency, which, of itself, is an appeal that you support him at the ballot box. The fact that you will not do it has nothing to do with the justice of giving him a chance to present his argument.

Carried to the extreme the Connelley idea would prevent political speaking by anyone except representatives of the party in power. That's what Russia did.

City Much Benefited By Bridge Completion

The North Side is making elaborate preparations for the opening of the new Sixth Street Bridge Friday night, and the incidental dedication of its two sister structures, the Seventh and Ninth Street bridges, open for traffic for months. There will be ceremonies, a parade and a banquet—a general jollification marking the resumption of complete unrestricted traffic between the business district of the city proper and the North Side.

Pittsburgh as a whole and businessmen whose trade has been seriously affected through the closing of the Sixth street span benefit through the opening of the latter structure. Closing of a main traffic artery for a long period has been a hardship but, to the credit of the officials in charge of the work, it must be said that construction was carried on as expeditiously as possible.

The three bridges, besides their utilitarian value, constitute something of which the city may be proud as an esthetic achievement. All of the same graceful design architecturally, they present a strikingly beautiful appearance.

A City Manager?

Perhaps an Assistant Mayor.

Voters may decide to run Philadelphia on the "city manager" plan, according to a bill that is to be introduced in the Pennsylvania Legislature.

Under that plan a competent manager will be picked out to run the city, instead of leaving management to the whims of voters and the political trend of the moment.

German cities are managed admirably on that basis, and the same plan has been successfully tried in America.

Some of the bigger cities, like New York and Chicago, might have a COMBINATION Mayor, a city manager chosen for his capacity, to get things DONE, and an ornamental, popular Mayor to receive delegations from abroad, fliers crossing the ocean, visit foreign countries and other cities and advertise the home town.

Garrett P. Serviss Says:

Phrenology

ON August 22 of this year occurred the anniversary of the death of a man who caused a great stir in the intellectual world in the last century and who is still remembered with interest, notwithstanding the eclipse of his once world-wide reputation. This man was Francis Joseph Gall, the inventor of phrenology. He was a native of the Grand Duchy of Baden, but his grandfather was an Italian named Gallo. After studying at Strasburg he received the degree of doctor at Vienna in 1785.

Already then he had begun to teach his new doctrine of craniology, or science of the skull, which afterward was named phrenology by his disciple and aid, Spurzheim. The Austrian authorities did not like Gall's new doctrine that the human faculties of mind and morals revealed themselves in the shape and the "bumps" of the cranium, especially because the clergy thought that such teaching was contrary to religion, and accordingly Gall was banished.

This had the effect of wind upon a burning pine knot and sent him flaming across Europe to Paris, where he reilluminated the expiring spark of sensationalism left by Cagliostro and Mesmer. At Berlin during his passage he aroused so much enthusiasm that two medals were struck in his honor, one bearing the inscription: "He discovered the instrument of the soul."

His tomb may still be seen in the Cemetery of Pere la Chaise, where only seven years ago it was restored by the British Phrenological Society.

Everybody must have seen pictures of a human head, charted with figures representing the location of the "organs" or "bumps" corresponding, as Gall averred, to the various moral and intellectual "faculties." Most large, illustrated dictionaries contain such a picture. Gall's belief was that the faculties manifested their relative strength by prominences on the surface of the brain and that the bony skull was molded in a similar way, so that the qualities of the mind could be read in the conformation of the head.

It was one of those simple, logical-looking ideas which bright but uncritical minds are apt to seize upon with ready and eager assent, and its inventor, who, possessed wit and eloquence as well as enthusiasm, had a "success foudroyant" in Paris, to quote Dr. Jules Thiercelin, from whom I borrow many of the details here given.

But after a time the scientific critics of Gall's system began to get the upper hand. One of their most stunning blows, because it raised a great laugh against Gall, was getting him to solemnly point out on a cast of the skull of Raphael the highly developed bump of artistic genius, whereupon they showed that the skull was not Raphael's but only that of a Roman priest.

Still, Gall had his defenders among some of the most celebrated doctors in Paris such as Corvisart, Napoleon's trusted physician, Geofroy Saint-Hilaire, and Broussais, but against him was the great authority of Cuvier and Laennec. Finally in 1859, 31 years after his death, the Society of Anthropology decided that Gall's system was false.

In the meantime all over the world societies and journals of phrenology flourished, and disciples of the great phrenologist traveled about giving lectures and "feeling bumps," to the great edification of crowds of believers or half-believers. Unquestionably phrenology had a strong appeal to thoughtful persons everywhere, and it contributed its quota to the growth of popular interest in the study of human evolution.

Gall left to the Museum of Natural History in Paris a collection of human skulls, which now includes his own.

Charity Is Universal

CHARITY begins at home, the old saying warns us, but true charity nowadays does not stop there. The war that broke down international boundaries for so long opened up the world as a field for charity forever.

The announcement that the Rockefeller Foundation is assisting eight institutions in eight countries in the prevention and cure of disease is not astonishing. It is what America has been taught to expect from that splendid organization, a pioneer in the field of universal philanthropy on a systematic scale. Canada, Brazil, Jugoslavia, England—the list reads like a world tour.

And in the meantime, the Foundation's work for the advancement of education, for the prevention of death and the general relief of unfortunate humanity goes on unceasingly in this country.

Faultfinding

IT'S all right to criticize your friends when they do things harmful to their physical well-being or to such popularity as they might enjoy otherwise.

But you cannot expect any friend to stand for constant fault-finding.

Sometimes your close friends have seemed to avoid you.

You have wondered why.

Without doubt it is the result of your censuring too often and praising too little.

Everyone likes to be complimented for things well done.

Too often commendable things are passed unnoticed.

They are looked upon as "to be expected," but this is a mistake.

Sincere praise from a dear friend is most appreciated.

It is not honest or just to compliment a friend for a piece of work which is not well done.

True friendship is honest, even when it hurts.

Too often personal reasons and a desire not to offend keeps friends from speaking the truth to each other.

But the friendship that places personal reasons and present comfort before loyal, steadfast candor is not the right sort.

The Rhyming Optimist

By ALINE MICHAELS

The Conqueror

THEY said: He is a man who never knew
His plans to fail, his cherished hopes to fade.
Always he saw his dearest dreams come true
And so his life is joyous, unafraid.
They said: He is a conqueror indeed,
Life's sometimes bitter drink for him turns sweet,
Each hour brings its answer to his need
And every path grows smooth before his feet.

They saw the surface. Little did they guess
That he had suffered loss and blow and fall,
For he, in truth, achieved supreme success
As conqueror of self and thus of all.

Great Passages from the Bible

The Baldness of the Righteous

(Proverbs 28; 1-14)

THE wicked flee when no man pursueth: but the righteous are bold as a lion.

For the transgression of a land many are the princes thereof: but by a man of understanding and knowledge the state thereof shall be prolonged.

A poor man that oppresseth the poor is like a sweeping rain which leaveth no food.

They that forsake the law praise the wicked: but such as keep the law contend with them.

Evil men understand not judgment: but they that seek the Lord understand all things.

Better is the poor that walketh in his uprightness, than he that is perverse in his ways, though he be rich.

Whoso keepeth the law is a wise son: but he that is a companion of riotous men shameth his father.

He that by usury and unjust pain increaseth his substance, he shall gather it for him that will pity the poor.

He that turneth away his ear from hearing the law, even his prayer shall be abomination.

Whoso causeth the righteous to go astray in an evil way, he shall fall himself into his own pit: but the upright shall have good things in possession.

The rich man is wise in his own conceit; but the poor that hath understanding searcheth him out.

When righteous men do rejoice, there is great glory: but when the wicked rise, a man is hidden.

He that covereth his sins shall not prosper: but whoso confesseth and foresaketh them shall have mercy.

Happy is the man that feareth always: but he that hardeneth his heart shall fall into mischief.

Tales that are Told

Worst Story I Have Heard Today

By WILL ROGERS

THERE'S a certain kind of a man that's a terrible crank at restaurants. All the waiters know him. Generally he's pretty mature and has been divorced by from two to five women that couldn't stand him and he couldn't stand their cooking. He complains about everything, and sometimes he gets awful mad when the waiter makes him holler the third time for coffee. So many waiters think you're joking when you ask for coffee, you know, and you have to remind them a couple of times.

Well, one of these old geezers ordered a well done steak, and when the steak came it was only medium done. The old fellow slammed his knife on the floor and yelled at the waiter, "Well done, I say! Well done, WELL DONE!"

"Thank you, sir," says the waiter. "I'm glad I got a customer that ain't afraid to say so when I do my work well."

Easily Solved

MURPHY and Maloney found themselves in rather an awkward predicament. Both of them were big men, and when they came to weigh themselves on an automatic machine they found that it didn't register sufficiently.

"Oh, well, we'll have to weigh ourselves somewhere else, Pat me boy," said Maloney.

But Murphy was impatient.

"Why, Mike, ye spalpeen," he exclaimed, "phwat's to prevent ye gettin' on twice?"

Umbrella Collector

A VERY absent-minded man, accompanied by his wife, was returning home from the theater.

As they reached the door of their suburban home the man clutched his wife's arm.

"Now who is absent-minded?" he cried triumphantly, producing two umbrellas from under his arm. "You've forgotten your umbrella, but I've mine and yours as well!"

The woman gazed at him pityingly.

"Idiot!" she exclaimed. "Neither of us had one."

New York Day by Day

by O. O. McINTYRE

NEW YORK, Oct. 18.—A young man or woman cannot live independently or decently in New York on less than $25 a week. And even this amount requires scrimping. Such is the warning broadcast by the Welfare Council, an organization devoted to helping the stranger within the gates.

It further admonishes boys and girls from the prairie cottage and village street that to come here without a job, friends, relatives or bank account is merely inviting a demoralizing situation from which only a slim few are extricated.

Blame is placed on the movie and fiction writers in general for creating a glamour of success seldom realized. For every handful that survive and succeed there are thousands who find their lives and character permanently affected.

The greatest difficulty for those who fail is they will rarely return home. The fear of criticism or ridicule turns them into professional drifters. The Bowery bread line and other charitable institutions are clogged with those dreading the home town scorn.

Those who deal with sociological problems are firm in their conviction that trained as well as untrained workers coming to New York for jobs should not attempt to experiment without sufficient funds to carry them through at least four months idleness.

This opinion is based on experiences with tens of thousands applicants served yearly by non-commercial registries. It is in the Fall most of the young hopefuls make the plunge to seek fame and fortune in the chilly metropolitan waters.

There is a deep rooted impression New York is the easiest city in the world in which to win success. This is true if one can weather the period of adjustment that is a natural outcome of a city so big and complex. My personal opinion is strangers should have funds sufficient to support them a year.

New York restaurants suffer losses in patronage through stupidity and stubborness of head waiters and waiter captains seating customers. One of the annoying customs is to place "Reserved" cards on unreserved tables. This is a method of holding back a good table for the unexpected and favored patron which in itself may be all right. The annoyance is in using it as a bait for grafting tips. Restaurant patrons should be permitted, as they are in Europe, to make their table selections in order of appearance. The hardened diner-out abroad never permits a head waiter to pilot him to some obscure part of the room if desirable tables are unoccupied. He demands his rights and gets them or someone is liable to find himself knee deep in daisies.

And this will probably not be received with a big hug by restaurant proprietors, but it is my observation the testy customer gets the best table, the best service and doubtless the best food. The meek-mannered and considerate are parked behind a palm within touching distance of the trap drummer and are given the consideration of an unpopular stepchild. The blusterer is the fair-haired boy in cafes.

* * *

It is also true people who would not think of displaying their temper in a department store or haberdashery shop will explode and raise the roof in a restaurant. To interfere with a man seeking to satisfy his appetite for food is to court a ruckus.

* * *

Until tipping is abolished restaurant service will never be ideal. The generous tipper will naturally receive the soft attentions the parsimonious are denied. The Chinese cafes come nearest to solving the problem. Most of them permit their waiters to share in the profits and a skimpy tip does not curl their lip.

* * *

"New York does not realize its debt to syndicated columnists who make that city far more interesting than it really is and bring hordes of visitors. And so modest are columnists they would never think of claiming the slightest credit."—London Times.

Won't Power

By DR. FRANK CRANE.

There is a good deal of talk about Will Power, but there is a stronger power than that.

It is Won't Power.

There is a good deal more power in holding back than in going forward. A mule can only pull a certain load, but if the mule balks it takes a great deal of power to move him. That is, he has more power in standing still and refusing to go than he has in going forward.

A man who ought to know about autos said one time that an automobile engine has more power in going backwards than forwards.

People are always complaining about their lack of Will Power. There are many books and teachers for the training of the Will. Alcohol and other drugs are supposed to impair the Will Power. A man is presumed to proceed along the downward path because he has no Will Power. That is the reason he cannot resist temptation.

But it does not take Will Power to resist bad habits, or otherwise keep from doing wrong. It takes something else that almost everybody has, even the weaklings. It takes Won't Power.

Anybody can be stubborn and mule-like refuse to move.

Some people cannot come to a decision; they are watery and inefficient when it comes to doing a certain thing. But even the most namby-pamby and vacillating can refuse to do a thing. It doesn't take Will Power. It doesn't take reason. All it takes is pure stubbornness. And even the weakest can be stubborn.

An old sot once suddenly quit drinking and stayed quit. I asked him how he came to do it. He said: "Well, I just happened to think that I didn't have to make any good resolutions or pray for strength or anything like that. I just didn't have to do it. That's all. Nobody, not even myself, could make me drink. I just didn't have to put the stuff in my mouth. I made up my mind that the best way to quit was to q-u-i-t."

This is a trick worth knowing. We can sometimes do things, or rather refuse to do them, by digging our heels in the sand and refusing to budge, better than by prayer and wrestling.

The first thing anybody wants to do if they have been doing wrong is to quit. Have all the emotions you want to after that, but all reform begins with what Carlyle calls "The Everlasting No."

Fanatics

WOULD you enjoy a personal letter from Christ?

Well, there was an epistle in my mail bag recently from a man who said he was Jesus Christ come back again to earth. And last week there came an effusion from a self-proclaimed prophet who quotes the chapter and verse in Isaiah and the Revelation where he is personally mentioned.

Needless to say my response was a recommendation to consult a good physician about their mental condition.

Just set that pair into Elijah's chariot and transfer them back a half a millenium and you'll find them with torch and sword murdering right and left "for the glory of God."

Such is fanaticism in all its pristine beauty. It has been the Mars of every religious war and has written the foulest and blackest pages in the history of the race.

When Rome sat as world queen on her seven hills the term fanatics was applied to crack-brains who spent their time in the temple, and boasted of their private telephone to Olympus and uttered rants and ravings which they dignified with the term prophecy.

Carrie Nation, the lady who borrowed Washington's hatchet and edged it like a razor, was a mother in Kansas, with a son in whom her sun rose and set. Kansas went dry and this humble mother shouted with joy. Then the politicians, hoping for another firewater deluge, started the cry all over the state, "Resubmission." Meaning that they would resubmit the dry bill to a vote of the state.

And Carrie Nation thought, "Resubmission; the open saloon again, and my boy." I quote her exact words as I heard them from her lips in a little town in Pennsylvania 20 years ago.

She went out and hitched the old horse to the buckboard and loaded up with stones, baseball size, and invaded Wichita. She threw the stones through the saloon windows and walked inside and smashed the bottles and bar mirrors with her hatchet. She was in jail some 40 times but never for the destruction of property, because the saloons were outlawed and were not property before the law. The charge was for disturbing the peace. And finally the chief of police told the policemen to follow the example of Carrie Nation and stone the illegal saloons, and they did.

Was Carrie Nation a fanatic? She had law and right on her side from the bell ring to the doxology.

The modern drys are not fanatics. They may even be irreligious. But they have law and evidence to fill a court house.
